'DIRTY LIE!' SAYS LEWIS, ANGERED AT HIS ACCUSERS

Publisher Is Stung Into Hot Reply by Crossfire of Questions.

CLENCHES HIS FISTS

Inquiry About Sale of Home Prompts Defendant to Answer.

BANK WAS ALL A DREAM

Utopian Finance Is Called Practical During Examination.

After a scathing cross-examination lasting all morning, in the course of which Edward G. Lewis, on trial in the United States District Court, branded a statement implied in a question asked by Judge Krum as a "dirty lie," the publisher-banker was released from the stand at 2:15 p. m. Tuesday. His attorneys will place him on the stand later for re-direct examination. Arthur E. Stillwell, president of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad, was then put on the stand.

In the midst of Lewis' voluble testimony Judge Krum asked him ironically when he would finish.

"I should like to talk a month," retorted the defendant. "I have been waiting so long to talk about these things that I do not like to be limited as to time."

When the counsel for the Government asked Lewis why he had transferred his house and lot in University Heights to his wife for a consideration of $1, when several thousands dollars' worth of University Realty and Development Co. bonds were secured by the property, Lewis sprang from his chair, and with his fists clenched, exclaimed dramatically:

"That is a dirty, deliberate lie of you and the rest of your bunch. The mortgage bonds were paid up before the transfer was made and I have been fighting for two years to nail that lie before a jury of my countrymen. This is the first time that you have dared to come out in the open with it, and it will be the last time."

Gives Passionate Reply.

Lewis was aflame with passion and gritted his teeth almost violently while he was uttering this denunciation of Judge Krum and the prosecution. He looked directly at the cross-examiner while he was speaking, and as he finished he shook his fist in the direction of District Attorney Blodgett and postoffice inspectors.

Judge Krum, who had subjected Lewis to a terrific grueling, remained silent. The attorney for the Government contended that loans had been made on the house and lot out of the funds of the People's United States Bank and that they had not been paid at the time the transfer was made to Mrs. Lewis. Lewis was sitting well forward in his chair when the question was propounded. He had been in defiant mood all morning, and had made sharp and sarcastic answers to the equally biting and sarcastic questions of Judge Krum.

The dramatic scene occurred a few minutes before court adjourned for the noon recess. Lewis previously had testified that a conspiracy among the express companies had been formed against him so that he could not transmit or receive express packages. He declared this action ahd been taken because the express companies feared that his certified check scheme would deprive them of much revenue from the sale of express money orders.

At the time the noon recess of court was called, Mr. Lewis met his wife in the corridor, who was sitting nearby. In view of all she bowed respectfully to her and kissed her hand.

Has Spat With Judge.

Just before the noon recess was taken Lewis had another spat with Judge Krum. He was asked by Krum why he had loaned to his enterprises $880,000 out of the funds of the bank when he had promised depositors and stockholders that he would not use the money of the bank. Lewis again sprang out of the witness chair and although he was vindictive in his manner toward the Government counsel, he did not answer the question directly.

"You and your secret, star-chamber sessions and your sandbagging processes so annihilated the bank that if you had had your way we would not have paid 2 cents on the dollar!" he exclaimed. "This was an attempt to assassinate my bank!"

Ruling of Court Applauded.

Judge Krum made a mild protest to the Court when he said that he supposed this conduct on the part of Lewis was decorous. Judge Carland said that, as Judge Krum had told Lewis to go ahead, he saw no reason why the Court should interfere. There was laughter and some handclapping in the rear of the room at Judge Carland's reply, which was promptly suppressed by the marshals.

In testifying regarding the receivership of the bank Lewis complained that

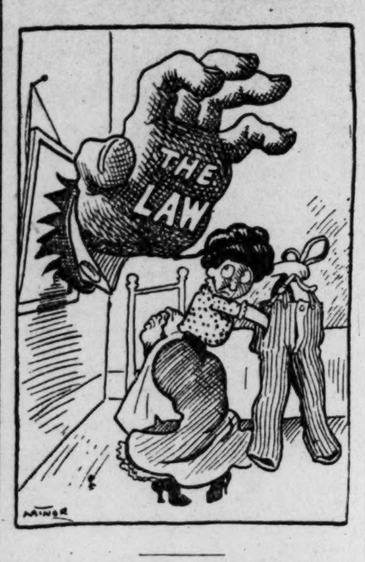
HUSBAND'S POCKETS ARE SAFE FROM WIFE'S DEFT FINGERS, JUDGE DECIDES



Massachusetts Court Grants Divorce From Woman Who "Frisked" Husband.

Judge Sanborn of Lawrence, Mass., has, according to St. Louis lawyers and jurists, established a new ground for divorce.

Nov. 18 the learned Judge did decree that David Wallace was entitled to a divorce from his wife because she "went through his pockets" at night, or "frisked him for change" while he slept and other wise intruded into his personal affairs. In this instance the Judge ruled that a man's pockets were strictly personal and that his wife had no right to intrude therein.

According to former Judge Selden P. Spencer, who has tried a great many divorce suits in St. Louis, the charge that a woman has picked her husband's pocket has often been brought in incidentally as part of the general charge that he has been treated "cruelly," which the Massachusetts Judge has decided is ground for divorce.

"Of course it is not physically cruelty for a wife to take the money from her husband's pockets while he sleeps," said Judge Spencer, "but it is the humiliation which a man feels when he finds himself without carfare when he gets to the corner that hurts cruelly. I have known many cases in which the picking of pockets was one of several charges, such as nagging, failing to get up in the morning and cook breakfast or slapping the face in a fit of rage.

"The decision of Judge Sanborn, if he is correctly reported, sets a new precedent."

'POSSUM CAN'T PLAY GUITAR, ROOSEVELT TELLS THE FAKER

"Uncle Remus" Says He Can and That Br'er B'ar Has a Fine Voice.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The President last night so far forgot his animosity to nature fakers as to entertain at dinner the pioneer nature faker of them all, Joel Chandler Harris. "Uncle Remus" was accompanied by his son, Julian.

In course of the dinner, it is said, the argument became animated. The President is said to have insisted that the opossum does not play the guitar, and that to say that he does is to impose heartlessly on the credulity of innocent children.

"I know he do," retorted Uncle Remus.

"How do you know, Mr. Harris?" demanded the President, heatedly.

"B'rer 'Possum done tole me so," replied Uncle Remus.

"At any rate, the President is said to have responded, shifting his ground, 'I am familiar with bears, and I know for a fact that the grizzly does not lure its prey by singing coon songs."

"B'rer Bar done got a mighty fine voice," said Mr. Harris, unconvinced.

STANDARD OIL ATTORNEY INDICTED AS JURY BRIBER

Former Ohio Senator Charged With Trying to Corrupt Venireman in Trust Suit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FINDLAY, O., Nov. 19.—Former State Senator Thomas McCormick, one of the best-known attorneys in this section of Ohio, was indicted today by the Hancock County grand jury on the charge of attempting to bribe a juror in the Standard Oil case, tried here last June. A hung jury was the result of the trial. McCormick was a Standard Oil attorney.

HITCHCOCK ASKS QUICK TRIAL

Case of Actor Under Indictment to Be Hurried.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—When the case of Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, under six indictments found as the result of the testimony of young girls, was called today before Judge Rosalsky, counsel for Hitchcock asked for an immediate trial and the case will be moved within the next few days. The District Attorney said he was willing to have an immediate trial.

CORN PLASTER CAUSES DEATH OF MRS. KIMBALL

"Home Treatment" Proves Fatal to Daughter of Mexican General.

LOCAL SOCIAL LEADER

Blood Poisoning Followed the Paring of a Callous Two Weeks Ago.

Mrs. Benjamin Kimball died at 4:40 a. m. Tuesday at her home, 4417 Delmar boulevard, from blood poisoning caused by "home treatment" of a corn. She was a daughter of Gen. Fernando Lopez, and was prominent socially. One of her daughters married Judge Walter B. Douglas. Mrs. Kimball was 65 years old.

Mrs. Kimball trimmed a corn two weeks ago and applied a corn plaster. Whether the knife or the plaster caused blood-poisoning has not been determined, but it is believed by physicians attending to have been the plaster. The foot swelled rapidly and was inflamed. Lancing did not relieve the trouble, and it was decided that Mrs. Kimball could not stand amputation. She sank rapidly to her death.

Mrs. Kimball was Francisca Lopez. She was born in Chihuahua, Mexico. When the Mexican War with the United States broke out her father sent her in care of a nurse, guarded by a squad of soldiers, to New Orleans, whence she came to St. Louis. She was then 5 years old. She has lived here ever since.

NOV 19TH 07

The prosecution entered a nolle prosequi today in the case of the People vs. the Weather Bureau, charged with attempted extortion for coal bills, after the bureau issued a forecast of stationary temperatures. This makes the evidence insufficient, the prosecution thinks. However, another indictment may be returned next summer. The forecast which brought about this result follows:

"Increasing cloudiness with rain late tonight and Wednesday; no decided change in temperature; easterly winds. The minimum temperature tonight will be about 40 degrees."

The river continued stationary at 5.8 feet.

The temperature in other cities at 7 a. m. were Pittsburg and Boston 40; New York and Philadelphia 44, Buffalo 33, Chicago 42, Denver 22, Kansas City 38, Louisville 34, New Orleans 52, St. Paul 30, San Francisco 54, Washington 36.

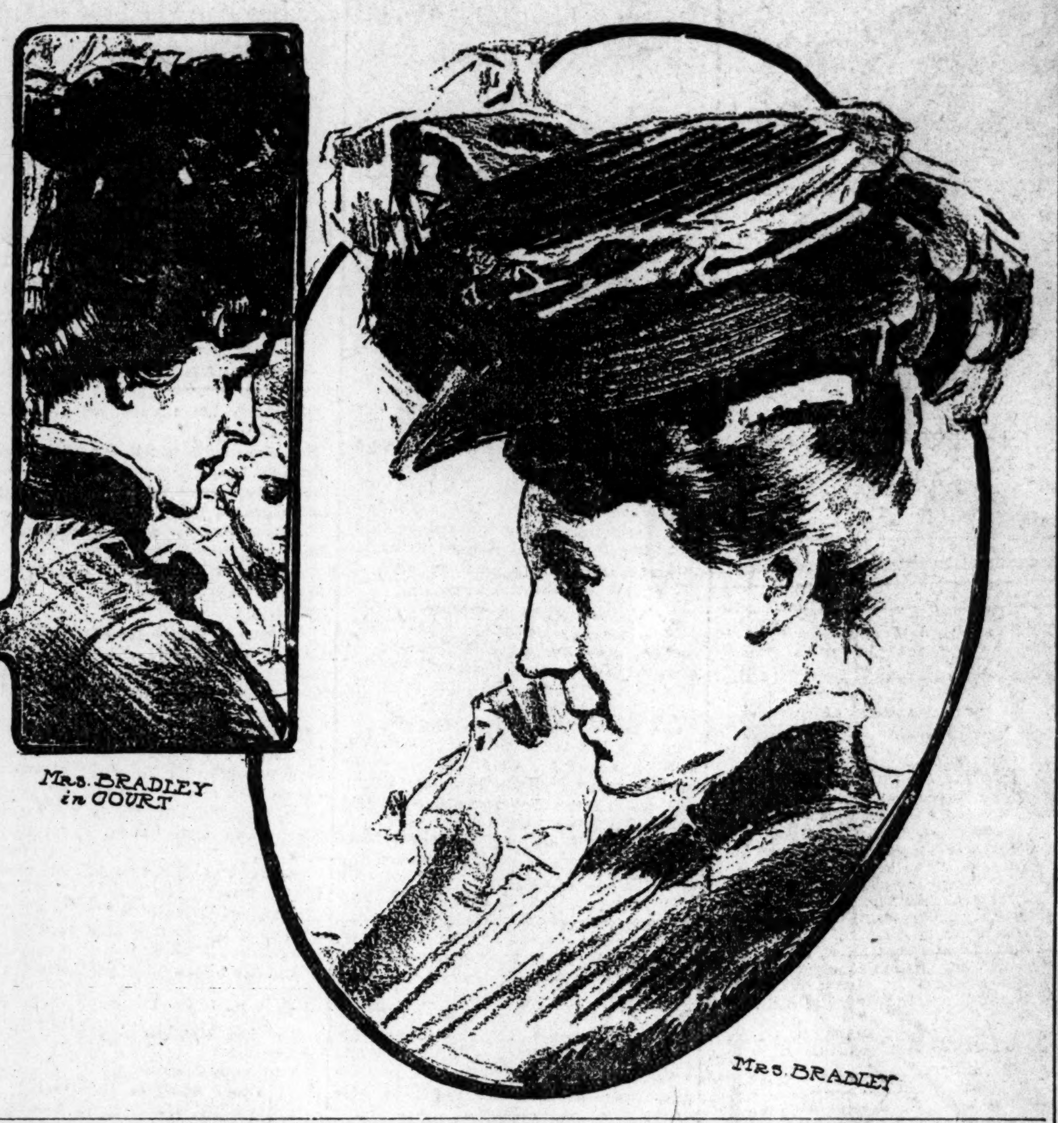
TELEPHONES "DEAD" ON SUNDAY

"Blue Law" Lid in New Mexico's Metropolis Is Strict.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 19.—Sunday without a newspaper, no street cars to ride on, no telephone or telegraph service, no tobacco, confectionery articles, soda water on sale, and, of course, no open saloons—these are the conditions that will exist here in New Mexico's largest city, if the court holds that the present Sunday closing law is constitutional.

Warrants have already been served on proprietors of shops and saloons that have persisted in keeping open on Sundays. The manager of the Morning Journal and the Bell Telephone Co. also were served with warrants.

A STUDY OF MRS. ANNIE BRADLEY, SLAYER OF ARTHUR BROWN, AS SHE APPEARS IN COURT



HIS LOST GLOVE CAUSES ARREST OF BOY BURGLAR

Oliver Forest Claimed Article Found Near Scene of His Crime.

In the arrest of Oliver Forest, aged 12, of 3805A Lucky street the police of the Dayton Street Station believe they have caught the leader of a daring and persistent band of boy burglars who have been robbing houses for the past two weeks in the neighborhood of Vandeventer avenue and Lucky street.

After being arrested at 8 a. m. Tuesday by Policeman Harry Barton, the boy confessed that he entered the residence of Mrs. Edward Powers of 3846 Lucky street and stole [illegible], and the home of Bernard Nary, 3850 Lucky street, and took $8 and two children's banks.

The boy confessed to Capt. Schoppe that he was one of a gang of boys that broke into a vacant house and saloon in the same neighborhood two weeks ago, tore the telephones from the walls, and took the money out of the coin-boxes. The boy gave the police the names of his companions in these robberies and they will be arrested as soon as they can be found.

As Oliver was leaving one of the house he had robbed he dropped a glove. This was turned over to Policeman Barton as the only clew to the burglar. The policeman searched the neighborhood for a boy with but one glove. When he saw Oliver running along the street with a glove on one hand the policeman stopped him and asked him where the other glove was.

Oliver replied that he had lost the glove. The policeman took the glove from his pocket and Oliver claimed it. As it matched the one he was wearing the policeman went to the boy's home and placed him under arrest.

Oliver was ready to confess when he reached the police station. He is the son of Mrs. John Coughlan, a widow. He has been incorrigible and would not go to school. He told Capt. Schoppe that he had been working in a shoe factory. He was sent to the House of Detention and the police applied for a warrant for burglary against him.

HAVE SOMETHING? IT'S ALL RIGHT, DESPITE "DRY" LAW

Friend Can Offer Another a Drink of Whisky, Supreme Court Decides.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—The Missouri Supreme Court today decided that it is not a violation of the law for a person to give a friend a drink of whisky in local-option counties. The case decided was that of John Fulk, who was fined $300 in Stoddard County for giving a friend a drink of whisky in his office.

Chief Justice Gantt wrote the opinion, reversing the decision of the lower court and discharging the defendant.

LEMONS CAN'T BE SQUEEZED BY LID, SAYS JUDGE

Supreme Court of Missouri Holds Their Sale on Sunday Is O K.

Lemons are judicially declared to be a medicine and an article of necessity in an opinion by Judge Fox of the Missouri Supreme Court in Jefferson City handed down Tuesday. Thus their sale on Sunday is not a violation of the Sunday law.

The case before the court was that of James Campbell, proprietor of a restaurant in Monett. Campbell was fined $1 for violating the Sabbath, the offense consisting of the sale of some lemons. Judge Fox declared that observance of the Sabbath should be enforced by law, if necessary, but that the law does not prohibit the sale of medicines and articles of necessity.

Permitted to Be Sold.

"Lemons are so universally recognized as possessing medicinal virtues," says the opinion," and so universally used by all classes, both as medicine and food, that they come under the articles of necessity permitted to be sold on Sunday."

"But aside from all this, while every good citizen in this State should have the highest respect for the Sabbath, and as to those who fail to properly observe it," added Judge Fox, "it is the province of the courts when legally brought before them to teach them by the imposition of proper punishment that they must respect the Sabbath.

Doctors Find Lemons O. K.

"It is common knowledge that the use of lemons is frequently recommended by the most eminent physicians of the country, and the response comes from thousands of households in this commonwealth that lemons are used not only to relieve colds, hoarseness and other ailments to which the human family are subjected, but in many families are daily used in the preparation and as a part of the provisions which relieve the hunger of the respective members of the family.

"We are unwilling to say that the law-making power intended by the provisions of section 2243, to embrace lemons in that class of goods, wares and merchandise which are, under the provisions of that section, prohibited fro mbeing sold or exposed to sale on Sunday. The many uses for which lemons may be required, both as a medicine and as a food, properly entitles it, if the proper conditions exist, to be classed as an article of immediate necessity, and as such the defendant had the right to sell it, and, if he could sell it, it logically follows that he had the right to expose it for sale."

Bloomington Man Missing Here.

At the request of his wife the police are searching for Clarence Howard, 28 years old of Bloomington, Ill., who left there Sept. 1, soon after his marriage. His wife received word from him that he was employed here, but she has not heard from him for several weeks. He roomed for a time at 1508 Olive street.

PASTORS' SUIT FOR $100,000 ON AT PADUCAH

Methodist Clergyman Wants Big Sum for Being Horsewhipped.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 19.—The case of Rev. F. M. Hawley against W. W. Meadows and others for $100,000 damages is on trial at Paducah in the Federal Court, the courtroom being packed to overflowing with spectators from all nearby towns.

The Rev. Mr. Hawley, pale and thin, sits in court. Mrs. Meadows, who caused all the trouble, is absent. The Rev. Mr. Hawley is a Methodist minister, who lives at the Meadows Hotel in Fulton while pastor of the Fulton Methodist Church. He claims to be the object of slanderous tongues and is before the court pleading for redress for injuries alleged to have been inflicted upon him by Meadows and five friends.

Meadows heard that the Rev. Mr. Hawley and his wife were infatuated with each other, and he expelled the minister from his hotel. She declared that she, too, would go. Mrs. Meadows left when the minister made his departure from Fulton.

Several days later the Rev. Mr. Hawley, who had been warned to remain away from Fulton, passed through. He alleges that Meadows and friends took him from a train and horsewhipped him until his flesh was raw.

The jury was impaneled shortly before noon. As to H. N. Oliver, one of the defendants, the case was dismissed. An array of attorneys such as never before has been seen in West Kentucky is acting in the case. Among them is Congressman Ollie James of Marion, for the defendant.

CHICAGO MAYOR LIKES THE 'POSSUM AND SWEET 'TATERS OF THE SOUTH

Mr. Busse Inspects a Real City on His Way Back From Hunting Trip.

Mayor Busse of Chicago and 10 of his friends passed through St. Louis Tuesday on their way home from the river bottoms of the Mississippi where they spent 10 days hunting. The hefty Mayor didn't kill any bear, but he bagged two opossums and he says that he found out that all he had ever heard about Southern hospitality was literaly true.

During their stay of one hour in St. Louis the party took a walk through the downtown district. The Mayor was kind enough to say that St. Louis is "quite a city."

MRS. BRADLEY SAYS BROWN SPURNED HER ILL AND PENNILESS

Weeps as She Tells of Sacrifices She Made For Man Whom She Afterward Slew.

SHE SWEARS HE PURSUED HER UNTIL SHE YIELDED

He Promised to Stand by Her Through Life, She Testifies—Tells of Her Early Struggles to Make a Living, and of Her Unhappy Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Women wept openly and men averted their faces in the crowded Criminal Court today during the recital of as tragic a life story as has ever been told in a Washington courtroom, when Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, slayer of former United States Senator Arthur Brown, took the witness stand in her own behalf and told of her love for the man she slew.

The narrative was broken by sobs that at times made her voice inaudible ten feet away, where sat the jury which is to decide her fate. When, in answer to her attorney's question, she whispered: "I didn't believe it possible for any man to ask a woman to do what he asked me to do unless he cared for her," her head drooped and she gave way to a torrent of tears.

She told of her early struggles to make a living, of her unhappy married life, of her meeting with Arthur Brown, of the growth of her love for him, of the temptations he threw in her way, of his promise to stand by her, to love and to care for her for life, and finally of the sacrifices she made for him. She summed up the story of her fall in the following words:

"The Senator told me he was unhappy, very wretched. I had told him that our relationship could only result in grief and sorrow, and he replied that he would stay by me all my life. Finally he came to me and said: 'Darling, we are going on together all through life; you can't avoid me.' Finally, after several months, I consented."

"Consented to what?" asked the lawyer, quietly.

"To his proposition," responded the witness.

She said the son had been christened in Brown's presence and that it had borne the Senator's name. He had wanted to get a divorce and marry her, she said, but she would not consent to break up his home and tried to break the relationship, but he would not have it so, and frequently would come to her, saying she was the only bright spot in his life.

"Did you believe in his protestations of affection?"

"I didn't believe it possible for any one to ask a woman to bear him a child and not be fond of her," she answered.

Tells of Her Early Struggles.

In answer to her attorney's questions, Mrs. Bradley commenced her narrative by telling of her birth in Kansas City, Mo., 35 years ago. Her education was received in Denver, Colo. When 15 years of age she began her struggle for life as a bookkeeper and cashier in a Denver clothing store. She told of receiving an injury to her head when a child.

"The spot is to this day sensitive to the touch," she said.

In April, 1890, she moved to Salt Lake City, which ever since has been her home.

"Whom did you marry?" asked Judge Powers.

"Clarence Bradley, on Sept. 20, 1893."

"Were any children born?"

"Matthew Bradley was born Oct. 7, 1894, and Margaret, March 20, 1898."

"When did you join the Salt Lake Women's Club?"

"January, 1894. I was its corresponding secretary."

"Did you belong to any other organization?"

"The Women's Press Club and the Poet's Round Table, a small club."

"After your marriage did you take an active part in politics?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were you selected by your party for any public position?"

"I was secretary of the State Republican Committee from 1900 to 1902."

Married Life Unhappy.

"Was your married life happy or unhappy?"

"Unhappy."

"When did you and your husband cease to live together?"

"In the summer of '98."

"Have you been divorced from him?"

"Yes, in December, 1905."

"Did you know ex-Senator Arthur Brown?"

"Yes, sir; I met him in 1892."

"Where?"

"With my uncle, William H. Ryan."

Tears came to Mrs. Bradley's eyes, her voice choked and she was scarcely able to go on.

"I became very well acquainted with [illegible]nator Brown in 1898," continued the [illegible]endant.

BRIDE WHO WED ON SICKBED DIES FOUR DAYS LATER

Husband Attends Victim of Appendicitis Until End Comes.

Mrs. John H. Gates, 24 years ol[illegible], a bride of four days, died at the Nor[illegible]die Hotel, Theresa and Franklin avenues, at 10:15 a. m., Tuesday, after four operations for appendicitis had been performed upon her.

The knife was used for the last time Monday night and the ordeal left her weak. It was thought she had a chance for recovery, but she became unconscious early Tuesday and failed to rally.

With her when she died was her young husband, whom she wed last Friday evening, an hour before the first operation was performed.

She formerly was Mrs. Lillian Wilson, a widow. She became acquainted with Mr. Gates while both were guests at a hotel at 3127 Locust street. The wedding was to have taken place Thanksgiving day, but Mrs. Wilson became suddenly ill of appendicitis and physicians said an operation would be necessary. Mr. Gates insisted that the ceremony be performed at once.

Ceremony on Sickbed.

With his fiancee's father, C. H. Warth, he obtained a license and Rev. William J. Williamson of the Third Baptist Church hurried to the Normandie and performed the ceremony as the bride lay on her sickbed.

An hour after the first of four operations were performed, her condition became so critical that all her relatives were smumoned. Mr. Gates was in constant attendance on his stricken bride throughout her illness.

Relatives Called at End.

There were present at Mrs. [illegible]ates' death bed, in addition to her h[illegible]d and father, her mother and tw[illegible]ers. All had come from [illegible] Ok. Mrs. Warth had [illegible] Louis for the purpose of a[illegible] daughter's wedding. The bro[illegible]rived in response to telegrams in[illegible]ing them of Mrs. Gates' serious illness.

While the funeral arrangements have not been completed, it is thought the body will be taken to Muskogee for interment.

YOUNG BANK CASHIER ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE

DES MOINES, Io., Nov. 19.—Ralph Flannigan, cashier of the First National Bank at Pleasantville, shot himself today with suicidal intent. He will die. The cause is unknown.

The people of Pleasantville believe the bank is sound. Flannigan has been cashier for two years, although only 2[illegible] years old.

NGINEER LOOKS T WATCH AND TRAINS COLLIDE

ne Is Killed and Many Are Hurt in Wreck on Vandalia Line.

oseph McClelland of East St. Louis, Engineer, Crushed to Death.

An engineer's error in time, due to a o hasty glance at his watch, caused e head-on collision in which Joseph . McClelland of East St. Louis, engineer of the eastbound Vandalia fast ail, was killed at Vevay Park, Ill., 0 miles from St. Louis, in the fog of uesday's daybreak.

Frank Stice of Indianapolis, conductor f the Terre Haute and Indianapolis xpress, with which the fast mail collided, arrived at Union Station Tuesday fternoon on a train, five hours late, hich is the next through train after is own. He told a Post-Dispatch eporter at the station of the disaster, r which he blamed the engineer of his rain, A. M. Hennell of East St. Louis.

"We were running more than an our late," said Conductor Stice. "We ad orders to sidetrack at Vevay 'ark, I supposed Hennel would run n on the sidetrack as ordered. Instead, he did not slow up at all.

Train Was Slowing Down.

"I pulled the rope, and he began o slow down. I supposed then that e meant to run to the other end of he sidetrack and back on. Before e could do this, and while we were unning very slowly, the fast mail as into us.

"My engineer and fireman saved hemselves by jumping, as did the reman of the fast mail. Engineer McClelland stayed at his place until he crash came. We found his body ying some distance away, the skull rushed.

"The express messenger on my rain, named Fletcher, was badly urt. There was no one else seriously urt, although everyone on board as shaken up, and a good many ruised and cut.

"My engineer said after the wreck hat he looked at his watch just before e got to Vevay Park, and thought it as 4:20, and that he had plenty of time o meet the mail. Instead, it was 5:25, nd he would have had just time to get n the sidetrack in compliance with his rders."

The conductor was greatly agitated as e told his story of the wreck, which he aid was his first in 20 years of railroading.

Engineer Hennel went to Terre Haute fter the wreck.

Operator Watts of the Vevay Park ignal tower saw, when the express rain ran past the sidetrack, that a collision with the mail was inevitable, and e notified the train dispatcher at Terre Haute. Orders to dispatch the wrecking rew to Vevay Park were issued at division headquarters in Terre Haute before actual news of the wreck was re[illegible].

Several Passengers Hurt.

An Adams express car of the westbound train was burned, and one of the mail cars of the fast mail was smashed, as was the combination baggage and smoking car of the passenger train. Both engines were demolished. Wrecking crews threw the engines and the three coaches into the ditch, after the removal of all their accessible contents, and succeeded in clearing the track at a. m., three and one-half hours after the accident.

The fast mail, No. 12, left Union Station at 2:20 a. m. It was composed of four mail cars and one day coach. The Terre Haute & Indianapolis express, due at Union Station at 7 a. m., carried an express car, a combination car and two sleepers from Columbus.

Mail Had Right of Way.

McClelland was a widower, and lived at 915 Baugh avenue, East St. Louis. His daughter, a young woman, and a housekeeper lived at his home. The housekeeper went to Effingham a few days ago, and the daughter, receiving the news through neighbors Tuesday, was prostrated.

Engineer Hennel's home is at 344A Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis.

DIVORCE SUIT OF ENGINEER IN WRECK WAS FILED TODAY

Shortly after the wreck a suit for divorce in the name of Engineer Albert M. Hennell against Mary E. Hennell was filed in the Circuit Court of St. Clair County. Hennell's petition says that he was married Oct. 24, 1882, and lived with his wife until May 1, 1907. [illegible]ell lives with his thre children, [illegible] 23; Paul, 20, and Jane 17. WOMAN BADLY HURT BY WAGON

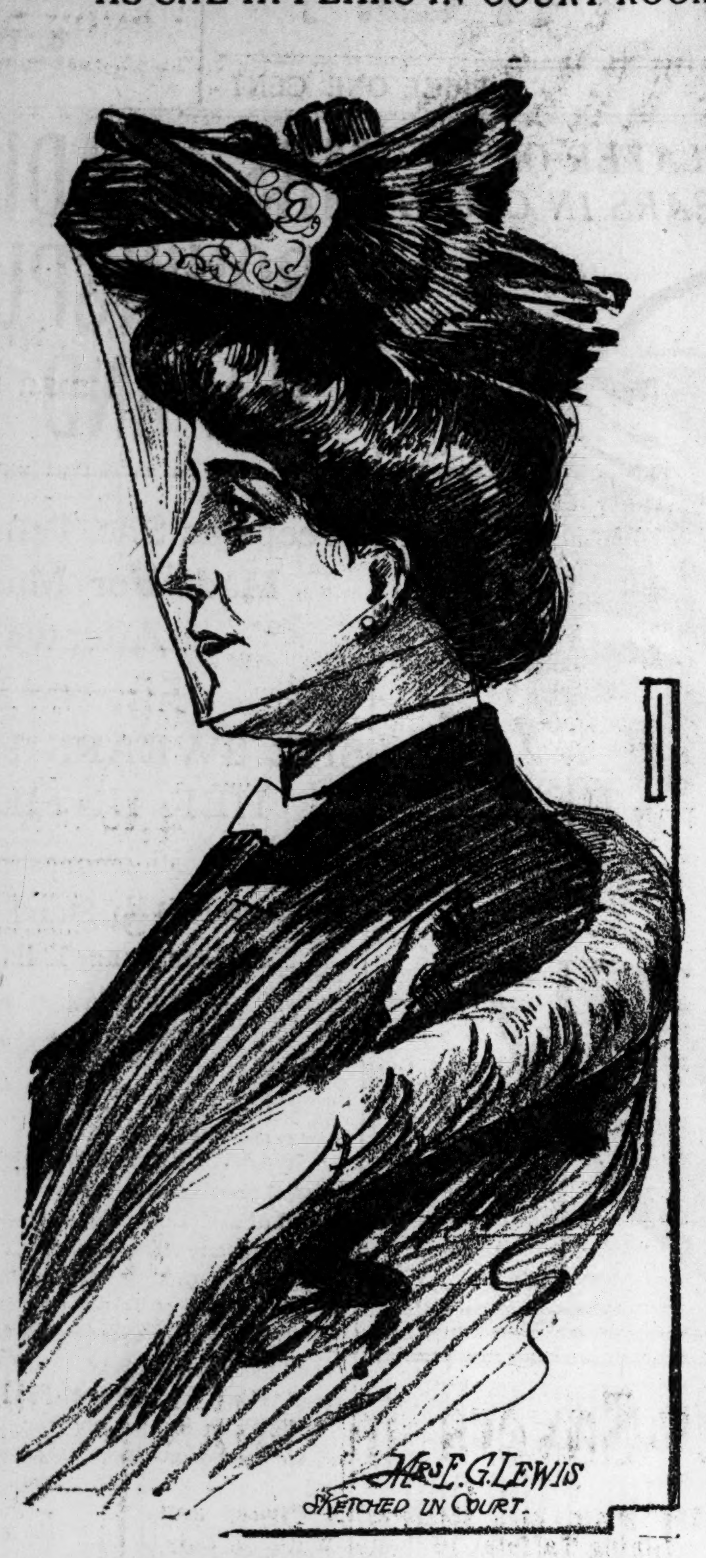
Mrs. Bessie Motlack Knocked Down on High Street.

Mrs. Bessie Motlack, aged 28, of 3528 Franklin avenue was knocked down and seriously injured by a two-horse express wagon at the corner of High and Carr streets at 6:30 p. m. Monday. She was crossing High street when the wagon struck her. She was taken to the office of Dr. Frank Boogher, High and Carr streets, who said she was injured internally.

The wagon belonged to the East Side Express Co. and was driven by Louis Lourier, aged 28, of 811 Bond avenue, East St. Louis. He was arrested. Lourier says that when he warned Mrs. Motlack of her danger she ran backwards, making a collision [illegible].

WIFE OF THE PUBLISHER-BANKER AS SHE APPEARS IN COURT ROOM



MRS. LEWIS ENCOURAGES HUSBAND BY HER SMILES

Edward G. Lewis on the stand Monday was two different men morning and afternoon. During the morning and the early part of the afternoon's court proceedings, when his counsel, former Judge Shepard Barclay, was examining him on direct examination, his manner was listless and his voice in answering the interrogations put to him was so low at times as to be almost inaudible. When court adjourned at noon he showed the relief he felt, and evidently was of the opinion that he had made a good impression on the jury by the often voluminous explanations he had given of his operations in establishing his People's United States Bank.

Seated in the middle of the courtroom and at a considerable distance from the witness stand, his wife, who has watched over him carefully in all the trial, swayed this way and that to keep his face always in view. At trying moments Lewis looked steadily at her and his lips curled in a faint smile as he saw a look of affection and encouragement on her face.

Mrs. Lewis has supported her husband loyally in his troubles, and has been a faithful attendant at court, as she was his staunchest and most efficient adviser during the long preparation for the trial.

Although Mrs. Lewis watches the trial closely and apparently knows every point of the testimony as it is being brought out, she steadfastly refuses to say anything about it for publication. When she was asked for some expression of opinion as to the proceedings and how she thought the trial was progressing, for or against her husband, she replied:

"I don't care to say anything about it at this time. I am watching it closely and I have faith in its ultimate result, but it would not be proper for me to say anything now in the way of criticism."

Monday afternoon, when Judge Krum stigmatized Lewis as a liar during the direct examination, her face flushed and a look of anger crossed it. Then she smiled back at the witness on the stand.

TICKET IN YOUR HAT WILL SHOW YOU'VE PAID CARFARE

Superintendent of East Side Interurban Railway Devises "Silent" System.

To prevent wear and tear on the nerves of passengers, General Superintendent Pierce of the East St. Louis & Suburban electric line has devised a system which will do away with the ringing of the cash register bell. Hat checks showing the destination of the passenger will be used.

It is said that other reforms calculated to soothe the sensitive nerves of East Siders also may be adopted. It is suggested that rubber tires be put on the wheels of all interurban cars and that the conductors be required to wear gum shoes.

POWERS HOPES FOR REVERSAL THROUGH FIGHT OVER VENIRE

Sheriffs Accused by the Alleged Conspirator Are Placed on Trial.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Nov. 19.—In the trial of Caleb Powers signs pointed toward a hard legal battle over the Harrison County venire, by which Powers hopes either to get an even break in the present complexion of the jury or a plea which may give grounds for a reversal. Judge Morris has indicated that he will see to it that the jury is not party blind, and some feel that he will set aside the venire and go to Fayette County for a jury.

The sheriffs of Harrison and S[illegible] counties are on trial today. Po[illegible] charges them with discrimin[illegible] against him in the summoning o[illegible] special venire.

UNION SWITCHMEN ARE IN CONFERENCE WITH RAILROAD MAGNATES

Meeting in Chicago Will Determine Whether 45,000 Shall Go on Strike.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Committees representing the local unions of the switchmen's national organization are holding conferences in a hall here today that may result finally in the calling of a strike of 22,000 switchmen and 25,000 freight handlers. General managers of the roads running out of Buffalo have refused to grant at this time the switchmen's demand for 6 cents increase an hour and shorter days, and the roads running out of Chicago will take similar action.

Representatives of the Buffalo roads will join the general managers of the Chicago roads this afternoon in a final meeting with the men in the Railway Exchange Building. Grand Master Hawley today said most of the union representatives in the meetings are conservative, but that he could not predict the outcome. Smaller officials seemed to think a strike more than probable. The switchmen are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, but not with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Hawley has directed that no action be taken by the men until sanctioned by him.

LEWIS ASSERTS BANK PLAN WAS LIKE A DREAM

Utopian Financial Project Praised by Publisher in Court.

GOVERNMENT IS BLAMED

the first receiver wanted to charge him $2000 a day for his services, and an additional $50 for letters and opinions. He said the first receiver came in at the coalhole and went out at the window. The directors, he said, wanted to liquidate, but were not permitted to do so, a receiver being appointed to wind up the affairs of the institution.

"Bank Plan a Dream."

That his People's United States Bank scheme, like the mythical beauties of More's Utopia, was a "dream," was the testimony of Lewis, when his cross-examination in the United State District Court began Tuesday morning.

"But I believe it was a pretty substantial 'dream,' Judge," protested the dreamer of the dream to Judge Krum, counsel for the Government, who was cross-examining him.

"Yes, and some people think it was a nightmare," sarcastically retorted the Government attorney.

Lewis again took the stand in his own defense when court convened Tuesday morning and his cross-examination, begun late Monday afternoon, was continued. Apparently refreshed and confident after the merciless fire of questions to which he was subjected Tuesday, Lewis combatted the biting sarcasm of Judge Krum with positive voice, leaning forward in the witness chair and pointing his finger at his questioner.

Judge Krum opened the cross-examination Tuesday with questions to Lewis as to a publication in his Woman's Magazine of February, 1904.

"You have told us you had not decided whether to form a bank or a trust company, why is this editorial of yours headed 'People's Postal Bank and Trust Co.'—why is the word 'and' used?" Judge Krum fired away.

"It should have been 'or;' it is a typographical error," quickly retorted the witness.

"Had any moneys been received at that time?" asked Judge Krum.

"The records will show. I don't remember," was the answer.

"Well, examine the records." "They're not here at present." And a number of subsequent questions followed.

Lewis was questioned as to his failure to consult his bank stock subscribers before he invested the money of the bank. During this part of the testimony the witness fought back with increasing spirit, enforcing his answers by pounding his fist on the railing beside the witness stand.

"That little baby girl stockholder we had before us here in court the other day; did you consult her or the mother, who subscribed for the stock for her child?" said Judge Krum.

"That little girl has been played up as the youngest stockholder in the People's Bank, but she wasn't, Judge," the witness said.

"One of the oldest bankers in Texas subscribed $500 for stock for his unborn grandchild," said Lewis, smiling.

A hearty laugh went around the courtroom at Lewis' answer, and a bailiff had to rap for order.

A second laugh, in which Lewis joined, followed soon after, when Judge Krum said to the witness:

"You mind your own business, please, and let me alone."

Lewis had just admonished the Government attorney to add up a column of figures and ask him about the total, instead of asking him about the separate amounts.

Over and over practically the same points the prosecutor and witness fought all morning, Judge Krum asking hundreds of questions as to the promises made by Lewis in his publications and the manner in which the bank business was conducted.

Would Have Kept Promises.

Lewis repeatedly answered these questions with the reply that his promises would have been kept if his bank and other enterprises had not been, as he said, "assassinated."

Judge Krum of Government said before the opening of court that the Government would object to any visit by the jury, accompanied by a deputy marshal, to the Woman's Magazine Building in University City.

Frank H. Pelham, former University city detective, who recently swore to the charges of neglect of duty against St. Louis County officials, was in the courtroom Tuesday, sitting near Lewis' counsel table. He and Lewis were together before the trial.

INMATE OF JAIL DUNGEON ATTACKS GUARD WITH BAR

Brushing the sudden sunlight from his eyes, when the door of the dungeon in the Jail was thrown open Tuesday morning, Henry McNeil, a negro under sentence for murder, leaped upon Guard Tom Burke with an iron bar wrenched from the concrete threshold. Burke grappled with him and shouted for assistance, which came just in time to save him from serious injury. The prisoner was finally overpowered and thrust back into the dungeon.

McNeil was seized with an attack of singing and whistling Monday in the Jail lobby, and was shut in the dungeon when the strain became too much for the musical sensibilities of the guards.

MRS. BRADLEY SAYS SENATOR WRECKED LIFE

Accuses Man She Slew in Dramatic Recital at Washington.

WEEPS ON THE STAND

"Describe the nature of that acquaintance."

She could not speak for the minute, and then she could scarcely be heard. The stenographer approached her chair and repeated this answer:

"Our friendship grew into very intimate relations."

"At any time did your relations ripen into affection?"

"Yes, sir."

Weeps Under Questioning.

Asked to describe the nature of the acquaintance, she broke down completely, and, sobbing, said:

"I can't; I can't."

Judge Powers paused to allow her to recover. The picture of the sobbing woman, narrating the story of her own shame in a broken and scarcely audible voice, was pitiable. Many women wept openly and men turned to hide their emotion.

"What was the manner of Senator Brown toward you?"

"I cannot describe it."

"Was it tender and affectionate?"

"Oh, yes; always."

"Did he make any protestations of love?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you love him?"

"Yes, sir."

"Can you describe it?"

Can't Describe Her Love.

"I can't tell that. It is beyond expression."

"Was there a child born?"

"Yes, sir."

"When did you enter into intimate relations?"

"In January, 1899."

"Will you tell the jury how you came to enter into those relations?"

Her answer was another sob.

Repeated by the stenographer, the question was finally answered:

"He was a very unhappy man. I told him that our life would lead only to sorrow—to grief.

"'Never, never,' he told me, for we would go through life together, no matter what happened. I then avoided him for months. He was a strange man. He came to my house at unseemly hours. One day he came to me and said: 'Darling, we're going through life together. I want you to have a child.' Several months later a son was born."

The words, uttered almost in a whisper, held the courtroom in a spell. When she ceased speaking a sigh went up from the men and women listeners.

"Where was this child chirstened?" asked the attorney.

"At Salt Lake City."

"Was Senator Brown present?"

"He held the child."

"What was the child christened?"

"Arthur Brown."

"After this child was born what were the relations between you and Senator Brown?"

She Opposed Divorce.

"I didn't see much of him. He wished to get a divorce from his wife, but I said: 'Never.' I did not want to break up his home; but I was so wretched that he came to me many times and said: 'You are the only bright spot on my life.'"

"Isn't it a fact that your relations continued?"

"They did."

"Did you believe in his affection?"

"I did not believe it possible for any man to ask of a woman what he asked of me and not care for her. Our relations continued."

In June, 1901, she became aware, she said, that she was about to become a mother again. When she ascertained that fact, she continued, the Senator had an operation performed.

"Was the loss of that child at your suggestion?" she was asked.

"Oh, no, no, no," she replied.

Then she explained: "At that time our relations had become known. The Senator wanted to break up his home. I would not let him."

"Did the loss of the child cause you any mental distress?"

"Oh, yes, I knew it was wrong, but it was so hard to describe one's feelings."

Came to Her When Defeated.

When Senator Brown was turned down by his party's caucus for reelection to the United States Senate, he came to her immediately, said the witness. When he informed her of his defeat, she said, she broke down and cried.

"I am going on with you now. There is nothing to stop us," the Senator told her.

"At the birth of the second son, was Senator Brown there?"

"He came when the baby was two weeks old, saying he was so proud of his son."

"What were your feelings when in his presence?"

Waving her hand towards Judge Powers as if to ward off the question, Mrs. Bradley hesitated, then answered:

"He controlled me absolutely."

"Were you happy or unhappy in his presence?"

"Very, very happy."

"What did you think of his intellectual attainments?"

"They were very, very great. He was a masterful man—kind to his friends, vindictive toward his enemies. He dominated everyone."

"Did Senator Brown ever make any plans for Arthur?"

"He said: 'I must make him Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.'"

Mrs. Bradley repeated this proudly, with a smile.

Passed Christmas With Her.

Senator Brown, she said, told her that the only common interest between himself and Mrs. Brown was their political aspirations. He wanted Mrs. Bradley to leave Salt Lake to keep away from the scandal of the divorce that he intended to get.

"Divorced, he was to marry me," she explained.

Mrs. Bradley then told of leaving Salt Lake, going first to Washington with the Senator, who had a case before the Supreme Court. Then she went to Los Angeles and then to Grand Junction, Colo.

"He came over to Grand Junction and spent a couple of days at Christmas time, 1901. He came to see me every 10 days, at least."

"Did you ever read together?"

"Yes, we were fond of Burns and Tennyson—Tennyson more than any other—Emerson at times."

"Did he say anything of progress in severing his marriage relations during these visits?"

"He assured me it would be compromised. He said it hinged on a property settlement. I said 'Give it to Max and Mrs. Brown. I don't want any of it.'"

She told of a trip to Washington with Senator Brown and Alice Brown, a daughter by his first marriage.

"Alice is one year younger than myself" she said. "I do not know how we registered at the hotel."

Her Trips With Brown.

She then spoke of trips with Senator Brown to Antioch College, Dayton, Chicago and other places.

"At Antioch College and Yellow Springs he introduced me as his wife," said the witness.

"What was the Senator's conduct toward you?"

"Always loving."

While Senator Brown was away from her they communicated by means of a special code.

"He said to me," continued Mrs. Bradley, "that he would always be with me; that he would lay down everything in life for me."

Mrs. Bradley, witht the children, later went to live on Brown's farm, near Salt Lake City.

"In 1902 did you learn that you were likely to become a mother again?"

"Yes."

"Was the child born?"

"No, for the same reason as in 1901."

Mrs. Bradley testified that Senator Brown himself operated on her in that year.

She told of a conference between Senator and Mrs. Brown, Judge Henderson, Col. Fitlock and herself, when the Senator made this statement to Col. Fitlock:

"I say to you, my bitterest enemy, that I will make Mrs. Brown get a divorce within a week. If she does not get a divorce I will get one, for I will protect Mrs. Bradley and will marry her."

Not long after Mrs. Bradley's return to Salt Lake in 1902 began the ill-health upon which the defense will depend to a large degree for the insanity plea, and which formed the prelude to the tragic climax.

Was Arrested With Him.

The turn in the story came with the arrest in 1902 of Mrs. Bradley and Brown in Salt Lake on a statutory charge. This incident was the remote beginning of Brown's change of heart, which ultimately led to his abandonment of Mrs. Bradley.

Later the two were again arrested on the same charge. An acquaintance, Sam King, approached Mrs. Bradley, saying that the relations must stop and financial arrangements would be made with her. Senator Brown, when she told him of it, denied that he had sent an emissary for that purpose.

"When did you learn that you were again to become a mother?"

"In the spring of 1903."

"Was a child born?"

"Yes, on Oct. 24, 1903."

"Who was the father of that child?"

"Arthur Brown," was the distinct answer.

Telling of a visit of Senator Brown to the farm when the child was born she said that the Senator passed the night there.

"Did he present you with anything in the morning?"

"Yes, a revolver."

"Why did he present you with a revolver?"

"To protect myself from Mrs. Brown. He told me to carry it."

Mrs. Bradley told of meeting Mrs. Brown, with the Senator, some time after this in an all-night conference.

"Mrs. Brown," said Mrs. Bradley, "grabbed me and tried to drag me into her room, but we went into Senator Brown's room and talked until morning. We discussed getting a divorce and all our troubles."

At this point recess was taken.

Mrs. Bradley showed marked effects of the strain she had undergone. She had been on the stand two hours and fifteen minutes. At the end of that time her story was barely one-third told.

Mrs. Bradley, during the short period of recess, recuperated her strength as much as possible, resting quietly with her mother and partaking of a slight luncheon.

"An agreement regarding the proposed divorce was reached between Mrs. Brown and the Senator at Pocatello," said Mrs. Bradley, resuming the witness stand and taking up the incident of the meeting in the hotel.

"Afterward I went back to the farm at Salt Lake, where my relations with the Senator were pleasant."

Soon, however, Brown's visits began to be less frequent. Then, she said, she received, without a note of warning, news of Brown's desertion.

Ordered Her Off His Farm.

"He called me up on the telephone," she said, "and told me to get off the farm and that he would never speak to me again. I left at once and when I arrived in town I learned the story of his reconciliation with Mrs. Brown."

At this point her voice quivered and broke.

"At that time did you expect to become a mother?" Judge Powers asked.

"Yes," she said.

Later she said she had an interview with Brown.

"In degradation and despair," she continued, "I wanted to go away and start over again, but he said he had avoided me only to escape the criminal charges against us. 'As soon as these matters are arranged,' he said, 'I will fulfill every promise to you.'"

She told of Brown's desertion of her, leaving her on the farm, stealing off in the early morning, with orders that Mrs. Bradley shoud have no horses; of her long walk on foot to the city and her search for friends in her frantic need.

In September, Brown and Mrs. Bradley, according to her story, were arranging to plead to the statutory charge.

"I had heard that he said that he was not the father of the child," she said. "I told him that if he did not acknowledge it I would plead guilty. He said the child was his, but could not acknowledge it, for to do so would send him to the Penitentiary."

She told of her trial and Brown's.

"He said to me that he did not go back to Mrs. Brown for reconciliation.

"'You know,' he told me, said Mrs. Bradley, "'that this has been a living death for me. Plead guilty and in a year I'll dispose of my property and fulfill every pledge to you.'"

In the trial, which occurred in the spring of 1904, she refused to testify against Brown, because, she said, "he was the father of my children."

Mrs. Bradley pleaded guilty to the indictment against her, but was never sentenced.

Then came the period of poverty and hardship.

Tells of Her Poverty.

"The Senator said he was so poor," she continued, 'that I did not want to bother him. Sometimes he gave me forty and fifty dollars a month; at other times nothing at all."

She then told of her shattered health and weakened condition.

"The day after his wife died in 1905," added Mrs. Bradley, "the Senator came to me and asked me to get a divorce. He said we would get married as soon as this was done."

This divorce was procured, but Senator Brown's manner by this time had changed, she said.

"We want a little courtship, don't we?" he said to Mrs. Bradley, as she told the story. "Can't we wait a little while?"

SPOKE TO JUROR, LOST SUIT

Court Dismisses Damage Case When Plaintiff Says "Hello."

Because W. F. Terpenning, plaintiff in a suit on trial in the Circuit Court at Clayton said "Hello" and chatted about the weather with one of the jurors Judge McElhinney Tuesday dismissed his suit against Charles Nichols, et al., officers and directors of the Kingsland Realty Co., whom Terpenning charged with fraudulently obtaining $1225 from him.

As Terpenning walked down the Courthouse steps Monday evening Juror Ed Cerrey of Tuxedo Park was ahead of him. "Hello, Cerrey," said Terpenning, "how long have you lived in the county?" Cerrey told him and opined it woud rain. So did Terpenning. The defendant's lawyers saw and heard this and told the court about it.

FIVE CHICKENS IN HIS ROOM

Man Accused of Robbing Coop Says He "Took Them for a Goose."

Julius Beyer, arrested in the act of appropriating three chickens from the coop in the rear of Birkler's saloon in Belleville, told Justice Wangelin Tuesday that he was under the impression the chickens were a goose which he won recently at a raffle. He was held for the grand jury on the charge of larceny.

A search of his room by the police at 302 West Main street discovered five chickens, one turkey, two boxes of macaroni, a guitar, two blankets and a set of shoemaker's tools. The police say complaints of thefts of all these articles have recently been made.

An Exclusive Corner for Men Near the Locust Street Door

WHEN the department plans were being laid, the main thought in placing the Men's Furnishing Section was to give the men easy access to a space somewhat set apart from the main body of the store.

We have been successful to a degree, for its location practically makes it an exclusive men's store. In its merchandise, quality and correctness come before price.

Our Custom Shirt Department

is better prepared to turn out shirts in quicker time and to care for a greater volume of business than ever before. Shirts are made to order as follows:

Six white bosom Shirts for	$10.00
Three full dress Shirts for	$ 7.50
Four colored bosom negligee Shirts	$10.00
Better qualities are made, up to	$5 each

All Our Ready-to-Wear Shirts

are made especially for this store and are guaranteed as to fit and workmanship.

A special in men's colored bosom Shirts is now being offered at $1.00. They are all strictly new, very desirable patterns, choice of attached or separate cuffs.

Our Underwear for Men

There is a greater possibility of finding Underwear to suit particular men at this store, than almost any other. Many of the lines carried can be found nowhere else. This applies to both wool and linen mesh. Whatever the price, the quality is assured.

Men's New Cravats

The most fastidious men find satisfaction in this Neckwear Department. Fashion's latest decrees are found here first.

We are showing an exceptional line of new Fall and Winter Four-in-Hands at 50[illegible].

Waistcoats for Men

In the new store this feature has developed into a department, and whether it is a Wash Waistcoat, a flannel, a worsted or a full dress affair that's wanted, there are full assortments here.

Some very remarkable values are being shown, $2.50, $3.50, $4.50 and $5.00; all stylish in cut; many of them exclusive in design.

DELEGATES RAKE EAST ST. LOUIS FOR "DRY" HOTEL

Anti-Saloon League Members Compromise on One Having Bar in Basement.

MANY GO TO Y. M. C. A.

Convention Speaker Attacks Custom of Funeral Parties Stopping at Saloons.

The enactment of a direct primary law, the eradication of political bosses and the overthrowing of the saloon interests responsible for placing the bosses in power, will be the demands of the delegates to the annual State convention of the Anti-Saloon League in session in East St. Louis.

Sam T. Brush of Carbondale, president of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League, outlined these issues in his address at the opening of the convention Monday night. In introducing him to the convention, Chairman James K. Shields said Mr. Brush had "more fight to the square inch than any other man on earth."

The convention was opened by the singing of "America." A few minutes later the delegates warmed up to the issues when they applauded the United Brethren Quartet of the Northern Illinois Conference at the conclusion of the opening song, "In the Sweet Bye and Bye, When Saloons We Shall See Nevermore." As an encore the quartet sung "We Mean to Stick to It," and clinched their argument to the satisfaction of the delegates when they sang "We've Got Them on the Run."

Opposed Drinking at Funerals.

The custom of stopping carriages in funeral processions at saloons will be handled without gloves. This subject was introduced to the convention by Rev. John F. Harmon, pastor of the First M. E. Church of East St. Louis, in his welcoming address. He said that only a few years ago it was the custom for carriage drivers to stop the hearse and funeral procession in front of almost all of the saloons on the way to the cemetery for the purpose of watering their horses and also refreshing some of the occupants of the carriages.

He said the work of the Anti-Saloon League was beginning to show results, as that nowadays the carriages went straight to the cemetery and stopped at the saloons only on the way home. Further work along this line, he said, should be taken up by this convention in the fertile field of East St. Louis.

It is estimated that 600 delegates, men and women, are attending the convention. No headquarters have been opened. A general meeting room for the officers of the league has been established at the First M. E. Church, where the convention is being held. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions Tuesday and Wednesday. The convention will close Wednesday night with an address by Dr. P. A. Baker, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, on "The Progress and Prospects of the American Anti-Saloon League."

Had Trouble at Hotels.

When the delegates arrived in East St. Louis Monday afternoon the local reception committee expressed themselves as almost unable to provide sleeping quarters. They refused to recommend any of the East St. Louis hotels, because all of the hotels had saloon attachments, except the Y. M. C. A. Hotel.

As the Y. M. C. A. could accommodate only 60 delegates, a compromise was made by several delegates by registering at the National Hotel, at the National Stockyards. This hotel has, perhaps, a larger barroom than any other hotel in the city, but it is in the basement, and if desired the guests may enter the hotel without coming into contact with the saloon or brewery signs. A few of the delegates faced the inevitable and went to other hotels in the downtown district.

FIFTY-CENT HONORARIUM FOR DOUBLE MARRIAGE MAY DISRUPTS CUPID COMBINE

Stobie Says Money Was Not a Few, but Was "to Buy Drinks for Friends."

Justice Campbell, senior member of the "marry-you-free" combine against Justice Werremeyer at Clayton, has entered a formal complaint against Justice Stobie, junior member, charging that he has accepted a fee, contrary to the first law of the combine. Campbell threatens to withdraw at once and go over to the opposition unless Stobie returns the 50 cents which he received Monday for tying two matrimonial knots.

Justice Stobie contends that the money was not received for services, but was given him by one of the bridegrooms to "buy a few drinks for his friends." He says he is willing for Campbell's friends to have half the drinks.

Harry Washington, a negro living in St. Louis, is the cause of the trouble. He and Maggie Offut, having heard that it costs only $1 and car fare to get married in Clayton, rode out there Monday, taking with them Jiles Baker and Corrinne Harvey, who had also learned that it costs less to be married at Clayton than any other place in Missouri. They asked the janitor to be taken to one of the "free justices" and were escorted to the office of Justice Stobie. He performed the cermony, one for the two couples, in record-breaking time, the shortest marriage ceremony known to the Justice being given in all his free marriages. When the knots were tied Washington handed Stobie the 50 cents.

"What's this for?" asked the Justice.

"I knows you does the work for nothin', Judge," answered the new groom, "but that's too cheap for us. You take this to buy a few good drinks for your friends and I'll send you out some of my friends that don't care if you do marry them for nothin'."

KANSAS CITY AFTER MAYOR FOR IGNORING SUNDAY LID

Plan to Indict City Heads for Neglect Said to Be Under Consideration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 19.—Mayor H. M. Beardsley was again called before Judge W. H. Wallace's sectarian grand jury Monday, as was Chief of Police Daniel Ahern. They were asked why the police had failed to make "on view" arrests of sellers of wares which the jury had placed under the ban, on Sundays.

County Prosecutor I. B. Kimbrell was before the jury half a dozen times. That the question of indicting the Mayor and the Police Commissioner for their neglect to obey the mandate of the grand jury was the matter under discussion, there is little doubt.

It is believed that Mr. Kimbrell was asked again to inform the Mayor of the law, which requires the Police Board to order view arrests, and of the law which lays members of the board liable to a fine of $500 or to serve one year in jail for failure to make such order.

"DOCTOR MUNYON" IS ONE OF THE SEASON'S NEW SONG HITS

Words Are by Vincent Bryan and the Music by Ray Goetz.

One of the catchiest new topical songs of the season is "Doctor Munyon," the music to which was written by Ray Goetz and the words by Vincent Bryan. It is now being popularized by Harry Bulger, the comedian, who is singing it wherever he appears. It is published by Jerome H. Remick & Co. of New York and Detroit. The music is of a sprightly character, and the words touch on up-to-date subjects. The refrain introduces Dr. Munyon's remedies as a cure for all existing ills, from crowded street cars to grafting public officials. The words of the first stanza are:

There is a doctor in this town and he is wondrous wise,
His remedies cure every ill that nature can devise,
We really ought to send for him, we need him I am sure,
For we are troubled with complaints that no one else can cure.

And here is a sample of the refrain, which is changed to suit each stanza.

Doctor Munyon, Doctor Munyon, what are we going to do?
We need you, it's true,
Bring your medicine chest with you.
If you'll fix up our complaints,
The first thing to attack
Is to cure the girl who wears the bonnet
Half way down her back.

Archbishop to Attend Banquet.

Coach E. B. Cochems will answer the toast, "Football," at the annual banquet of the Alumni Association of St. Louis University at the Jefferson Hotel Wednesday night. Archbishop Glennon will say grace. Rev. Father O'Connor will respond to the toast, "Alma Mater;" John T. Fitzsimmons to "College Education," and D. J. McAuliffe to "The Press." Dr. John H. Simon will be toastmaster.

Don't Let Your Piles Grow

Every Hemorrhoidal Ulcer is a Fertile Field for Cancer and Other Deadly Diseases.

TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.

Constipation unchecked brings inflammation, inflammation begets piles and piles too often superinduce tumors of malignant nature.

Piles (or hemorrhoids) rarely kill, but they cause more agony in a few minutes than much more serious troubles.

They are easy to cure if you go at it right.

An operation with the knife is dangerous, agonizing, and rarely a permanent success.

There is just one way to be cured—one sure way, painlessly and privately—and that is with Pyramid Pile Cure.

We mail a free trial package to all who write.

It will give you instant relief, and start you well on the way to a perfect cure.

Then you can get a full-sized box from any druggist for 50 cents, and often one box cures.

Insist on having what you call for.

Just send your name and address to Pyramid Drug Co., 97 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich., and receive free by return mail the trial package in a plain wrapper.

All druggists, 50 cents. Write today for a free package.

BIG 5 SALE

Sale of Dry Goods Bought From "The Big Five"

BRIGHT and early Monday morning our force of buyers swooped down upon the wholesale district and bought enormous quantities of merchandise that were offered by the great dry goods concerns under price. Being large operators, we naturally gained price concessions others did not obtain. Our purchases aggregated well up into the tens of thousands, and at this hour they are still buying, but, of course, the details of those purchases will be related in a subsequent advertisement.

WE are justified in announcing one of the greatest and most important selling occasions the city has ever known. Staple dry goods of every description will be sold at prices rarely known at this season of the year. Peruse carefully this page of offerings and note the immense savings that may be effected in each line. Of course on occasions of this kind it is advisable to start your shopping bright and early in the morning, because quantities in some instances are limited. Take the hint from our buyers, start early, and you will secure, as they did, the choicest lots.

BABY'S RED HAIR CAUSES ACTION FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Frederick Bressler Says Husband Always Disliked Child.

GIRL IS FIVE YEARS OLD

They Still Live in the Same House and Eat Meals Together.

BUT THEY'RE SEPARATED

He Cares for His Own Room, While Wife Cooks All Their Meals.

His reference to their baby girl as "that red-headed kid" caused Frederick Bressler to lose the love of his wife, Mary Alice, she says. While her divorce suit and her husband's answer are awaiting consideration by the Court the husband and wife live in the same flat at 5362 Easton avenue and eat at the same table. They probably will continue this domestic arrangement until the divorce suit is decided.

Bressler cares for his own room, but such meals as he eats in the family dining room are served by his wife. His table companion always is his son, William, aged 11.

Mrs. Bressler says their domestic difficulties began with the birth of their daughter, Amy, now 5, who came into the world with red hair. The father spoke slightingly of the hair, calling the babe "Redhead" and the mother resented that.

She Alleged Non-Support.

Mrs. Bressler filed suit for divorce Sept. 13, alleging that her husband failed to provide for her. She declared that they were separated.

Bressler filed an answer Monday afternoon. He alleged that his wife indulged in too much euchre away from home, that he did provide for her, having settled $20,000 worth of property on her, and that they were not separated, but lived in the same house and ate at the same table. He said he was willing to forgive everything she had done, including the making of an engagement to go downtown with a married man. He wanted no divorce.

Mrs. Bressler was seen at the family flat Tuesday by a Post-Dispatch reporter. She said:

"It is not true that this property is Mr. Bressler's. It is mine. I own this double building with stores on the ground floor and a flat above each store. Then I own two cottages adjoining. It is all worth about $20,000.

Cares for His Own Room.

"My husband occupies the front room, next to the parlor. He keeps to himself there and takes care of his own room. You must excuse the appearance of my part of the house. I keep out of his way as much as possible and can't straighten things up until he has gone.

"We separated in August, but our love really ended when Amy, our little girl, was born. He called her 'Redhead.' When she was a few days old I wrote him a check for $50. He was gone until early next morning, and when he came back he had only a dime. He threw that upon the bed and said he was going to give it to 'that red-headed kid.'

"As to my playing euchre: He often used to say he would take care of the children and I could go out to euchres. But when I returned I would find him drinking and abusing the children. He ran our oldest child, Fred, away from home and into the navy. I've just had a letter from Fred. He is sick of the navy and wants to get out. He deserted once, but was captured and taken back."

At that point little Amy, called "the Redhead" by her father, interrupted Mrs. Bressler.

"Yes, and he tooked by dolly away from me," she lisped.

GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO DENIES HE HAS TO EXPLAIN

Says Stories of His Criticisms of Missionaries Are Without Foundation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Gov. Post of Porto Rico arrived today from San Juan. He will go at once to Washington. The Governor denied the report that he has been summoned to Washington by the President to explain certain charges concerning his administration. He said:

"I came home to report on affairs in the island, and while in Washington expect to take up these charges. The fact is, a short time ago a nasty newspaper article was published in Porto Rico."

The Governor was accused of calling missionaries pharisees in a recent speech.

INTRODUCTION DISRUPTS FAMILY

Man Who Caused Wife to Meet Friends Denied Divorce.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 19.—The Allegheny courts have been asked to decide whether a woman who strays from the straight and narrow path, after her husband has introduced her to questionable friends, is to blame.

James F. Hoppy sued his wife, Martha, for divorce, alleging infidelity. Mrs. Hoppy alleged she always had been a good woman until her husband encouraged her to associate with his friends. Hoppy lost his case.

Today Hoppy's attorney asked the courts to decide whether a husband cannot sue for divorce after he has introduced his wife to men who might lead her astray.

WOMEN STORM LEGISLATURE

Feminine Lobbyists Bewilder Alabama Senate on Prohibition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 19.—While a Mobile preacher prayed for prohibition in the Senate yesterday, a half dozen Mobile women were working in the lobby to prevent the passage of the bill. Before the prayer was ended other women, heart and soul for prohibition and decorated with white ribbons, appeared, and all day women for and against the sale of liquor pulled and hauled helpless senators about.

It is predicted that the bill for entire prohibition on Oct. 1, 1908, will pass. School teachers especially are opposed to losing the revenue from the saloons, as it supports in Mobile possibly the most complete school system of the South.

GATES TO QUIT WALL STREET

When He Leaves This Time He May Never Return, He Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—John W. Gates may quit Wall street for keeps. He said today:

"I am not going back to Wall street for the present, and perhaps never again," he said. "I believe the corner has been turned now and that the country has already seen its worst financial situation. Stocks are down as far as they are going and will begin to rise. I am satisfied in every way with the transfer of Tennessee Coal. I am going to Texas to look after some lands."

Sane Man in Asylum 19 Years.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Henry D. Shipman of New York was declared sane today after spending 19 years in insane asylums. He was taken to the Tombs in New York to answer an indictment for murder, having killed a woman there nearly twenty years ago.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its Suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

Clothes of Real Quality

The practical test of your clothes purchase is in the service they give. That is why $20, $25 or $28 or any given price commands special attention at Croak's.

Style and fit always assured, but for any given price, your price, what you usually pay, we offer quality which will prove itself in service to be the unusual, to be in excess of what is elsewhere found at that particular price.

A strong example of the point in question is a suit cut like the above at the special price of $16.75.

It's worth coming in to see, if only for the purpose of determining what $16.75 ought to do.

These Ready-to-Wear Suits were marked, $20, $25, 28.

ROMADKA HURLS BOOK AT NEGRO

Woman Raffles Tells Dusky Accomplice He Has Lied About Her.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Evelyn Romadka, millionaire woman "Raffles," grabbed a volume of Cameron's Annotate Criminal Law and threw it at Albert Jones, her negro accomplice today.

"You dreadful beast," she shouted, as she snatched the law tome, "you tell such lies about me. You've lied and lied, and I can't stand it any more."

The long flowing veil which Mrs. Romadka always wears deflected the book so that it missed the negro. She then tried to pass around the table to do personal violence to Jones, but was prevented by Lieut. Larkin and a jail guard.

The scene was enacted in the office of Assistant State's Attorney Roger Sherman, where Mrs. Romadka and Jones had been taken to be questioned in the case of a watchmaker on trial on the charge of buying a ring stolen by Mrs. Romadka and sold to him by Jones.

BREWERY CLOSES OLD DANCE HALL

August Busch Cancels Lease Held by Recently Convicted Saloonkeeper.

The Budweiser Garden, for four years the most notorious dance hall, theater and saloon in Belleville, was closed Monday midnight by orders from August Busch. The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association is lessor of the property.

This action was taken after John Meth, for five years lessee of the garden, had been fined $25 and costs for violating the Illinois law which prohibits minors from being admitted to a dance-hall where liquors are sold, except when accompanied by their parents. Belleville officials had publicly declared they intended to close the place.

After Busch announced that he would not sell beer to any lawbreaking saloon keeper, Mayor Kern of Belleville publicly declared last Saturday that it was "up to" the brewer to carry out the program in Belleville.

Keys Are Surrendered.

Meth turned over the keys to the place Tuesday to William Bienker, local agent for the brewery.

Henry Schoettler, proprietor of a dance hall and saloon in West Belleville, who was also fined $25 and costs recently, was summoned Monday before August Busch, but the brewery did not cut off his supply of beer.

OPERATOR DEFENDS MONEY DRAWER, SHOT BY ROBBER

Illinois Telegrapher Fights Desperately With Invaders and Is Fatally Wounded.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SYCAMORE, Ill., Nov. 19.—In a scuffle with robbers who last night invaded the Great Western Railroad depot at Lilly Lake, Night Operator Argenbright, aged 21, was shot and probably mortally wounded. He was hurried to a Chicago hospital on a fast train this morning, but there is little hope of his recovery.

Argenbright put up a hard fight to protect the money drawer. He fought back and forth over the office with the robbers. Finally one wrenched a revolver from the operator's hand and shot him twice. It is not known how much money they obtained from the money drawer. Argenbright was not able to give a good description of the bandits.

Boy Kills Negro Robber.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 19.—Blood Blalack, aged 15, shot and killed Colbert Chambers, a negro, near Georgetown last night. Blalack had given the negro a ride and the negro threw pepper in his eyes and attempted to rob him. Blalack shot the negro eight times.

Dispensary Drivers' Chief Dead.

William Norman, superintendent of dispensary drivers, died of bronchial pneumonia at 4 a. m. Tuesday at his home, 1129 North Twentith street. A wife and two children survive him.

POSSES FAIL TO GET TRACE OF CONVICT

Fugitive Who Escapes From Penitentiary Still Has His Liberty.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—Posses of Penitentiary guards who spent the night scouring the woods in all directions from Jefferson City returned today without having found any trace of Rudolph Schroeder, a convict who escaped Monday afternoon.

Schroeder, who was sent to the Penitentiary from St. Louis to serve a 5-year sentence for forgery, has been employed several days with a gang of other convicts constructing a veranda at Warden Hall's residence, across Main street from the prison.

While the Warden and two guards were present Monday afternoon Schroeder suddenly disappeared. The alarm was given. Guards were called from the prison and hurried to all the avenues of escape from the city. The railroad tracks, the bridge across the Missouri River and country roads leading out of town were guarded all night, but no trace of the fugitive was found.

HUSKY MINER SAYS WIDOW SLUGGED AND ROBBED HIM

Swears Out a Warrant for Her Arrest, but She Hasn't Been Found.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 19.—John White, a husky miner of Finleyville, swore out a warrant today for the arrest of Mrs. Mattie Gilmore, an athletic widow whom he charges with highway robbery. White declares that on a lonely road she confronted him and demanded his money. He refused to give it up, and there was a desperate struggle.

In spite of his great strength, White claims she dealt him a blow on the head with a blackjack, rendering him unconscious, and took $75 and other valuables. Mrs. Gilmore has not been found.

NEW CUNARDER MAURETANIA IS MAKING RECORD

Fastest Atlantic Trip Ever Sailed to New York Is Indicated.

CARRIES BIG TREASURE

Gold for the United States Is Locked in Ship's Strongroom.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Wireless messages received here today by agents of the Cunard Line indicate that the new leviathan Mauretania, sister ship to the Lusitania, will eclipse all transoceanic records on her present maiden trip. The vessel, which left Queenstown three days ago, is carrying more than 2000 passengers, and more than $13,000,000 in gold. Part of this great treasure is in American eagles, and the rest in gold bullion from South Africa. The vessel is under command of Capt. J. Pritchard, who commanded the Caronia and Carmania.

Experts Await Results.

Nautical experts differ in their views as to the relative size of the two great ships. Although they were designed to be of the same size, the Mauretania has a slightly greater draught than the Lusitania, and this, although giving increased tonnage, is expected to prove an advantage in speed. This was shown on the trial trip of 300 miles when the Mauretania outsailed the Lusitania by a knot every hour.

There is intense feeling on the point of speed among the shipbuilding interests of the Tyne and the Clyde, the former hugging the anticipation of lowering the colors of the Scottish builders by outpacing their record-breaker with a Tyne-build ship.

About 2000 passengers are on the Mauretania. This, although all the berths will not be filled, will make a record number going westward in mid-November. The big amount of gold she is taking to the United States adds another interest to the voyage.

Insured for $5,000,000.

The amount is about $13,750,000. About $3,000,000 of this was bought from South African mining companies through London brokers at 78 shillings, which includes brokerage, assay and other costs. The metal was refined this week. It goes in the form of gold bars.

There is also $4,735,000 worth of bar gold bought from the Bank of England and $2,920,000 in American eagles.

The Cunard company has insured the Mauretania for nearly $5,000,000.

West Approves Certificate Plan.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Dispatches to the New York World from prominent bankers throughout the country indicate that the certificates of indebtedness will be received with hearty approval. It is not an unanimous expression, however, but an overwhelming one. Particularly is this true in the dispatches from the West and South, where money is so badly needed for the moving of crops.

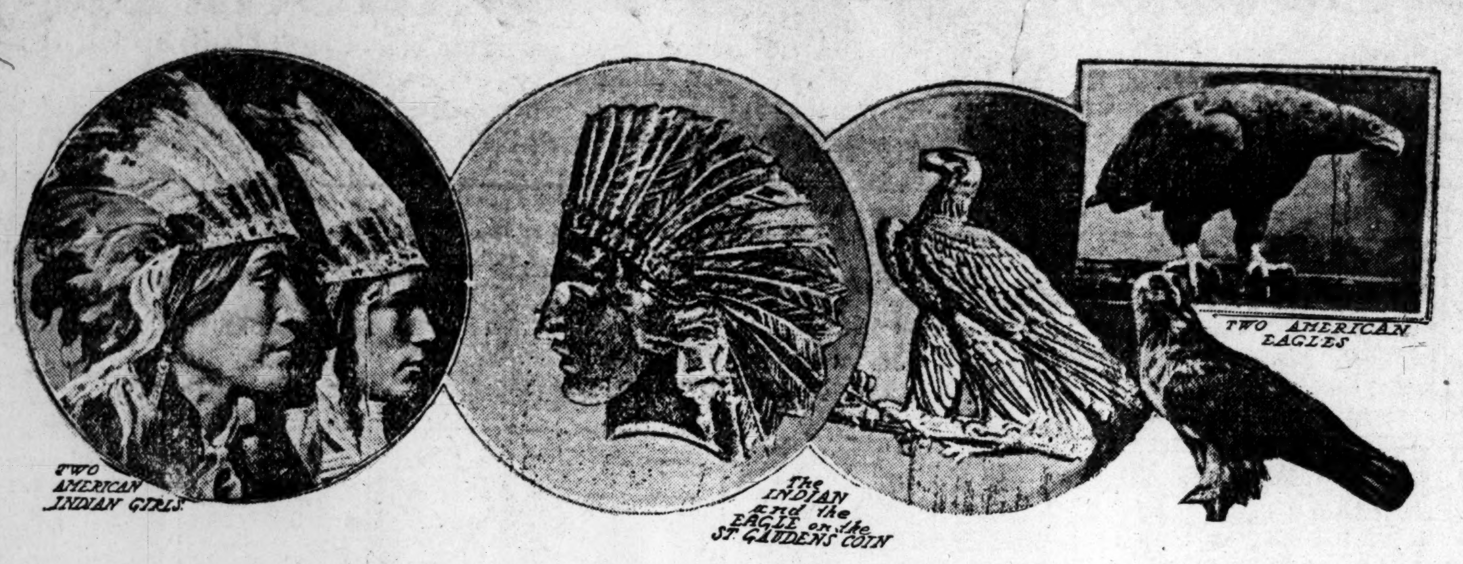
ST. GAUDENS' INDIAN MAID AND EAGLE ON $10 COIN AND REAL THINGS CONTRASTED



TWO AMERICAN INDIAN GIRLS
The INDIAN and the EAGLE on the ST. GAUDENS COIN
TWO AMERICAN EAGLES

HEREWITH are shown the much discussed designs by St. Gaudens for the new United States coins. That they will be subjected to severe criticism as to their artistic merit is a foregone conclusion. The artist aroused a storm of protest because he picked out an Irish waitress, Mary Cunningham by name, as his type for the Indian girl who adorns the obverse of the coin.

Contrasted with the St. Gaudens "Indian" the Post-Dispatch shows two beauteous Sioux girls, the real thing in the Indian line. The lay mind is apt to inquire why, if an Indian maiden's face is to appear on the coin, it should not be that of a genuine Indian?

It is likely that the St. Gaudens eagles will also come in for their snare of criticism. They appear to be supplied with a common or garden variety of "pants."

Alongside of the coin design the Post-Dispatch artist presents a picture of the glorious bird of freedom as it really is.

Query—If the St. Gaudens "Indian" is an Irish girl, of what nativity is the strange bird who is to pose on the coin of the realm as the eagle whose tail feathers have never yet trailed in the dust?

SLEW MAN WITH BAYONET, ACQUITTED IN 15 MINUTES

Tragedy at Victoria, Mo., Followed G. A. R. Comrades' Quarrel Over Picnic Plans.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HILLSBORO, Mo., Nov. 19.—It took a jury only 15 minutes to acquit Capt. Charles E. Waters, senior vice-commander of James N. Whitehead Post, G. A. R., of Victoria, Mo., who killed Col. George Patton, former commander of the post, with a bayon Aug. 16.

Col. Patton was killed in the meeting hall of the G. A. R. organization as the result of a quarrel with Capt. Waters over plans for a picnic. Waters pleaded self-defense, the testimony showing that Patton attacked him with a board after Waters had torn an old army bayonet from a rack on the wall and had warned Patton to keep his distance.

The Court yesterday instructed the jury that it could bring in a verdict of second-degree murder, carrying a penalty of not less than ten years in the Penitentiary, or manslaughter, punishable by a three-months' term in the County Jail and a fine of $100. Capt. Waters was defended by his brothers, Col. Louis B. Waters, former United States District Attorney at Kansas City, and Capt. Joseph Waters of Topeka, Kan.

Bazar at the Odeon.

You are cordially invited to attend a bazar in the Masonic rooms at the Odeon today, Tuesday, Nov. 19, all afternoon and evening. The bazar is given for the Organ Fund of the new Temple Israel by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Take dinner there this evening with your family. Amusements will be provided for the children.

OPERA SEATS SELL FOR $25

Bediamoned Society Leaders Present at Opening in Gotham.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—With enthusiasm perhaps a trifle hushed, but with the same glittering display of boundless affluence as of old, society—that part of society which occupies the charmed circle—came into its own again last night at the opening of the grand opera season at the Metropolitan.

In spite of the downpour of rain, even the ticket speculators fared better than at the inaugural a year ago. Orchestra seats—the few to be had—readily brought $25 apiece and the sale was brisk in $2 seats at $3 each. The opera was Francesco Cilea's masterpiece, "Adriana Lecouvreur," sung for the first time in America last night.

TALKING MACHINES.

A New Departure at May, Stern & Co.

At this time of the year, when Christmas gifts are uppermost in everyone's mind, the new department at May-Stern's devoted to talking machines becomes of unusual interest and importance.

This department is acknowledged by every visitor to the big store to be the most elegantly equipped and the most complete in its assortment of any in this city.

Here, amid ideal surroundings is shown a complete stock of the latest VICTOR and COLUMBIA cylinder and disk talking machines—in every size and style, from the cheapest to the very finest—all of which are offered by May, Stern & Co. on easy payments at the same identical prices others ask for cash—not 1 cent additional being charged for the credit accommodation.

The public is invited to call and inspect this magnificient department and hear the superb rendition of the latest instrumental and vocal numbers as produced by these perfect talking machines.

Selections made now for Christmas gifts will be laid aside and delivered when wanted.

WHITE HAND SOCIETY WILL MAKE WAR ON BLACK HAND

Chicago Italians Raise Fund to Avenge Stabbing of Their Countryman.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—With a force of nearly 1000 "special detevtives" at its call the Mano Bianca or White Hand, started in today to trap the murderers of Mariano Scardina, who was stabbed to death yesterday as a defi to the new organization.

The deed is supposed to have been committed by members of the Black Hand, against whom war has been declared.

Shortly before the death of Scardina Max Friend also received a third warning that unless he deposited a sum of money he would be killed. It also became known that many threats by the Black Hand and blaskmailers have been made.

Nearly $10,000 already has been subscribed to the war fund of the new society and an executive committee, composed of some of the most influential Italians of Chicago, has been named.

No Cause for Panic, Hill Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—James J. Hill was in Chicago and had this to say:

"I hope the new light the Government has seen will help us tide over the extreme conditions which have prevailed for the last month. There is no menace to business, no local condition anywhere in business itself that could at all justify the recent panic. It is the result of an accumulation of mistrust and want of confidence that has finally destroyed the foundations of public credit."

YOUTH PROVES GOOD WOMAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19.—Charles Templeton Crocker of San Francisco, the wealthiest undergraduate in any American University, displayed phenomenal versatility last night at the production of three pieces by the Yale Dramatic Club.

He took the leading female part in the Spanish play which opened the evening's program and later played the most prominent female role in a French comedy. Crocker came into the possession of more than $15,000,000 recently on the death of his sister, Mrs. Frank Burton Harrison of New York.

WOMAN DIRECTS FIGHT TO OUST THE CIGARETTE

W. C. T. U. Leader Begins a Campaign Against Sale in State.

CRIME LAID TO USE

Mrs. F. H. Ingalls Declares Laws Should Be More Strict.

HABIT IS DESTRUCTIVE

Injury to Mucous Membrane Follows Addiction by Victims.

The cigarette must be barred from Missouri, says Mrs. F. H. Ingalls, 5250 Westminster place, superintendent o the anti-narcotic division of the W. C. T. U.

Under the direction of Mrs. Ingalls a series of meetings is now being held in St. Louis churches to strengthen the anti-cigarette movement and to raise funds for carrying on the battle.

"We will not stop until we have a Missouri law which will prohibit absolutely the manufacture, sale, free distribution or importation of cigarettes.

"Through the efforts of the W. C. T. U. there are now anti-cigarette laws in every State in the Union, but some of the laws are weak because they merely prohibit the sale of cigarettes to minors, or, as in the case of Missouri, to boys under 18.

Strict in Some States.

"The laws of Indiana, Tennessee, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Washington, Oklahoma and Alabama are strictly prohibitory. It is a crime in those states to sell or give cigarettes or cigarette papers to anyone, no matter how old he may be.

"The cigarette is the most injurious form in which tobacco can be used, because it is almost impossible to smoke cigarettes without inhaling them. The inhaled smoke attacks the mucous membrane of the entire system, especially of the throat, lungs and brain.

"Cigarettes are responsible for most of the crimes for which boys are brought into the juvenile courts of the land.

"Anything that constantly and progressively weakens the physicial system, also weakens the moral faculties. Boys who smoke cigarettes will be unambitious, lazy and unreliable. They will shirk their work at school or in the office or factory and they cannot succeed in life.

"Mashers" Are Addicted.

"The same is true of grown persons. Loafers and that lowest type of manhood, the masher, who stands on street corners and ogles and insults women, almost invariably are cigarette smokers.

"In the active campaign against cigarettes which I am commencing I shall endeavor to impress on boys and young men the extent to which their opportunities are limited by this vile habit. Thousands of employers all over the country will not have a cigarette smoker in their service.

"E. H. Harrimann, president of many great railroad systems, says:

"'I would as soon go to a lunatic asylum for employes as to hire cigarette smokers.'

"Alanson D. Brown, president of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., says: 'The boy who has the cigarette habit would be better off in his grave. He is an object of pity.'

"Boys who smoke cigarettes are not admitted to the public schools of Omaha and they are barred from the high schools of many other cities. 'Cut out cigarettes or leave school,' is the official mandate that has been issued by the faculty of Cornell University.

"Swift & Co., John Wanamaker, J. C. Ayer & Co., the Western Electric Co., Marshall Field & Co., and Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. are representative concerns which will not employ cigarette smokers.

Stringent Laws Are Needed.

"We think that when we make boys realize that the cigarette habit is closing the doors of opportunity to them they will give it up. But moral suasion alone will not do it. We must have stringent laws passed and see that they are enforced.

"We had a prohibitory cigarette law passed through the Missouri House at the last session, but the Tobacco Trust, through the use of money, succeeded in having the bill killed in the Senate. We are stronger than ever now, and we will see that this does not happen again. Public sentiment is aroused so thoroughly for good government that boodlers cannot again control the Missouri Legislature.

"Our victory in the South has been complete. In sustaining the anti-cigarette law of Tennessee the Supreme Court of that State said:

"'We think cigarettes are not legitimate articles of commerce, because they are wholly noxious and deleterious to health. Their use is always harmful, never beneficial. They possess no virtue, but are inherently bad and bad only. They find no true commendation for merit or usefulness in any sphere. On the contrary, they are widely condemned as pernicious altogether. Beyond question their every tendency is toward the impairment of physical health and mental vigor.'

"Thomas A. Edison says of cigarettes: 'It ought to be against the law to sell or smoke them. There 's a slight quantity of pyridine in cigarette smoke that dries the mucous membrane of the throat and mouth and makes the smoker want to drink. They go well together, those two drugs, the cigarette and alcohol, and they accomplish wonders in reducing man to a vicious animal.'"

Mrs. Ingalls will speak on the cigarette evil Tuesday night at the Southern Methodist Church, Virginia avenue and Haven street.

EXCESSIVE cigarette smoking increases the heart action very materially, in some cases from twenty-five to thirty beats a minute.

Inhaling the smoke weakens the tissues and lessens the physical and mental resisting power of the smoker. High-priced cigarettes are worse than cheap ones. They contain opium. That is the reason why they cost more.

High-school teachers say cigarette smokers stand at least 10 per cent lower than their classmates. No tobacco user ever graduated at the head of his class at Harvard.

Dr. Ludwig Bremer, the noted St. Louis alienist, says that the boy who smokes at 7 will drink whisky at 14, use morphine at 20 and wind up with the cocaine habit.

Magistrate Crane of New York says 99 out of 100 boys between 10 and 17 years old, who come before him have their fingers stained by cigarettes.

The peculiar mental weakness which is caused by inhaling cigarette smoke develops into a distinct leaning toward crime and vice. Virtue is resistance to evil. Where there is no strength there can be no resistance.

The number of cigarettes made in the United States in 1906 was 3,868,534,413, an increase of 315,000,000 over the previous year. It is estimated that 1200 American boys begin the cigarette habit every day.

WIFE SAYS ACTOR IS A BIGAMIST AND HYPNOTIST

Refused to Testify Against Him So Long as He Can Look Into Her Eyes.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Joseph L. Leslie was charged with being both a bigamist and hypnotist by Mrs. Annie Leslie in Judge Maxwell's court yesterday. The woman, only 20 years old, protested against testifying so long as her husband was about to look into her eyes. She said she had positive information that Leslie had another wife living when he married her in St. Louis, on Sept. 18 of this year.

Judge Maxwell continued the case to Nov. 23, that the truth of her story of another Mrs. Leslie said to be living in Toronto, Ontario, may be ascertained.

"He will hypnotize me, the same as he did when he got me to marry him, and I won't be able to tell a straight story," the woman told the Court. Leslie was compelled to step back and then asked and obtained a continuance.

SINGLE TAXERS MAY START BOOM FOR MAYOR JOHNSON

Henry George Blames Morgan and Rockefeller for the Financial Crisis.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Delegates at the National Single Tax conference here heard a telegram read from Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland last night congratulating them on the fact that the single tax movement at last has entered the "political stage."

There was a disposition among many to launch a Johnson presidential boom, but the pressure of other business crowded out any addresses along this line. The conference will be again in session today and the movement may take tangible form before adjournment.

Henry George delivered a speech attributing the financial crisis to Wall street. It was begun, he said, to enable Morgan and Rockefeller to gain properties they hoped to seize in the confusion, but went farther than they intended and forced them to call on the Government for aid and finally gave them a chance to pose as the country's saviors.

Weiss Beer Saves Gas Victims.

Weiss beer administered by police again proved an antidote for gas asphyxiation Tuesday morning. John Mino, 21 years old, and Calasto Geacaine, 24, Italians, guests at the Comfort Hotel, Twentieth and Market streets, were found unconscious in their room at 2 a. m. Tuesday. The gas had been accidentally turned on. Sergt. Walsh and three policemen lost no time in getting several bottles from a nearby saloon. Half an hour later the Italians were out of danger.

BARTHOLDT WANTS HALF BILLION FOR WATERWAYS

Congressman Will Propose Bills as Result of Conference With President Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Representative Bartholdt of Missouri, after a talk with President Roosevelt yesterday, announced his intention of introducing a bill as soon as Congress meets to give legal status to the Inland Waterways Commission, which was formed by executive act, and another bill providing for a $500,000,000 bond issue to establish a fund for permanent great waterway improvements, leaving the smaller projects to be taken care of in the regular river and harbor bills.

It is proposed to have the waterway commission a permanent body, which shall employ experts and keep Congress officially advised as to the merits of waterways projects. Mr. Bartholdt says the President regards the plan with favor. To a large extent the proposed permanent commission would relieve the Rivers and Harbors Committee of investigation work, and, it is declared, prevent favoritism and political pull from providing for unmeritorious projects.

Asphalt Paving Causes Objections.

TRIANGLE Y AGAIN IN 'JOHN GLAYDE' SHONOUR'

Wronged Husband, Faithless Wife and "Other Man" Appear Once More.

AN ABSORBING STORY

But O, the Forbearance of the Fierce and "Pistol-Toting" Mr. Glayde!

AGAIN the sinister alarum of the triangle of wronged husband, faithless wife and favored lover smote the air last night, this time in "John Glayde's Honour," which presents Mr. James K. Hackett as its star, supported by a very good company indeed, at the Olympic Theater.

What an incessant devil's tattoo they do sound upon this instrument, these playwrights. Shakspeare wouldn't speak of "the lascivious pleasings of a lute" if he were living now—he'd have to make his gallants "caper nimbly in a lady's chamber" to the time-beat of the triangle if he essayed to be the least little bit in the fashion.

"John Glayde's Honour" is peculiarly named by Mr. Alfred Sutro, its English author. With or without its extremely British "u" in the spelling, it should be known as "John Glayde's Dishonour," inasmuch as John Glayde disapproves of the unwritten law so utterly that he speeds his wife and her paramour on their way rejoicing at his expense, in the play's final moment. Somehow your heart doesn't warm toward Mr. Glayde for doing this, even though it averts a bloody muss of revengeful reckoning at a critical juncture.

It must be the survival of primitive instincts that forbids us extending to the case of a betrayed husband the admiration which we feel ordinarily for self-abnegation, renunciation, altruism and all that sort of thing. We all know, of course, that John Ruskin, when he found that Mrs. Ruskin and Sir John Millais loved one another, kindly and legally nullified his own claim to the lady, so that she might become the wife of Millais, but none of us has ever felt like placing Ruskin on a pedestal for thus side-stepping so obligingly. We feel even less so toward John Glayde, because the circumstances were aggravated to their extreme limit of wrong in his case.

And he was such a fierce, masculine, lion-like chap up to that last unaccountable moment, too. "John Glayde on top and going to roar"—that's what he cabled to scare the five wits out of his syndicated enemies in New York and Chicago when they were trying to "wipe him off the map" during his enforced absence in Europe, you remember. "Going to roar!"—wouldn't such a man have done something far more terrible than roar when another man took his wife away from him? Right here is the weakness of Alfred Sutro's "new and original play in four acts," to my thinking.

Mr. Sutro shouldn't have made his Mr. Glayde such a roaring guyascutis of Calaveras County through three acts if he hoped to have us believe in the plausibility of the gentle and self-eliminating Mr. Glayde of the fourth act. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde themselves never underwent a quicker pendulum swing from one extreme of nature to the other. And all the time, John Glayde's wife had been so fearful that he would kill Trevor Lerode, whom she preferred at any price. "He's a dead shot!" she kept on saying. "And he always carries a revolver!"

But no more serious charge than that of carrying concealed weapons can be preferred against John Glayde.

Nevertheless, it's a deeply interesting play, skillfully shaped and adroitly built up to its amazing climax. Mr. Hackett is a better actor than in the past—he doesn't shake his jaws so much, and he invested John Glayde with all the pitiful dignity of a strong man wronged by a beloved woman at many moments of his work. I didn't care particularly for Miss Darragh, who played Mrs. Glayde—she was quite indistinct at times and failed to realize to us very convincingly the passion-swayed soul of such a woman. There was a touch of weakness in the Trevor Lerode of Mr. William Sauter, but it may well have been the weakness of the spoiled chap of "artistic temperament," who hangs too much around other men's wives. The clean and likeable young Englishman, Collingham, was excellently played by George M. Graham. Others in the cast—Mr. David Glassford as Bramley, Miss Olive Oliver as Princess de Castaguary, Miss Ida Waterman as Lady Lerode and Miss Beatrice Beckley as Mrs. Rennick, to make special mention—were quite satisfying.

But John Glayde, who gets a divorce so that Mrs. Glayde may marry Lerode—well, he doesn't "appeal," that's all.

Columbia's New Bill.

Peter F. Dailey and company, in "Nearly a War Correspondent," are the topliners on the Columbia's new bill, opening yesterday afternoon, and deservedly so, giving a brightly amusing performance. Other features are Violet Black and company, in "A West Point Engagement;" the Bessie Valdare troupe of cyslists, Gaston and Greene, in musical comedy bits; the Stunning Grenadiers, the Carbrey Brothers, original dancers; World and Kingston, dancing comedian and grand opera soubrette; Mlle. Marguerite's horse and pony in picturesque poses, and the new kinodrome pictures.

Lusitania Nets $66,000 a Trip.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Liverpool Courier, in an article regarding the expenditure and revenue of the steamer Lusitania and Mauretania, figures that a single voyage of either steamer yields a profit of about $66,000. The expenditures are estimated to be $89,950, thus giving these big steamers an income of $155,950 per trip.

WOMAN TAKES HER LIFE WHEN COURAGE TO KILL FAILS HER

Plot to Assassinate the Czar Is Foiled by a Railway Guard.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—A well-dressed woman, about 18 years of age, was found in a dying condition today at the station of the Tsarkoe Zelo Railroad. She confessed to having been selected to execute an important terroristic act, but her courage failed her, she said, and she took poison. The woman has not been identified.

Emperor Nicholas left Peterhof for Tsarkoe Selo Nov. 9, intending to pass the winter there. What was believed to have been a carefully laid plot to assassinate the Emperor was frustrated by the vigilance of the railway guards while the imperial party was on its way to Tsarkoe Selo. Early in the morning of Nov. 9 a guard discovered six men trying to cut the wire of a semaphore signal at Ligivo Station. The guard made an attempt to arrest the man, but was fired on and wounded and the supposed terrorists escaped.

SOLDIERS' HOME OFFICIALS IN ROW

Col. Sidney G. Cooke and Col. R. E. Hunt Bring Cross Charges.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 19.—It was ascertained here today that differences have arisen between Col. Sidney G. Cooke, Governor of the Soldiers' Home and Col. R. H. Hunt, Quartermaster of the institution. Each has preferred charges against the other. It is said that Col. Cooke has charged Col. Hunt with neglecting his duty and meddling in affairs with which he is not concerned. Insubordination is also charged, it is said.

It is reported that Col. Hunt charges Col. Cooke with tyranny and harshness and asserts that it is hard for the veterans to live up to the "red tape" rules now in vogue. Col. Hunt is away and will not be back until Friday. Col. Cooke refused to make any statement about the trouble today, although he did not deny that charges had been preferred.

Col. Hunt was appointed quartermaster in June. He is a close friend of Senator Warner of Missouri, who is a member of the National Soldiers' Home Board of Managers. Col. Hunt was widely known in Missouri politics and was once the Republican nominee for Mayor of Kansas City.

Col. Cooke formerly was a member of the National Soldiers' Home Board of Managers and resigned the position to accept the governorship of this home on the death of Gov. Rowland.

VISITORS SIGHT-SEEING.

Merchants Spend Their Spare Time in Visiting Points of Interest.

Visiting merchants attracted to St. Louis by the special sales announced by the principal wholesale dry goods houses, spent considerable time yesterday and today in sight-seeing, taking in the many points of interest and visiting the principal retail establishments with a view of taking pointers and incidentally making purchases of goods that they cannot secure in their respective home towns. One of the most sought-for points of interest was the great jewelry house of Mermod, Jaccard & King, corner Broadway and Locust street, and all day long Monday there was a constant stream of visitors passing through the immense establishment admiring the magnificent display of fine wares. On all sides were heard expressions of the most flattering character, and the firm was warmly congratulated on the completeness of its collection of holiday goods that crowds every department in the establishment. The visitors were given a warm welcome by the firm and the employes and will carry home with them the most pleasant recollection of their visit to the greatest retail jewelry house in the world.

BANK'S OFFICERS BORROWED FUNDS

Directors of Wrecked Concern Force Restitution—Indictments Expected.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Kings County grand jury is investigating the affairs of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn and indictments of seven men are expected. Some of these men are former officers of the bank, which closed its doors nearly a month ago at the beginning of the present financial flurry. The others are men associated with the bank's officers in real estate and other speculations.

It has been shown that the men borrowed approximately $450,000 from the bank on their personal notes and on notes signed by their clerks, and in some instances with fictitious names. The borrowers have turned over to the bank property worth at least $1,000,000 and depositors are thereby fully protected.

The first inkling of irregularities was had immediately after the bank suspended and since then experts have been at work on the books and the directors have held long meetings daily. The full extent of the financial operations of the bank's officials has just become known and the men who were concerned have signed confessions explaining in detail the manner in which they manipulated the $4,000,000 of the bank's deposits.

Resolution Is Made.

Restitution was demanded and was at first refused, but when a copy of the penal code was left on a table with paper slips marking the sections that had been violated, the accused men wilted and turned over their entire fortunes to the bank.

William Gow, a member of the advertising firm of Ward & Gow, was the principal stockholder in the bank. He was regarded as a conservative business man and was supposed to have an income of $300,000 a year. Howard Maxwell was president and Arthur D. Campbell was cashier. These officers and Gow have admitted borrowing immense sums from the bank which they used in promoting realty and other speculative deals. For a time they made money rapidly, but when the collapse came they were unable to keep their heads above water.

During the time they were borrowing the funds of the bank there were regular meetings of the directors at which explanations of loans requested and allowed were made. Many of the loans did not appear on the books of the bank.

HIRES SPECIAL CAR FOR CATS

New York Woman's Pets Attended on Journey by Two Grooms.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Twenty-three cats of distinguished ancestry, each occupying a separate trunk with soft cushions, were the passengers in a special car which left the New York Central station this morning on the way from Cazenovia to the annual cat show in New York.

Mrs. Norton is a rich woman whose hobby is cats. She has a building for them costing $3000, lighted with electricity and containing all the comforts of home. Each puss has its own apartments, and there is a special attendant to see that they are properly taken care of. Two grooms accompanied the prize-seeking animals this morning.

Last summer Mrs. Norton gave a cat tea, to which the summer residents of Cazenova were invited.

For Female Ills

Strange Symptoms

Those symptoms, that you do not understand, are very likely due, if you are a woman, to womanly disease. Frequently female disorder is so insidious, that no local pain is experienced, but just a feeling of misery, all-over, and a general nervous, irritable, depression, that has driven many a sufferer to the brink of desperation.

In such cases, Wine of Cardui can be depended on to bring relief and renewed interest in life. Being a strengthening, building, female tonic, it renews the principal forces, builds up the womanly organs and puts strength where women most need it. "I do not know," writes Mrs. Martha Wilson, "that I can command words to tell you how grateful I am to Cardui for giving me back my health again. I was troubled with womanly ills for 3 or 4 years; unable, a great deal of the time, to do my work. After taking one bottle of Cardui I was able to do my work." Try it.

WOMAN WHOSE HUSBAND SHOT BOARDER UNMOVED BY KILLING

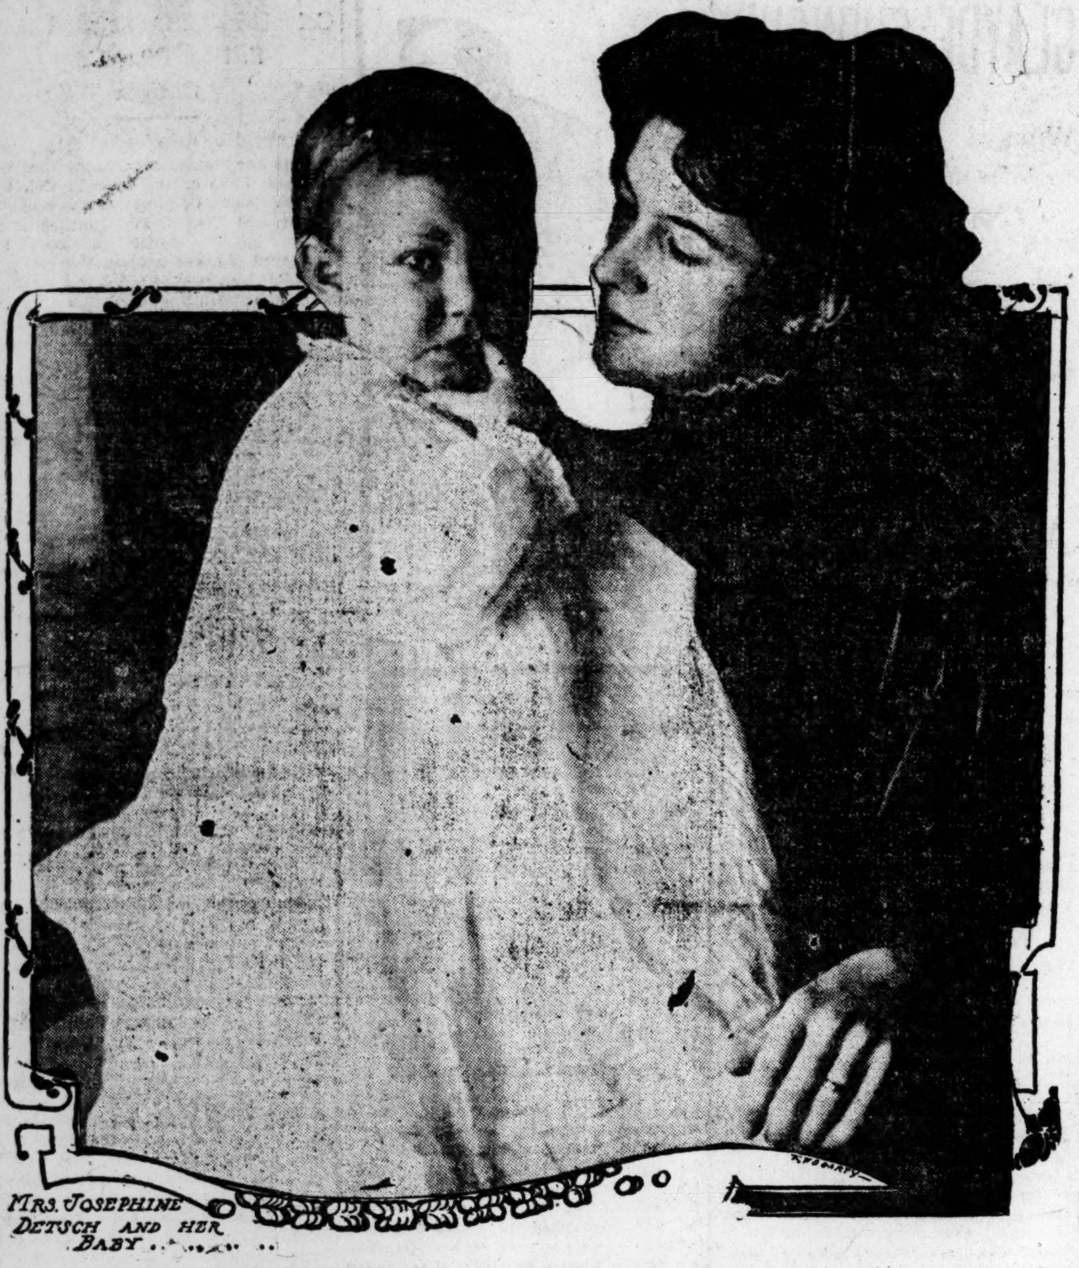
Mrs. Josephine Deitsch Shows Neither Sorrow Nor Remorse.

IGNORES HER HUSBAND

Has Not Visited Him in Prison Where He Awaits His Trial.

ROMPS WITH HER BABY

Says She Is Not Complimented by Comparison With Mrs. Thaw.



MRS. JOSEPHINE DETSCH AND HER BABY

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—New York has its Thaw case, Washington its Bradley trial and Philadelphia has patterned after their example in developing the Detsch tragedy, in many respects more remarkable than either of these notable crimes of passion, smoldering hatred and sudden, swift revenge.

It is the story of a very young woman, Josephine Gorgas, who, married to a man of her own age, Andrew Jackson Detsch, became infatuated with Harry Ferree, a 40-year-old widower, who boarded with them, and was finally goaded by his efforts to blackmail her into telling her young husband of the intrigue, and, the police of Philadelphia believe, deliberately luring her lover to death at the avenging husband's hands.

I saw this remarkable young woman yesterday in the offices of her lawyers, Samuel H. Clement Jr., and Chapman & Chapman, in the Land and Title Building in Philadelphia.

Ever since the killing of Ferree on the night of Nov. 6 outside the door of Mrs. Detsch's room the young woman has been in strict seclusion behind the barred windows of her home, at 1840 North Twenty-second street. It was there that Ferree was killed, and it was there that Detsch claimed to have shot him through the closed door of his wife's bedroom in mistake for a burglar.

Parallels the Thaw Case.

Except for brief visits to the offices of her lawyers she has remained there with only her aged grandmother for company. She has not visited her husband in prison. She would not tell me whether or not she is ever going to do so.

Mr. Samuel Clement, of her counsel, who had kindly arranged the meeting, had told me as well as Mrs. Detsch that the central figure in Philadelphia's Thaw tragedy could be seen, but under no circumstances heard. Mrs. Detsch seemed to find the restriction as hard as I did. More than once she broke over it. For, when I spoke to Mr. Clement of the resemblance of her case to that of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, she said decidedly:

"I assure you I'm not at all complimented by the comparison."

"Mrs. Detsch!" thundered her two lawyers, warningly, in chorus.

So Mrs. Detsch romped with her 17-months-old baby—a bright, tow-headed, blue-eyed little fellow, and when I suggested playfully that I interview him, she glanced at the lawyers, smiled, and shoving the baby toward me, said:

"Do. They won't object to that. He can't talk."

It was hard to realize from her manner that scarcely a week before a man had been killed for her sake, and before her eyes.

Seems Unaffected by the Killing.

Notwithstanding her protest, the comparison of her story with that of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is inevitable. Each was lured by a man of middle age, who died at the hands of an avenging husband. The only difference lies in Mrs. Thaw's story of drugging and in Mrs. Detsch's alleged statement to Detectives Wood and Tate after the shooting that she was hypnotized by Ferree, in whose trunk the detectives found letters and photographs said to be extremely compromising to Mrs. Detsch.

"Have you read those letters?" I asked Mr. Clement in Mrs. Detsch's presence.

"Yes," he replied, "but we will not say a word about them."

The inquiry did not seem to concern Mrs. Detsch, who, so far as I could judge yesterday, quite equals Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in coolness and self-possession.

Moreover, there is a marked physical resemblance between the two. Mrs. Detsch is taller than Mrs. Thaw, and her hair, which she wears in a huge knot at the back of her head, is a very pretty chestnut instead of a very dark brown. She has, however, the same clear, oval face, small, regular features, and long, hazel eyes under eyebrows of an unusually delicate penciling.

As Unconcerned as Her Own Baby

She is more than a year younger than Mrs. Thaw, but she looks older, and not even the most impassioned orator from the Pacific slope in his wildest flight of fancy could describe her as an "angel child." For there is the stamp of maternity on her face; though, as I watched this 23-year-old woman and her 17-months-old child, I could not decide which seemed the more oblivious of the tragedy in which they figured—the tow-headed baby who had slept peacefully just inside the door at whose threshold his father had shot Ferree to death, or the young mother who, the Philadelphia police claim, lured her former lover to his doom by telling him her husband was away from home.

The young woman was dressed yesterday in a dark green skirt and a long loose black coat that hung in folds on her tall, extremely slender figure. A black hat, trimmed with a flaming red feather, was perched on her chestnut hair. As she wandered about the room or bent over the baby her movements were extremely graceful.

The most remarkable thing about her is not her appearance, which is unusually pleasing, but her impassivity. She has what District-Attorney Jerome calls "the insensibility of the born criminal," although her face has nothing in it that a stained-glass angel might not have.

Might Be Either Saint or Devil.

Her features are extremely mobile, and I should judge her character to be equally so. She is of that plastic material of which a good man might mould a saint, or an evil one a devil.

Apparently she has struggled during the three years of her married life between two such influences—that of her hard-working young husband and of Ferree, the elderly widower whom she met shortly after her marriage, and who was from that time a part of the little household.

Ferree was divorced from his first wife, who now lives in Brooklyn with her children. His second wife died some years ago, and since then he had not been interested in any woman except Mrs. Detsch, whom he professed to like merely as the wife of his friend.

Nevertheless, the Philadelphia police say, he had for two years been conducting an intrigue with the young wife, which ended only when she went with her husband and baby last summer to Asbury Park.

Paramour Turned Blackmailer.

From the seashore she wrote Ferree constantly, telling him how much she longed to see him. But Ferree became jealous of another man she had met during the summer, a resident of Palmyra, N. J., and on her return to Philadelphia he threatened to expose the young woman to her husband unless she paid him for his silence.

The detectives say she paid Ferree $50, and then, made desperate by his repeated demands, herself told young Detsch the sordid story.

This was on the night of Monday, Nov. 4. Young Detsch did not wait so long for his revenge as did Harry Thaw. He did not let the tale of wrongdoing and shame fester in his soul for years, as Thaw did. He bought a revolver and a little after midnight of Nov. 6 shot Ferree as he halted outside the door of Mrs. Detsch's room.

Ferree's room was on the floor below that of the Detschs, and the police say his presence on the upper floor can only be explained by the theory that Mrs. Detsch had told him her husband was away.

It is a very ugly charge brought against an unusually pretty woman.

Neither Mrs. Detsch nor her lawyers will deny or affirm it, so only the developments at Detsch's forthcoming trial, which it is thought will begin in December next, will verify it or lay its ghost.

PLAN TO FIGHT DISEASE

Battle Against Stomach Troubles in St. Louis.

The increase of stomach troubles in St. Louis has led to effective measures to combat the disease. Local agencies have been established with the leading druggists for Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and in order to induce people suffering with weak stomach or indigestion to use the remedy, it is sold with the distinct understanding that money will be refunded in every case where it does not cure.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive, but an absolute strengthener and builder-up of the whole digestive tract. If you suffer with headaches, giddiness, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, nervousness, coated tongue, distress after eating, use Mi-o-na and see how quickly these symptoms of a weak stomach will disappear.

The remedy strengthens the muscular walls of the stomach and increases the flow of gastric juices so that nourishment is extracted from the food and the refuse is expelled without the aid of purgative or laxative medicines.

Strengthen the stomach and make it do its own work by using Mi-o-na. Do not fuss and nurse it along by digestive tablets that do no lasting good. Make a complete cure of your stomach troubles and replace weakness with strength by using Mi-o-na.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

FIRE IN CITY HOTEL, CAPITAL LANDMARK

Old Hostelry Damaged by Flames—Has Housed Many Prominent Men.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—Fire early today slightly damaged the old City Hotel, one of the landmarks of the State Capital. The fire, which was of unexplained origin, started in an upper story and had gained considerable headway before discovery.

It was extinguished before damage had been done to the building, though stocks of goods in stores on the ground floor were damaged by water.

The City Hotel was one of Jefferson City's early hotels, and has housed many men of prominence.

SAYS LATE INVENTIONS IN ST. LOUIS SAVED HER SIGHT

"For forty years I was practically blind," says Mrs. Louise Roth of 4069 Garfield, "I had a scum over my eyes and could see objects only very close. A well-known St. Louis physician wanted to take out my left eye to save my right, but I would not let him.

"Two weeks ago I came to Phenomenal Kraus' Specialists. Today I can see almost as well as anyone and can read now without the aid of glasses."

This testimonial is on file at the offices of Phenomenal Kraus at 523 Chestnut, signed by Mrs. Roth and witnessed by C. R. Porter, 603 Burlington Building.

"My specialists treated Mrs. Roth with the Radio and Leucodescent lights," says Phenomenal Kraus, "the same kind that were mentioned in the Associated Press report only two weeks ago as the latest curative discoveries. We installed them here some weeks ago. My specialists keep abreast of medical progress." ***

Boy Hurt by Fall from Car.

William Gerau, 7 years old, the son of Benjamin Gerau of 5415 Eleanor avenue, is at St. Anthony's hospital in a critical condition with a fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain. He fell from a Cherokee car in front of 5800 Gravois avenue Monday afternoon.

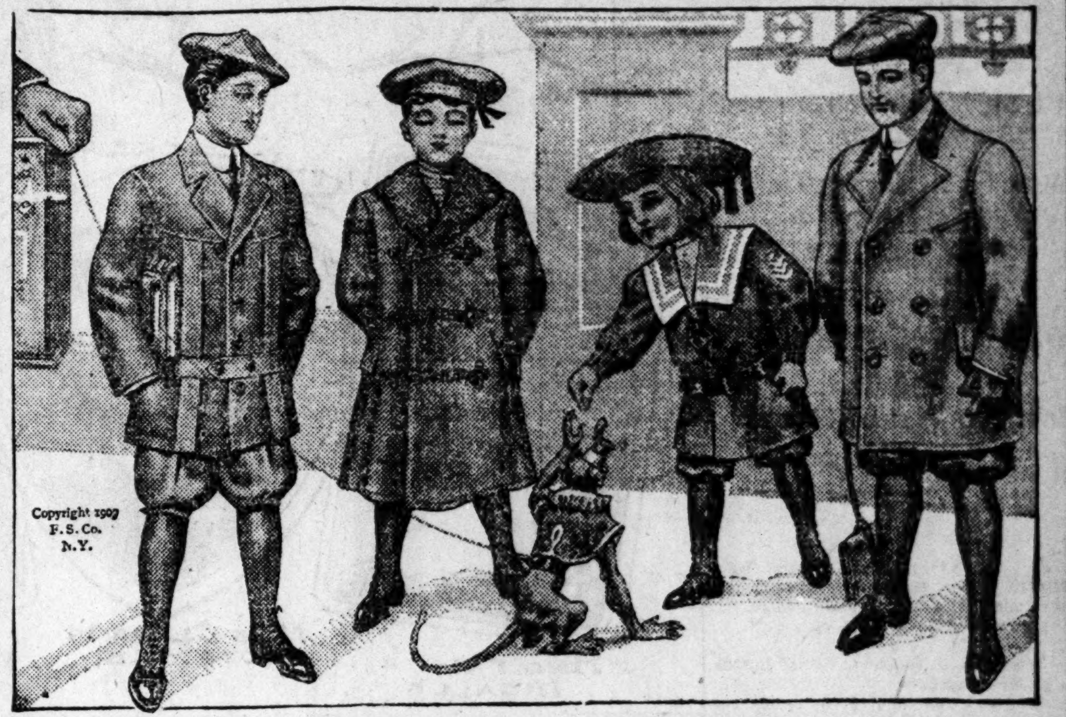
Extraordinary Values

In Boy's Suits and Overcoats



Copyright 1907 F. S. Co. N.Y.

THIS great sale of Boys' Winter Clothing is of extreme importance, because it involves our entire new stock of high-grade Suits for boys from 2½ to 17 years of age. We are going to reduce our big stock quickly and have divided it into groups for easy choosing. Ordinarily you do not get this opportunity until after New Years, but when we determine to reduce stock, profits are not considered.

Regular $3.50 and $4.00 Values, $2.75

This assortment includes Double-Breasted Suits for boys from 7 to 17 years; also Russian and Sailor Blouse Suits for boys from 2½ to 10 years. The fabrics in these Suits are thoroughly dependable in every respect, and every garment neatly trimmed and well made; usual $3.50 and $4.00 garments, on sale $2.75

Regular $8.50 and $10.00 Values, $5.00

Very fine Suits in browns, tans, grays and olives and fancy mixtures are in this assortment at $5.00. We are very particular about our $8.50 and $10.00 lines, and so when we offer these at $5.00 to reduce stock, you get an opportunity to buy fine clothing that comes very seldom at this season. We have all sizes and styles for boys from 2½ to 17 years, on sale at $5.00

Regular $5.00 and $6.00 Values, $3.50

At this price you will find exceptional garments as to style, fit and workmanship. The latest colors and patterns are included, in the most popular Fall and Winter models; these garments sell in the regular way for $5.00 and $6.00, and are splendid values at that price; they are wonderful values at our sale price $3.50

Regular $12.50 and $13.50 Values, $7.50

Exclusive high-grade Suits, such as you do not find in the ordinary store, we have in this lot for quick selling. We have hundreds of these extra fine Suits to be disposed of quickly, and have marked them accordingly; in the regular way they sell for $12.50 to $13.50; but our sale price is $7.50

We cannot impress upon you too strongly the importance of early choosing, as an offer of this kind on our fine Boys' Clothing is sure to attract large crowds of shrewd buyers.

rush for picks and spades by the gregation of the Strodtman Heights istian Church followed the gift to church of a $250 lot by R. H. Stock- , president of the Majestic Manufac- ng Co., and before the enthusiasm of members had abated excavations for a temporary structure were well under way.

The entire congregation of the church headed by the pastor, Rev. L. H. Hiers, is assisting in some way in the plan to have a frame chapel erected on the grounds at 2638 Genevieve avenue by Thanksgiving day. While the male members are digging at the excavation the women are canvassing for funds and serving dinners downtown to assist financially.

Pastor Will Stay in Poplar Bluff.

Rev. J. W. Hatfield of Poplar Bluff, Mo., has reconsidered his acceptance of the call to the pastorate of the Lee Avenue Presbyterian Church, and at the urgent request of his congregation will remain in Poplar Bluff.

Will Aid St. Matthew's Church.

Thursday and Friday evenings the members of St. Mathew's choir will give a minstrel show and musical dance in the old church for the benefit of the building fund of the new church at Sarah street and Kennerly avenue. John Potts will be stage manager and Miss Kittie Kerwin accompanist.

SHE ASKED JUSTICE W
HER IF HE WOULD AN G

MRS. PEARL WONDRISKA

CHAGRINED TO FIND SHE IS MARRIED TO A DUDE

Mrs. Pearl Wondriska Says Her Young Husband Wore Raiment That Amused Boys on Chippewa Street.

Mrs. Pearl Wondriska, aged 17, of 2702 Chippewa street, has been awakened from her honeymoon dreams by a reluctant realization of the fact that her youthful husband of three months is a dude. So shocking to her was this discovery that she is seeking a divorce after vainly attempting to have the marriage annulled.

Her marriage to Joseph Wondriska at Clayton Sept. 11 was celebrated under all the omens which romance has held auspicious. There was the refusal of the license at Belleville on the ground that the girl was not of legal age, flight from irate parents, an elopment to the Gretna Green of St. Louis County, the girl's age obligingly attested by a friend who posed as her aunt, and marriage with poetical accompaniments by Justice Werremeyer—nothing was lacking to insure the young couple's living happily ever afterwards.

But soon afterwards the bridegroom, according to the bride, began to wear bright yellow kid gloves on the hottest days, to the amusement of the urchins of Chippewa street. Snow white waistcoats made their appearance, and were changed daily.

Raiment Was Glorious.

Silk cravats and rainbow-hued hose followed, with patent leather boots for daily wear. Then came carnations and tube roses as an ornament of his coat lapel. Of course, trousers and coats were of the latest style, and sacredly kept in crease. As a last straw, she says, a light bamboo walking stick was added.

When Wondriska walked along Chippewa street, according to his bride, he was attended by a train of urchins, shouting comments on his attire.

Mrs. Stanislaus Wondriska of 2644 Iowa avenue, when seen Tuesday by a Post-Dispatch reporter, said with maternal complacency:

"Of course my son Joe is a dude and I'm proud of it. He has a right to be. He is an engraver and makes good money when he is at work. He happened to be idle when he was married, but has gone to work recently."

Mrs. Wondriska, supported by her redoubtable mother, visited Justice Werremeyer at Clayton Monday and besought him to untie the bonds with which he had united her to a dude. When he declared his inability to free her, she sought a lawyer and began talking of a divorce. Mrs. Hickey says the petition will be filed in a day or so in the Circuit Court at Clayton.

MRS. PEARL WONDRISKA'S DEFINITION OF A DUDE

White waistcoats changed daily.

Patent leather shoes for daily wear.

Silk cravats of rainbow hues.

Barber-pole hose, stimulating not only the visual but the auditory nerves.

Trousers religiously creased.

An air blase and bored.

Glowing boutoniers in the winter.

SITE FOR NEW CHURCH BOUGHT

Syrian Parish Pays $75,000 for Lot in O'Fallon Heights.

Charles L. Pyne of Rutledge & Kilpatrick Realty Co., has closed the sale of 116 feet of ground in O'Fallon Heights, to Rev. Anthony Sleiman and Habit Joseph. Mr. Payne represents Russell B. Gibson, who recently purchased 2800 feet of ground in this section for $75,000.

Rev. Father Sleiman is rector of the Syrian Catholic Church of St. Anthony the Hermit, and the Syrian people in his congregation contemplate erecting a church on this property and making this section their home in the near future. This entire tract of 2800 feet will be sold in lots, upon which substantial homes will be built, with all modern conveniences. The property sold is the corner of Holly and Carter avenues, the purchase price being $4000.

Saloon License Reoked.

Excise Commissioner Mulvihill has revoked the license of C. H. Block, who has been conducting a saloon at 2627 North Garrison avenue. He was charged with maintaining a disorderly house.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press. In addition it receives the service of the United Press and maintains a leased wire to its New York Bureau. Its news-gathering organization is unsurpassed in the United States. No other St. Louis newspaper approaches it.

LOCAL BROKERS WANT $2,000,000 OF NEW SCRIP

Thirty on Hand Early With Subscriptions for Federal Certificates.

BANKS ALL IN LINE

St. Louis-Union Trust Co. Announces That It Will Subscribe for $100,000.

United States Subtreasurer Akins announced at noon that St. Louis subscriptions to the new $100,000,000 issues of Government loan certificates had passed the $2,000,000 mark.

Mr. Akins says the number of applicants for the Treasury certificates is constantly increasing, and that before Saturday the demand from St. Louisans alone will probably exceed $7,000,000.

"I have not been advised by the Treasury officials as to the amount of certificates that will be alloted to St. Louis," said Mr. Akins. "Judging by the rate at which applications are now pouring in we can easily use $15,000,000 worth. If the amount is any less than that figure the allotment will likely be largely ever-subscribed.

All Classes Subscribing.

"Subscriptions are coming from persons in every walk of life, bankers, merchants, brokers and the ordinary day laborer. If Wall street doesn't think this issue will be a success it is very badly mistaken."

When the Subtreasury on the second floor of the Federal Building opened Tuesday morning 30 prospective subscribers were in line.

President Thomas R. West of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. was the first man at the registry teller's window.

"We will take $100,000 worth," said Mr. West quietly. Next came G. R. Kenamore, former State Beer Inspector, who subscribed for $1500.

Wants $50,000 of Issue.

John J. Kelley, with an office at 812 Commercial Building, said he would take $50,000 of the new loan certificates, but preferred to telegraph his order direct to Washington.

It is understood at the Subtreasury that the total subscription of St. Louis banks and trust companies alone will approximate $1,000,000.

Many bankers and brokers are acting for clients, who have large amounts of currency at their disposal. The fact that the Treasury Department has decided to accept the loan certificates on deposit to secure circulation has made the new loan certificates especially attractive to national banks.

It is pointed out that a national bank paying $100,000 in currency for a similar amount of Treasury notes can issue circulation practically to the amount of $100,000 to make up for the currency thus paid out.

Will Double Circulation.

For every dollar of currency going to the United States Treasury, bankers figure that an additional dollar of circulation will be secured.

Subtreasurer Akins says that doubt cannot exist as to the success of the Government's plans for relieving the financial stringency.

In regard to the $50,000,000 of Panama Canal bonds, which will bear interest at the rate of 2 per cent a year, Mr. Akins has received a number of letters indicating that a large block, probably to exceed $2,000,000, will be disposed of here.

Outside Banks Interested.

"This morning's mail," said Mr. Akins, brought assurances that the Treasury loan scheme is popular in the West and Southwest.

"We received many inquiries from small banks throughout Missouri and Kansas, who are acting in numerous instances for their depositors. It would not surprise me if the subscriptions at the St. Louis Subtreasury went beyond $6,000,000.

"A United States Treasury note or bond is the most gilt-edged security in the world. When it is accompanied with an interest gift of 3 per cent we can readily see what an opportunity it offers the conservative investor."

Bankers Approve Bond Issue.

Bankers generally express approval of the $50,000,000 Panama Canal bond issue proposed by President Roosevelt, but some doubt is felt as to the wisdom of the $100,000,000 issue of one-year certificates of indebtedness at 3 per cent, news telegrams to the Post-Dispatch said Tuesday.

A large proportion of the short-time certificates of indebtedness will be issued in large denominations, so that they may be taken over by national banks as a basis for the issuance of notes. The exact percentage of the large certificates was not fixed. All will bear 3 per cent interest for one year, to Nov. 20, 1908, and the persons last holding them will get the interest.

Hope is expressed that it will be necessary to issue only about half of the certificates. They will be made payable to bearer, and will not be legal tender under the statutes, but they are expected to pass as currncy since they are Government promises to pay, with interest.

President Roosevelt expects the bonds and certificates to bring out the millions of gold hoarded by the public and restore normal conditions. Everything will then be as it should be, except that $150,000,000 will be added to the national debt.

Government Funds on Deposit.

Treasury officials have not announced whether cash must be paid for the bonds.

The cash balance of the Government is $240,064,896, but only $14,400,000 is actually in the treasury. The rest is deposited in national banks.

Many telegraphic offers have been received at Washington for the bonds, but none has been made public.

Representative Barthodlt was one of those who congratulated the President Monday afternoon. Senator Warner said in an interview that he did not see what excuse the banks could have now for not loosening up. Other members of Congress expressed hopeful views of the situation.

Chicago bankers question the expediency of the $100,000,000 short-time certificate issue. They say it is likely to prove a disadvantage after the present stringency is passed, and will not be a permanent help. It was said that two Chicago banking houses were offered $15,000,000 of the certificates and declined them.

Some New York bankers express similar doubts regarding the certificate issue. Others, however, recall Secretary Carlisle's $100,000,000 popular loan, one-third of which was subscribed by the Morgan syndicate of bankers. Rumors were current that Morgan was organizing another such syndicate, but finally they took the shape that the syndicate was forming to take over $25,000,000 of the Panama bonds.

RAINCOAT MAN DENIES THAT HE COURTED MRS. HOLLEANDER

MRS. ELOISE HOLLANDER.

Cross-Bill in Divorce Suit Brings Forth Protest From Mark Abrams.

Mark Abrams, manager of a downtown raincoat store, says that if his former employe, Mrs. Holleander, regrets that she rejected him for Adolph Holleander, she has never told him so. He denies Holleander's charge, made Monday in a crossbill to his wife's suit for divorce, that he was attentive to Mrs. Holleander after her marriage. Mrs. Holleander lives at 4709 Page boulevard.

"Mr. Holleander came here and was introduced to me in the store before his marriage," Abrams said. "As a matter of fact, I was not attentive to her before nor after the marriage."

He added that Holelander often invited him to the house to play pinochle.

Mrs. Holleander, a slim, hazel-eyed woman, with hair elaborately marcelled, declined to discuss the matter. Her husband, who is manager of an automobile garage, says that two months after their marriage she told him she was sorry she hadn't taken Abrams instead of him, and that subsequently she deserted him.

NEXT MESSAGE TO CONGRESS WILL BE, "I TOLD YOU SO"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—"I told you so" will be the burden of that part of the President's message relating to the financial situation. He will call attention to the fact that in his past messages he warned Congress that something must be done and that in each case Congress paid no attention. He will lay special emphasis on his message of last year. He will repeat what he said then in quotation marks, and will insist that this year Congress shall follow the advice which last year it rejected. He will make no specific recommendation—that is, he will not prescribe the exact kind of legislation which should be adopted, but will do as he has done in the past—urge that the conditions be remedied.

The President will call special attention to the fact that in his message last year he warned Congress of disaster if the currency were not reformed; he will declare that his prediction was in a measure verified by the recent panic, and that its complete verification was only prevented by the prompt measures taken by Secretary Cortelyou and some leading financiers; and he will repeat his warning in a still stronger form.

Will Quote from Message.

He will quote from his message of last year the following paragraph:

"I especially call your attention to the condition of our currency laws. The recurrence of each crop season emphasizes the defects of the present laws. There must soon be a revision of them, because to leave them as they are means to incur liability of business disaster."

In the same message, while he expressly refrained from "pressing any especial plan," he spoke with favor of one, and this time he will probably mention two or three, leaving Congress to take its pick.

PRAISES JUDGE AS DEFENDER OF AMERICAN GIRL

Wilfley's Fearless Course Is Commended at Banquet Here.

WILL STAY IN SHANGHAI

St. Louis Jurist's Policy Is Approved by the President.

That President Roosevelt has promised to keep Judge Lebbeus R. Wilfley of St. Louis on the bench of the United States Court in Shanghai, China, regardless of the attacks made on him, was the statement made by William T. Ellis at the banquet of laymen of St. Louis churches at the Planters Hotel.

Mr. Ellis will speak Tuesday night at a men's mass meeting in the interest of the laymen's missionary movement, to be held in the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington avenues. The banquet Monday night, attended by 234 invited guests, was preliminary to this meeting.

Mr. Ellis, a Philadelphia newspaper man, recently made a circuit of the world, viewing missions, especially in Asia, from the layman's standpoint. He has visited the President since returning.

He said in his address at the banquet that every criticism directed against missions and missionaries might be true in individual and isolated cases, but that there is no finer body of men and women in any calling than the American missionaries in Asia.

Praise Judge Wilfley.

In speaking of Chinese conditions, he said that St. Louis should be proud of Judge Wilfley. "He has done more for the honor of the American name in China," said Mr. Ellis, "than any other force that has operated there for 50 years.

"The term 'American girl' has been one of reproach in Shanghai. Judge Wilfley has driven the 'American girl' out of Shanghai and has sent the organizers of the great system of vice there to prison. He is making the name 'American girl' one of honor and not of reproach.

"He does not deem it his duty to clean up all China, but he does deem it his duty to see that the American name is not dishonored in China, and he will see to that as long as he stays there, and I have Theodore Roosevelt's word for it that he will stay there."

Mahatmas in Moral Darkness.

Mr. Ellis declared that morality, as understood in America, is unknown among the Mahatmas and "holy men" of India.

F. S. Brockman of China and J. Campbell White of New York were the other speakers. Judge Selden P. Spencer presided. All will speak at Tuesday night's meeting.

THIEF RANSACKS TWO HOMES

Warrant Is Issued for Boy's Arrest When Money Disappeared.

Before starting out on a shopping trip Monday afternoon Mrs. Edward Powers, 3846 Lucky street, carefully locked all the doors and windows in her house and then hid the key to the back door on the side porch. When she returned she discovered the house had been ransacked. A thief had found the key and had taken $6 from a bedroom on the first floor.

The residence of Mrs. Bernard Nary, 3850 Lucky street, also was entered by a thief. Two children's banks and a purse containing $8 were taken. Later in the afternoon Mrs. John Coughlin of 3850½ Lucky street called at the Nary home and gave Mrs. Nary the two banks. She said she got them from her 12-year-old son, Oliver. The police have issued an order for his arrest.

REV. C. L. JANZOW RESIGNS

Gives Up Pastorate of Bethlehem Church as Result of Compromise.

A compromise has been effected in the fight that has for some years divided the congregation of the German Evangelical Lutheran Bethlehem Church, Salisbury and Twenty-fifth streets, whereby Rev. C. L. Janzow, the pastor, has resigned and Rev. Mr. Hann has been chosen temporarily to succeed him. By the terms of the agreement Rev. Mr. Janzow is to retain the pastoral residence until the first of the year, and is also to receive the monthly salary of $50 for the same period.

The resignation was submitted at a stormy session of the congregation at the church Monday night. The action follows that of the Missouri Synod in declaring the pastor and the church divorced from the council.

BRYAN UPHOLDS ROOSEVELT AND RAPS FINANCIERS

"I'll Not Join in Making Him a Scapegoat," Nebraskan Tells Banqueters.

BLAMES OLD LEADERS

Says Republican Party Had Chained the People to Wall Street.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 19.—Don't make Roosevelt the scapegoat; don't blame him for a "panic" for which other Republican leaders who have "bound us hand and foot to Wall street" are responsible. Blame the violators of the law; not those who showed them up. This is the advice given by William Jennings Bryan, addressing the members of the Jackson Club, a local Democratic organization, at a banquet last night.

Mr. Bryan said:

"We are in the midst of a financial stringency that in some respects is more acute than that of 1873. I am not going to blame the President or a Republican administration, but I know who would be blamed if I were President. If I were President every cross-roads Republican would be blaming me.

"The panic of 1873 came 13 years after they took power and 12 before they surrendered power to the Democrats. I'm not going to blame the President, because I do not think blame should be laid at his door. I'm going to do him the justice to say I won't join the chorus of Eastern financiers who want to make him the scapegoat. Those who violate the law should be blamed, not those who have turned on the light recently.

Blames Former Leaders.

"There is no excuse for the people to be afraid that their banks are not solvent. What is the cause of this panic? The President is not to blame. Who is to blame? The Republican leaders who had control of the country for 47 years. They have so chained us to Wall street that when a Wall street gambler fails our business world trembles all over the country.

"The common people and not the Wall street gamblers should handle this situation. The man who will draw out his money now when he does not need it is in the same class as the man who would refuse to aid his country in time of war. This is a time when great patriotism is needed."

Will Run If He "Must."

Mr. Bryan said that, after serving in two campaigns, he did not feel like volunteering again, although he would accept the presidential nomination in 1908 if "drafted." He said he was glad that the unprecedented discovery of gold had taken the money question out of politics.

"But I want you to know," said the speaker, "that our arguments on the money question, advanced in 1896, have been vindicated, not by the Republican party, but because God Almighty took pity on the poor people of the world and opened up to them vast storehouses of gold."

Mr Bryan denounced tariff revision as proposed by Republicans, and accused the Republican party of bad faith in promising revision.

The People and the Tariff.

"The delay of a single year means much to the people of this country, and they are being defrauded out of hundreds of millions of dollars in the meantime. The people are ready to let the Democrats reform the tariff," asserted Mr. Bryan.

Seven hundred plates were provided, of which 45 were at the table at which the Nebraskan sat. In addition, probably 2500 other persons were present.

"Postal savings banks are preferable to an asset currency.

"The man who will draw his money out of the bank now when he does not need it is in the same class as the man who would refuse to aid his country in time of war.

"The United States Senate is filled with trust and railroad attorneys and the people must look to the Democratic party for further relief from the trust evils.

"The Republican party and the railroads of the country are too friendly for the people's good. Roosevelt called on Harriman to raise $250,000 for campaign purposes and Harriman raised it.

"I denounce Republican tariff revision and I accuse that party of bad faith in promising revision. A calf will grow so large that it will wean itself; but no protected industry ever let go of the public teat until it was pulled away."

What Is a Democrat?

Mr. Bryan left Lafayette this morning with a new definition of a Democrat to carry with him. It was given by S. N. Stevens of Plymouth, Ind., and Bryan heartily approved of it. Here it is:

"A Democrat is a man who has voted twice for Billy Bryan and wants to do it again."

Mr. Bryan spoke before the Jackson Club until early this morning. Among other things he said:

"It is a disgrace to civilization that the laboring man is given no better protection than a strike.

"More anarchists are created by the courts sending the poor offender to Jail and letting the rich violator go free than by the Democratic party."

State for Brayan, Says Folk.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—There will be no opposition to the nomination of William J. Bryan in 1908 so far as the Missouri delegation is concerned, according to Gov. Joseph W. Folk. The Governor said:

"Missouri is for Bryan, of course. There will be no opposition to his nomination here, so far as I am advised."

Democrats in Missouri are quoted as having expressed the opinion that Bryan's nomination in 1908 will strengthen the party greatly in the State campaign.

"Uncle Henry" Booming Gray.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—"Uncle Henry" Gassaway Davis, carrying his 84 years jauntily, arrived here last night to see "Tom" Taggart and other Democrats, with a presidential boom for Judge George Gray of Delaware. He called on Mr. Taggart after a talk with Thomas F. Ryan, presumably to wean the Indianan away from Bryan.

"Mind you, I've not a word to say against Mr. Bryan," said "Uncle" Henry at the Waldorf-Astoria today, "but I feel mighty clever toward Judge Gray. He is one of the finest men in the country, and he's fitted to be President because he has had the right sort of experience."

Thomas F. Ryan had a long talk with Mr. Davis.

Roger Sullivan of Illinois and James M. Guffey of Pennsylvania, who have been here several days, have gone home. Chairman Taggart will return to Indiana tonight.

RULES FOR COURTING IN SCHOOL CURRICULUM

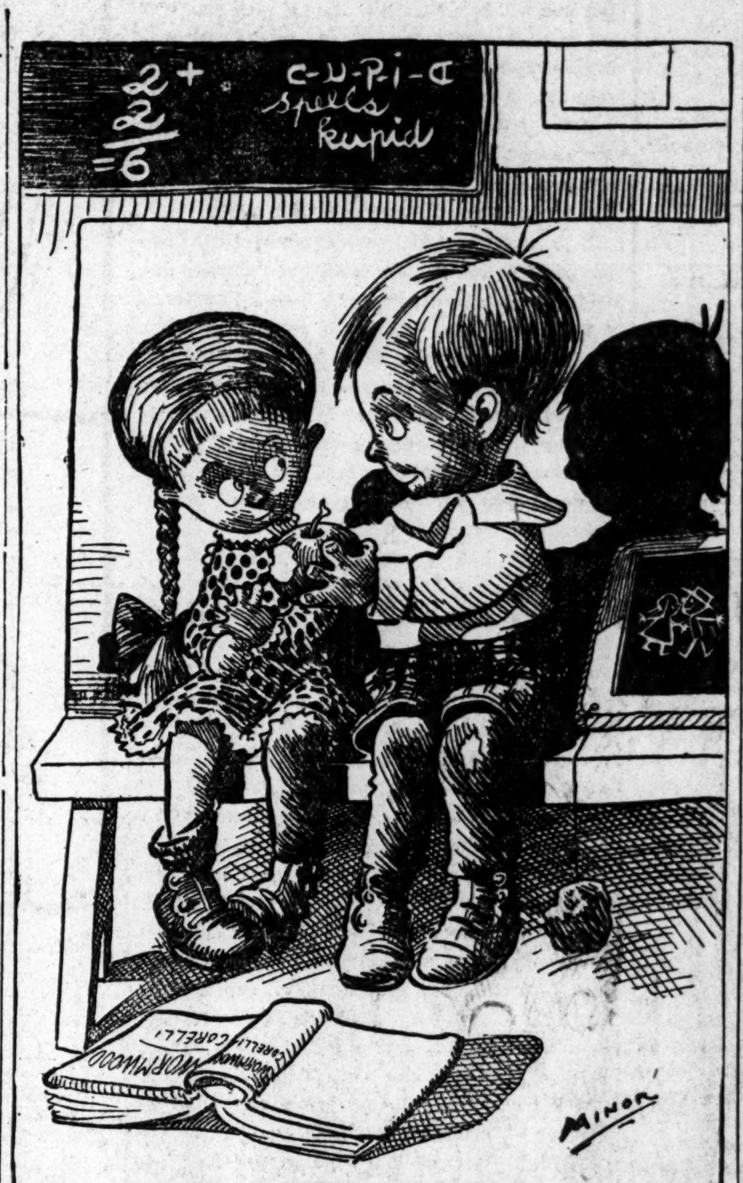
Includes an Exhaustive Investigation Into Love From Historical Point.

MAKING GOO-GOO EYES

How to Hold Hands and Pop the Question When There Is no Chance to Lose.

HINTS ON GIGGLING

Girls Will Also Learn When to Launch the Disdainful Bluff.



The suggestion of Francis G. Blair, Superintendent of Public Instruction in Illinois, that the art of courtship be taught in the public schools is regarded as a joke by Supt. Soldan of the St. Louis schools.

Mr. Soldan does not take the suggestion of the Illinois educator seriously, but the idea of public school instruction in love making finds friends in St. Louis, nevertheless.

It is recognized that courting is carried on crudely in Illinois Probably no State in the Union appreciates artistic courting more, but in practical application of the art the citizens of Illinois have to acknowledge themselves bunglers when the records of St. Louis County and some other sections of the county are exhibited. There are no poet J. P.'s in Illinois.

One prominent St. Louis advocate of lessons in courting already has prepared a skeleton of what should be taught.

What It Includes.

This includes:

(1) Philosophical course for beginners:
- An exhaustive investigation of the subject "Love;" to be treated from an historical standpoint, supplemented by theoretical analysis of the phenomenon as observed in the present day.
- An investigation of the "Affinity Problem," with a consideration of other new discoveries and progress in the science of Love.
- Scientific crticism of Romeo and Juliet, Abelard and Heloise, Dante and Beatrice, and comparison of same with press accounts of divorce trials.

How to hold hands.
How to mollify the "Old Man."
How to "Pop the Question."
(For girls.)

When to adopt the "Disdainful" bluff.
How to judge a bachelor's financial standing.

Going Through Courtship.

(3) Laboratory Work:

This will consist of a technical application of the theoretical knowledge acquired in the two preceding courses, beginning with "A Request for an Introduction" and going through the courtship, step by step, until the last stage—"Papa, Still Rather Cool, Offers Son-in-Law-to-Be a Cigar."

Of course, all through the instruction the class recitations and laboratory work will be severely scrutinized and the students will be expected to call their instructors' attention to each other's blunders. Only competent instructors, with establisned reputations as wooers, should be retained for the Chairs of Courtship.

It is regarded by leading pedagogues as high time Courtship should cease to run riot. The science ought to be transformed from an empiric to an exact system.

Heretofore the finest courters have had the habit of doing all their wooing in private, with the parlor light turned down, thus compelling the young and verdant to gain their first impressions from such fragmentary courting as one sees at Sunday school picnics and the like.

Results in Ignorance.

This has resulted in much ignorance on the subject. Many bright young persons have been known to spend as much as a year or two years on a courting job that could have been finished in from six weeks to two months if the principals had been prepared by a study of scientific love-making.

"When I was young I lived on a farm," said one prominent citizen recently. "I saw no courting and knew nothing about how to court. Consequently I was in a quandary when I fell in love with Maria.

"Luckily, she had visited in Mexico, Mo., twice and had seen some courting there. She was able to assist me very much without my being aware of it. So, finally I was able to declare my love and was accepted.

"I would have been overjoyed at the opportunity of studying courtship in school. I'll tell you, young folks nowadays have many advantages their fathers missed."

Expect Opposition.

Of course, the courting curriculum advocates realize that they will meet with some opposition. A certain prejudice in favor of the old-time, haphazard, rough-and-tumble courtships still prevails in some provincial quarters. But every true reformer in history was hooted at and often egged when he first stood out in the open and began reforming.

It is harder to get the public to swallow the average reform than to pour a dose of castor oil down the throat of an opinionated boy.

Attention has been called to the fact that the Southern Collegiate Institute at Albion, Ill., has forbidden all forms of courting among the faculty and students. Also that certain St. Louis County young women school teachers have been reproved for kissing the big boys of their schools. But these are sporadic cases.

The reform element thinks Cupid and St. Valentine have outlived their day and that Prof. Blair of Illinois will be the supreme courting authority hereafter.

COLISEUM WILL BE READY FOR CONVENTIONS IN JUNE

Committee Will Go to Washington to See the Republican Committee.

All but $10,000 of the money needed for the building of a new Coliseum on the Uhrig's Cave site at Jefferson and Washington avenues having been raised, work on the building is to be commenced in time for its completion by June 1. A committee representing the Business Men's League will be chosen to appear before the Republican National Executive Committee to request that the convention of that party be held here next summer. No effort is to be made for the present to bring the Democratic convention to the city.

President James E. Smith will name the committee that is to go to Washington to invite the Republicans here. The Republican Committee will meet Dec. 6.

A meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee will be held at French Lick Springs, Ind., Friday, but the League was informed that no action would be taken at that session regarding a place for the next convention. It is expected that this matter will be decided at the December meeting at which the Business Men's League will probably be represented.

Gen. Ballington Booth Coming.

Gen. Ballington Booth, commander of the Volunteers of America, will come to St. Louis Nov. 23 and will deliver an address in East St. Louis the evening of Nov. 23. Sunday, Nov. 24, he will speak at the Centenary Methodist Church at 10:30 a. m., at the St. Louis City Mission, 804 North Sixth street, at 3:30 p. m., and at the Washington and Compton avenues Presbyterian Church at 8 p. m.

ENGLAND'S PREMIER IS TO GO ABROAD FOR HIS HEALTH

Political Activities Have Been Too Great for Man 75 Years Old.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to King Edward's household, made an examination of the Premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, at Downing street this morning, and an official announcement was subsequently issued to the effect that the patient's condition was satisfactory, but that in view of the approaching session of Parliament it is necessary that he should have some weeks' complete change and rest. The Premier, therefore, is going abroad almost immediately.

He has not been the same man since his wife died last year and his recent acute attack of heart trouble at Bristol was a signal that his political activities had been overtaxing his strength. It would be no surprise to the friends of the Premier, who is 75 years old, if much of his parliamentary work during the coming session is delegated to his colleagues in the Cabinet.

GIRL SURPRISES A BURGLAR

Miss Maude Brennecke surprised a burglar on the front steps of her residence, 1812 Lafayette avenue, Monday evening.

"Does Miss Parker live here?" the man asked when Miss Brennecke suddenly threw the door open.

"She does not," replied Miss Brennecke. "What do you want?"

In reply the fellow rushed down the steps and escaped. Later Miss Brennecke discovered that jewelry valued at $100 was missing from the house.

SAGER SURE OF CONVICTIONS IN NEW GRAFT TRIAL

Circuit Attorney Confident of Proof Against Delegates.

HAS EVIDENCE READY

"Danny" Naughton Still Is Away From City Hall on Mysterious Trip.

Circuit Attorney Sager said Tuesday that, in his opinion, the dismissal of the bribery indictments against Delegates Warner and Priesmeyer Monday will amount merely to a continuance of their cases. He expressed confidence that the December grand jury will reindict them promptly and that they then can be forced to trial under circumstances more satisfactory to the State.

"The real reason I nolle prossed the cases Monday," Mr. Sager told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "was because of the jury. I was anything but satisfied with the panel furnished. It was far below the average panel in intelligence. In fact, I have never seen a jury panel in the Four Courts that looked worse to me, even in an ordinary petit larceny case.

"I formed by impression not only from the looks of the jurymen, but from their answers. Only one of the 25 men examined said he had formed an opinion of the case. Only a few of the others had read much about it. Some had seen only the newspaper headlines referring to it. Some had not heard of the case at all.

Feared Jury as Dangerous.

"I intended fully to go ahead with the trial of the case Monday morning. But at lunch time yesterday, in thinking over the 13 men accepted as possible jurors, my associates and myself decided it might be dangerous for the State to go to trial before such a jury as we might get.

"Finally, we concluded not to take any chance of trying the Warner case before the jurymen summoned

"Another reason we had for dismissing the cases was the possibility that the Supreme Court might decide against us, if the case were taken there, on the plea of abatement filed by the defense. I will say, however, that my associates were more strongly impressed on this point than I was myself. Personally, the jury was the moving consideration."

"Now that the cases have been dismissed, what are you going to do?" Mr. Sager was asked.

"I will lose no time in presenting the evidence necessary to support indictments for bribery against Warner and Priesmeyer to the December grand jury. Warner and Priesmeyer themselves will not be taken before the grand jury. The State has the necessary evidence without calling them."

Confident He'll Get Evidence.

"Well, suppose some of the necessary witnesses should leave the city and not be within reach of a grand jury subpena?"

"I'm not afraid of that," replied Sager, cheerfully. "They won't run away in all probability, and, if they do, we'll find them. They can't go very far away."

"If the December grand jury should reindict Warner and Priesmeyer, what will you do about a jury to try them?"

"Ask for a special jury again. I think the State is entitled to one. The kind of a jury panel furnished Monday is a good argument to show the need of a special jury. Monday's jurymen were incompetent, on the average, to understand or appreciate the gravity of the charge against Warner or Priesmeyer or the vital public interests at stake in their cases, although there were a half dozen good men in the panel. The State is entitled to a special jury in these cases, in my opinion. It has had special juries under the present law, even one in a bribery case. This was in the case of John J. Connors, the policeman. The State also had a special jury in the case of a woman named Schott and a man named Fitzgerald, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

"A special jury was granted the defense, too, in one case under the present law—the Betty Arnold murder case.

Wants to Act Fairly.

"I want to be fair to Warner and Priesmeyer. I don't want a jury of men prejudiced against them. But I want the State to have a fair chance when they go to trial. I believe a special jury would be fair to t[illegible] as to the State, and, if [illegible] showed prejudice, this prej[illegible] be brought us and used as [illegible] a change of venue."

Mr. Sager added that [illegible] grand jury will not cease [illegible] tions into alleged municipal [illegible] ties because of the dism[illegible] Warner and Priesmeyer cas[illegible] continue work along the l[illegible] been pursuing. It appear[illegible] grand jury was notified tha[illegible] would nolle prosse the [illegible] Priesmeyer cases Monday [illegible] fore that action finally was [illegible]

"Danny" Naughton, assis[illegible] the House of Delegates, who was wanted as a witness in the case, has [illegible] been at the City Hall since Frid[illegible] and his associates there say they not know where he is.

THE SPECTACLE OF THE ASSEMBLY.

It is a humiliating state of affairs when the great decent majority in a city, having been unable to assert itself effectively in politics and elections, and unable to make a stand, through representatives, on a plain issue of corruption in the law-making forum, is reduced to depend for relief and protection solely upon the criminal courts.

Yet that is precisely the condition which members of the Council and House of Delegates proclaim when they kill resolutions to oust men upon whom a taint of corruption rests. They leave no other recourse but to the courts, to whom they abandon their responsibility.

To discover and fight corruption on its own ground, to deal with its own case primarily, is the duty of the Municipal Assembly. But the exposure of the combine in the House, leading to the indictment of Warner and Priesmeyer, and of graft and irresponsible dealing in the Council, leading to the punishment of Linde and the investigation of another member, has come from the outside. Neither body has done anything of its own prompting. Both have defeated efforts to suspend from the public service, pending the question of their guilt, men charged either with grafting or with conniving at the graft of others.

The propriety of suspending them was as plain as any proposition of right in government could be. They were not accused of arson, burglary or mayhem, in which case the propriety of suspending them might have admitted a question. The charge directly related to their official character and official conduct, to their malfeasance or misfeasance in the very bodies in which the issues were presented.

A postal card canvass of Warner's and Priesmeyer's wards results in a vote of approval of their careers. The character of the expressions received easily demonstrates just what element in city life the Municipal Assembly as a whole represents in retaining its questioned and questionable members.

The worst elements in both parties dominated nominations and elections to the extent of setting up in the House a corrupt combine and in the Council a majority of men unresponsive to considerations of public good and devoid of anything resembling a high principle of municipal decency.

It is an ideal Municipal Assembly from the point of view of low-flung politics; it combines corruption with a complacency that practically encourages while it protects; it does not contain enough men radically for the right to provide even a contrast and emphasis of its bad character; it fears nothing from its reformers who could not see what was going on until corruption and irregularities were exposed from the outside. It is an ugly situation, a dirty condition, a case for the grand jury and the criminal courts.

On the homely principle of trying to do better next time, the decent majority of St. Louis will endeavor to improve on the law-making body at the first opportunity. Meanwhile it must pay the penalty of indifference, and await deliverance with such patience as it may.

GOV. HASKELL'S DOUBLE-HEADER.

Much has been said about the attack which the new Governor of the new State of Oklahoma made upon the President, but so far as we have observed no one has discovered the truth that he also made some reflections on Mr. Bryan.

Referring to a propaganda only recently in full force at Lincoln, Neb., as well as at Washington, D. C., Gov. Haskell said:

> Those anxious to centralize power in the Federal Government must blush when they review the conditions under which we have lived for years. Our freight rates are double those in the adjoining states. The Lumber Trust, the Coal Trust and other like combinations have fattened by unrestricted robbery of our people. If Federal control is such a good thing in a State, why has it proven so utterly inefficient in a Territory?

As a territory of the first class, Oklahoma was an inviting field for the operations of the national trust fighters, and yet, as the Governor shows, its people were subjected to impositions unknown in adjoining states where local laws were in force.

If we may judge by the temper of the people and the apparent determination of their new officers, Oklahoma will now give both of the great advocates of national control an object lesson in State regulation which may be worth studying.

Cheap demagogy frequently misses its purpose. Gov. Haskell, with a loud disdain of a dress suit, insisted upon wearing his everyday business clothes to Oklahoma's inaugural ball. Oklahoma is stopping to think over this awhile before she makes up her mind whether she has been flattered insulted. Numbers of her intelligent citizens believe that an up-to-date State ought to have up-to-date manners.

LET US HAVE—REST.

The splendid optimism of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury is highly commendable.

Mr. Cortelyou said in New York on Thursday that if hoarded money "were at once returned to the channels of trade there would be, within twenty-four hours, an almost complete resumption of business."

Mr. Roosevelt said in Washington on Sunday: "All that our people have to do now is to go ahead with their normal business in a normal fashion, and the whole difficulty disappears; and this end will be achieved at once if each man will act as he normally does act and as the real conditions of the country's business now fully warrant him in acting."

Both of these are appeals to the normal man and as such are not to be criticised. Men whose minds and businesses are normal, that is, reasonable, will understand them and heed them.

It is unfortunately true, however, that there are many people who are excited and alarmed and who are disposed to look upon financial and commercial conditions with doubt and apprehension. To all such, reassuring words are meaningless.

Wiser men than Roosevelt and Cortelyou have found that while words may breed panics they do not cure them. Fearing personal violence, a timid man runs. Contemplating loss, real or imaginary, money hides. Like a good name, credit cannot be spoken against without injury.

The psychology of panics and hard times is a more difficult subject to deal with than their financial and material aspects. A panic may be short-lived, but resulting depressions are apt to be long and exhausting. It is easy enough to hit upon causes; it has been found practically impossible to discover a quick and sure cure.

As confidence is a plant of slow growth, expostulations and promises cannot take the place of time. If confidence has been seriously impaired it must be re-established by degrees and no forcing process will be effective. If it has not been seriously impaired, the fact will appear presently.

In the meantime it will be well for all agitators, from the cross-roads pessimist up through all the grades of screaming discontent and experimentation to the President of the United States himself, to take a firm hold on the fact that this country needs most of all a rest from declamation and denunciation, from class prejudice and from all manner of legislative quackery.

What has been said by Messrs. Roosevelt and Cortelyou about the elementary soundness of American industry and commerce is all true, and it was true also six months, four months and two months ago, when one of these gentlemen was intimating that business might have to "go to the wall."

The report that cigarettes are reducing the men of the navy to the level of mollycoddles is unbelievable. A man-of-war's-man smokes and eats black twist and plug on most occasions. How could a little paper pipe be anything more than a diversion to him?

Delegate Hussey contemptuously warns "all honest guys" to keep away from the House. This naive defiance is deeply suggestive. Does the character of the St. Louis honesty responsible for the Husseys in office really deserve contempt at their hands?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Save the Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Seeing in your valuable paper that the women's clubs, or some woman's club, is wanting to run street cars to the Art Museum, for the sake of the children and mothers that visit Forest Park, please do all in your power to prevent any cars ever entering the park, as I am sure there would be many fatal accidents if it is ever permitted. We should not only prevent them from running another line in the park, but should make them remove the tracks that are already there; the Market loop and the Wabash. If this proposition were put to a vote I am sure our park would be saved, and not be turned over to the United Railways. N. E. D.

Priesmeyer and Warner.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read your editorial in Saturday's Post-Dispatch, "The Dregs of Society," and am compelled to admit the withering, blasting force of what you say concerning the sovereign voter. I read all the replies published from the First and Second Ward voters and am amazed and discouraged at the revelations they make. The most remarkable thing about these letters, especially those approving Priesmeyer, is the large number signed by our German fellow-citizens. German communities everywhere are noted for honesty of purpose and upright dealing. They have always frowned on corruption in whatever guise it was found. It is to be remembered in this connection that many Germans of St. Louis voted for Mr. Folk three years ago for the sole reason that he was at the time engaged in prosecuting and sending to prison a gang of boodlers from the House of Delegates.

Wilkins: Why, my doctor has forbidden me to eat my breakfast in less than half an hour.

The bridges of the Transsiberian railroad are to be tested. Secretary Taft left Vladivostok today for St. Petersburg.

JOE FOLK OF KANSAS, ETC.

Three men in the jury panel drawn for the Warner and Priesmeyer bribery cases had never heard of them. The hubbub over the marked bills, the limerick contest in which cash prizes were offered for the best rhymes with garage, and the search for "Sport" Brady with a captive balloon and a powerful glass—all these had escaped them.

This appalled the Circuit Attorney. It astonished many; but it isn't in it for a minute with the statement in the current number of Bill Barlow's "Sagebrush Philosophy" that Joseph W. Folk is the Governor of Kansas.

"And everybody knows now," says Bill in the course of a sermon on temperance, "that President Roosevelt drank a sherry eye-opener and after it numerous champagne chasers at the banquet tendered him by the St. Louis Business Men's Leogue on his trip down the Mississippi the other day—likewise that Gov. Folk of Kansas, and the foremost champion of prohibition in that State, was also present and downed every toast proposed."

Bill is a knowing fellow, too—few such in our day. That he should not have known the State of which Mr. Folk is Governor only illustrates the faculty of man to be totally ignorant here and there of something known to everyone else. The three jurors who had not heard of the Warner and Priesmeyer cases are no more to be wondered at than is Bill Barlow, who assigns Mr. Folk to Kansas. The bribery cases, perhaps, are the only matter of local public concern of which these three jurors had not heard; just as Mr. Folk, doubtless, is the only Governor in the Union gone astray in the mental geography of Bill Barlow.

It would be a stupid thing to say that these three jurors do not read the papers. Bill Barlow reads the papers. The explanation is more deeply and mysteriously psychological.

THE FASHIONS IN SPITE FENCES.

With one steel "spite fence" going up in Cabanne, and another brick structure projected, we are awakened to a realization that even in "spite fences" there is such a thing as mode.

Hitherto this type of fence has been of wood, with no attempt at ornamentation. It has been unsightly, and about as popular as a billboard. But new St. Louis has put that all behind her. Ever fashionable, Cabanne will show us some "spite fences" which, if they are still such, are in the height of fashion. The metal fence in course of construction is to have the magnificent dimensions of 85 feet (height) by 100 feet (depth). It will probably be supported by slim and shapely laminated steel rods, with nickel-plated turnbuckles. We may look on the top for a decorative coping wide enough for four English sparrows to sit abreast.

The putative brick fence can be even more ornamental. Being in Cabanne it probably will be. While it may not achieve the magnificent height of the steel structure in the same neighborhood, it can be a much more artistic affair, breathing the spirit of an old English wall. The purpose of the wall can be doubly accomplished with friezes, statuary and bas-reliefs in which gargoyles, gorgons, sphinxes, etc., may be chiseled in attitudes of displeasure, contempt for and abuse of the abutting apartment.

It is no mean estheticism which can incline a community to ornamental and fashionable "spite fences" when it is hopping mad over the intrusion of apartments and flats.

THIS TIME OF YEAR.

Commend me at this time of year
To where the shooting's good
And the ripened world is in the sere
That glorifies the wood.

Some camping place, where waters
Go by in drowsy peace,
And in the fastnesses of night
Are heard the cries of geese.

Some silent place than can invoke
The Muse herself to sing,
And a fragrant fire by which to smoke
When it is evening.

This is the time of year for sighs
In such work as we're at.
And dreams of earthly Paradise
In some such spot as that.

SECTIONALISM.

From the Houston Post.

The convention at Nashville to inaugurate a movement to nominate a Southern Democrat for President next year is not likely to bear fruit. All that the convention declared with respect to the availability of Southern statesmen is true and it is likewise true that the time has come when one's residence in the South ought not to bar him from consideration. But a movement to nominate a Southern Democrat implies that, in the judgment of some men, the time has come to bar Northern Democrats from consideration, and this attitude on the part of the Tennessee convention lays it open to the charge of sectionalism which we have heretofore preferred against the Northern democracy.

TAXING ADVERTISING.

From the San Francisco Bulletin.

Australia has placed a heavy tax on all magazines containing advertising matter in a proportion of more than one-fifth of the general contents. Mutilated magazines are one of the first results of the new tariff. Subscribers to many popular monthlies are writing to the Melbourne papers, indignantly complaining of the condition in which the last numbers reached them. Nearly all of the advertising pages were torn out by rude force. This was done by the agents with the permission of the Minister of Customs, who has granted the publishers four months' grace to make fresh arrangements. The Melbourne manager of one well-known magazine says that it has hitherto been sold in Australia at 12 cents, but if this provision in the new tariff is passed the price in future cannot be less than 30 cents.

PANAMA NO HEALTH RESORT.

From the New York Times.

Panama is still Panama, no longer, indeed, a festering reservoir of the worst fevers, but a tropic land of abnormal rainfall nevertheless—a place where one must walk lightly and not remain too long. The improvement in its condition is good cause for pride, but the Isthmus is no resort for invalids, nor has disease yet been banished from the zone.

As proof of the last statement we notice that since Jan. 1 the sanitary officials have distributed, and the canal workers have presumably taken, 1,675.83 pounds—pounds, mind—of quinine in its various forms.

MRS. MAY.—Your question is not physiologically correct, but the answer is yes.

A.—Price of Yaeger diamond, $200 to $300, according to the degree of perfection of the stone.

SUBSCRIBER.—Washing the face with warm water and rinsing it with cold water, night and morning, does not produce pimples.

L. M.—We have no recipe for making vinegar from pressed stems and shells of grapes. If any obliging reader has one for you we shall be pleased to publish it.

M.—See Answers Nov. 8—release. When association is incorporated, stockholders are equally responsible; when not, one stockholder may be made to pay all that may be due from the association. Corporations must register their charters in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.

N.—Armistead writes that "The time has come," the walrus said, "to speak of many things; of shoes and ships and sealing wax, of cabbages and kings," etc., is from the celebrated nonsense from "The Walrus and the Carpenter," by Lewis Carroll, and appears in his "Through the Looking Glass," the sequel to "Alice in Wonderland."

FORD.—It is not absolutely necessary for a father to will his children money or property; if he has named them in his will the statutory requirements were complied with. Whether one of the children disinherited could break the will would depend on just what influence was brought to bear upon testator in the disposal of his estate. The question remains for the court to decide, on obtaining all the facts.

QUIZ.—The word trolley is from troll. Troll is from Middle English trollen, to roll, stroll. Old French, troller, trauler, troler, run hither and thither, range, stroll. French, troler, lead, drag about, also stroll, ramble. Middle High German, trollen German, trollen, roll, troll, run. Swiss, trohlen, roll. Middle Dutch, drollen. Low German, drulen, roll, troll. Welsh, troelli, turn, wheel, whirl. Breton, troel, a winding plant, tro, a circle.

F. S.—The safest way is to have the property deeded to you, subject to the life estate of your father. If the contract between yourself and father hinges upon certain conditions to be performed and upon performance thereof you are to have the property at his decease, or in event of non-performance forfeit the same, have all such conditions inserted in deed. The same should be carefully drawn by a very experienced person.

M.—A regular practitioner is not likely to give a written agreement that he will refund the money if the patient is not cured, because some patients do not follow strictly the instructions he gives them. So much depends upon the patient's co-operation that the treatment may be made useless by one who is careless. A physician who has signed a written agreement, if held to his contract in Court, might prove that his directions were not strictly followed, and thus throw the responsibility upon the patient.

W. E.—The cost of abstracting titles to real estate varies; by submitting to an investigator of titles the identical property of which the abstract is desired the exact amount of the charge may be known. In St. Louis, certificates of titles take the place of abstracts, as a rule; the cost for a new certificate is from $15 up, for a continuation $5 up. The custom in this city is for purchaser to pay the examination to property he buys, though elsewhere the custom is just the reverse, the seller being compelled to stand the expense. Have an understanding beforehand.

X. Y. Z.—Washington was an Episcopalian. Jefferson said: "Say nothing of my religion; it is known to my God and myself alone." Lincoln was a member of no church, but in his public addresses indicated a belief in Divine Providence. Grant was a Methodist. Franklin, in the last year of his life, wrote: "As to Jesus of Nazareth, I think His system of morals and His religion as He left them to us, the best the world ever saw, or is likely to see. I have, with most of the present dissenters in England, some doubts as to His divinity, though it is a question I do not dogmatize upon, having never studied it, and think it needless to busy myself with it now, when I expect soon an opportunity of knowing the truth with less trouble."

SONG.—The trainer in an Episcopal church, who trains the boys to sing, might help you. The age for girls to start vocal training may vary from 16 to 20 years, and for young men from 19 to 22 years, because their voices as a rule develop much later than the voices of girls. Fine voices, it is said, are seldom found in a country where fish or meat diet prevails. Those Italians who eat the most fish (those in Naples and Genoa) have few fine singers among them. The sweet voices are found in the Irish women of the country, and not of the towns. Norway is not a country of singers, because they eat too much fish; but Sweden is a country of grain and song. The carnivorous birds croak; grain-eating birds sing. Alcoholic beverages and many soft drinks are detrimental to the voice, and coffee should not be taken more than once a day. Tomatoes, strawberries and lettuce should be avoided by hoarse persons.

S. O.—Any lady of Revolutionary ancestry is eligible for membership in the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution whose name is indorsed by at least one member of the national society to whom she is personally known. There are no other social requirements. The initiation fee is $1 and $2 annual dues, which must be paid to the national society at Washington the first year, and $2 every year thereafter, unless the new member joins a chapter, usually in the city in which she resides, when the annual dues are paid to the chapter. It is not necessary in order to become a member of the society to join a local chapter. One can be a member of the national society at large by applying to the office of the society, 903 F street Northwest, Washington, D. C. A letter addressed to the registrar general at that office will receive a reply, with all information.

CADET.—Appointees to West Point Military Academy must be able to pass a careful examination in reading, writing, spelling, English grammar, English composition, English literature, arithmetic, algebra through quadratic equations, plain geometry, descriptive geography and the elements of physical geography, especially the geography of the United States, United States history, the outlines of general history, and the general principles of physiology and hygiene; or in lieu thereof to submit a certificate of graduation from a public high school or State normal school, or a certificate that the candidate is a regular student of an incorporated college or university. For sample examination questions, write to the Superintendent, the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York. Course completed in four years. Appointees must be between 17 and 22 years of age. There is an examination of the applicant's vision, hearing, of his heart, lungs and other organs; of his teeth; in short, to see that he is generally sound.

O. M.—No national flower has been adopted. State flowers: Alabama, goldenrod; Arizona, giant cactus; Arkansas, apple blossom; California, poppy; Colorado, purple and white columbine; Delaware, peach blossom; Georgia, Cherokee rose; Idaho, syringia; Illinois, rose; Iowa, wild rose; Kansas, sunflower; Kentucky, chrysanthemum; Louisiana, magnolia; Michigan, apple blossom; Minnesota, moccasin; Mississippi, magnolia; Missouri, goldenrod; Montana, bitterroot; Nebraska, goldenrod; New Jersey, state tree, sugar maple; New York, rose; North Dakota, goldenrod; Oklahoma, mistletoe; Oregon, Oregon grape; Rhode Island, violet; Texas, blue bonnet; Utah, sego lily; Vermont, red clover; Washington, rhododendron.

S.—To remove old paint: Use a solution of soda and quicklime in equal proportions. Dissolve the soda in water and add the lime. Apply with a brush. After a few minutes wash off with hot water. The oldest paint may be removed by a paste of the soda and quicklime. The wood should afterwards be washed with vinegar or an acid solution before repainting. A paint remover sold at all the paint stores will remove paint from brick wall.

A. B. C.—This recipe, which is used by one of the best-known professional cleaners in the country, is not only for white, but all colored silks as well as laces and velvets. It will not injure the most delicate fabrics, and unless the color is faded or stained will make it look new. One quart naphtha, two tablespoonfuls chloroform, two tablespoonfuls sulphuric ether, five drops ammonia. Pour enough to wet the article to be cleaned in a china or agate bowl and rub well with a sponge or piece of canton flannel. Have ready another bowl with enough of the fluid to rinse well. Wipe or pat the material between old muslin until nearly dry, occasionally shaping and smoothing with the hands. Finish by hanging in a current of air, or if possible pin on an old towel and lay on the ground as the earth will soon remove all traces of the naphtha odor. This work is always done better out of doors, but if necessary to be done in the house, there must be no fire or artificial light in the room as the fumes are explosive. Allow the fluid left in the basin to settle after the cleaning has been completed, strain through old muslin, bottle and use again. It is also an excellent cleaner for kid gloves and suede belts and slippers and purses.

S. S. S.—Part of the cure of stammering consists in learning how to breathe, and in a school for stammering the pupils are taught to breathe through their mouths. They breathe through their noses, but the exhaling of the breath through the mouth is also practiced, together with calisthenics. The most striking feature taught in schools for stammering is that mental poise by which embarrassment is dispelled. If the bodily condition of a stammerer is improved he acquires more self-control and prevents the habit. Out-of-door exercise, mental and moral hygiene, avoidance of all undermining influence and great care result in a conquest of the condition in most cases. Boldness and self-reliance will render it impossible. Measured tones, care in attacking each word and thoughtful deliberation are almost always absolutely successful. Stammerers can always sing without difficulty. Some learn to enunciate distinctly while performing an associated movement, as tilting the head or lifting the finger with each word. Malformation of organs of speech in stammerers is so rare that it may be denied. In the very rarest instances disease or defect in the hypoglossal nerve and its muscles exist.

COL. TODHUNTER'S THANKSGIVING.

His Tuning Up for the Occasion Phonographed for the Post-Dispatch.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

"WELL, suh," said Col. Thurs. T. Todhunter beamingly, "I'm getting my old soul all tuned up for a Thanksgivin' Day celebration such as you read about, suh—a day when I'm a-goin' to count up all the blessin's that's come into my life and give thanks for 'em one and all, hopin' that I won't leave out a dadblamed one in the count, suh.

"It's a duty that a man owes his Maker, suh, to prove that he ain't a constitutional and chronic grouch,—livin' in this-here fine old world and tryin' his best to fill it with lamentations instead of rejoicin's when he knows he's getin' a blamed sight more'n he deserves in the way of comfort and happiness, suh. I'll be shot full o' holes, suh, if I don't reckon that's about the meanest and littlest thing a white man can be guilty of, suh—holdin' out his greedy hands till they overflow with gifts from the Good Marster, suh, and then whinin' and complainin' because he don't get a clothes-basket full instead of the heapin' hands' full that the Great Creator gave him in spite of his cussedness, suh.

"And I'll just be eternally dadfrazzled if I'm a-goin' to be that mean and trifling', suh. No, suh—when Thanksgivin' Day dawns you're a-goin' to hear Col. Thurs. T. Tolhunter's old voice lifted up in song, suh, and the song's goin' to be an O-be-joyful, suh. I got a good wife and a good home and good health and good friends, suh, and if I was getting my real deserts for some o' the fool things I've done in my life I'd be hard-scrabblin' without any o' these good things, suh, and I'll eat my hat if I ain't a-goin' to sing about 'em this Thanksgivin' Day, suh. The singin' may not be very sweet—I ain't got no seraphim's voice, suh—but it'll be sincere and honest in every note, and it'll come from a contrite and an humble heart, suh—such a heart as Col. Thurs. T. Todhunter don't reveal to any but his Maker, suh, who's been mighty good to him from start to finish, suh.

"Yes, suh, that's the way I feel about Thanksgivin', and that's the way I'm a-goin' to live up to my feelin's. It ain't goin' to be: 'Lord, I'm thankful, I reckon, but you done a heap more for Tom Smith than you done for me, and he's got more cause for bein' thankful than me'—no, suh! It's goin' to be: 'Lord, you've been merciful to me, a sinner—if I'd got what was justly comin' to me, none o' these-here blessin's would a-been mine at all, and I'm thankful for 'em and particularly thankful that you ain't held none o' my fool talk and fool actions against me, Lord!' That's what I'm a-goin' to say, and it's what I wouldn't say to anybody but the Lord God Almighty, who knows my foolish old heart and has been good to me like I was a little child, suh.

"And when I get th'oo sayin' these things and singin' my song o' rejoicin', suh, I'm a-goin' to sit me down with Mrs. Todhunter and get away with the biggest Thanksgivin' turkey dinner you ever saw in all your born days, suh. And ever' time I look at that turkey, suh, and ever' time I look at Mrs. Todhunter, suh, I'll be more and more thankful, suh. If I wasn't, suh—well, I'd deserve to have my sinful old head knocked off with a club, suh, and that's the truth if I ever told it in my life, suh!"

IS A SPREE EVER GOOD FOR YOU?

BY PROF. WILLIAM JAMES OF HARVARD.

"AS a rule, men habitually use only a small part of the powers which they actually possess and which they might use under appropriate conditions," writes Prof. William James in the "American Magazine." "There is no doubt," he writes, "that to some men's sprees and excesses of almost any kind are medicinal, temporarily at any rate, in spite of what the moralists and doctors say. But when the normal tasks and stimulations of life don't put a man's deeper levels of energy on tap, and he requires distinctly deleterious excitements, his constitution verges on the abnormal. The normal opener of deeper levels of energy is the will. The difficulty is to use it, to make the effort which the word volition implies. But if we do make it (or if a god, though he were only the god Chance, makes it through us), it will act dynamogenically on us for a month. It is notorious that a single successful effort of moral volition, such as saying 'no' to some habitual temptation, or performing some courageous act, will launch a man on a higher level of energy for days and weeks, will give him a new range of power. 'In the act of uncorking the whisky bottle which I had brought home to get drunk upon,' said a man to me, 'I suddenly found myself running out into the garden, where I smashed it on the ground. I felt so happy and uplifted after this act that for two months I wasn't tempted to touch a drop.'"

RESUMPTION OF CASH PAYMENTS

From the Indianapolis Star.

When the man at the head of the second largest financial institution in Chicago—an establishment with deposits of over $100,000,000—says it is time for the banks to return to cash payments, the step is one deserving of serious consideration on the part of the banks. We earnestly wish that this action might seem wise and opportune to the banks of Indianapolis.

A Good Way.

"How do you expect to get people to vote for you if you don't hustle?"

"My friend," answered Senator Sorghum, "the time has come when hustling is fraught with danger. The way to do now is to act modest and let the opposition keep talking until it queers itself by saying something clumsy."—Washington Star.

THE LOVELIEST WOMAN YOU KNOW.

Who Was She? Why Was She the Lovliest? A Post-Dispatch Readers' Prize Discussion.

WHY was she the loveliest? Describe her charm in as few words as possible for the Sunday Post-Dispatch, which will award prizes aggregating TEN dollars for the best description. Address Prize Letters, Post-Dispatch.

WHO can describe love lines? Like beauty it is simply indescribable. My loveliest woman is no longer young, but her very glance from violet eyes seems to tell of "sweetness and light." Her face, lovely and intelligent, is indicative of the true culture that means so much more than a budget of accurate information on a variety of subjects. He voice is low and musical. Her manner is gentle and sympathetic, the true expression of a noble character, while her presence seems to bring a soothing sense of rest. Her clothing and personal belongings exhale a delicate, though frigitive, perfume suggestive of her delightful personality. She is one never to be forgotten by those so fortunately as to know her well. R. M. LAKE,
St. Louis Postoffice.

The loveliest woman I ever knew is my mother. Her devotion to my father makes her the loveliest woman in all the world. MRS. L. WATSON, 2011 S. Jefferson avenue.

The hand that rocks the cradle and rules the deep. The universal answer of every right thinking heart—one's own mother. The embodiment of the most unselfish love the world knows; the example that shines forth as a beacon light on the storm-beaten shores of a human world. Even her faults leaned to virtue's side. The silent voice that guides the helm of many a shipwrecked pilgrim; whose "God bless you" was the crowning diadem from a mother's benediction as he entered the portals of man's estate. When the winter of years bedeck her cheeks, may the summer of youth kindle the fires of love in her heart. This is the toast I would offer at the shrine of the loveliest woman, one's mother.
MARY RING PADBERG,
3612 Arsenal street.

Her eyes were of fairest hue; her smiles were always sweet; her dress was of the plainest blue, but always prim and neat. She always said good-morning to those who crossed her way; she had a smile or some kind word to scatter on your way; until at last they all remarked: "Who can this maiden be, with all her charms so fair to see and fresh as the dewy eve? They say she came from a suburb, but which one can it be to own such a piece of loveliness? Why! Maplewood to a certain-tee!"
HAZEL T. JOHNSON,
7212 Sarah av., Maplewood, Mo.

The truest type of beauty known anywhere is that which always shines out from within the soul. Its real beauty has, and always will be, universally acknowledged to be superior to that which artificially can be put on or left off at will. Every one who is adorned with this radiance of this beauty has obtained it without the expenditure of money. To keep it always live for the good of others. FRANCES E. McCANN.
Joplin, Mo. 1426 Sergeant avenue.

I have seen many beautiful girls, lovely in face and figure, who, with a toss of their golden curls or a pout of their pretty lips and laughing eyes, could win anyone at their command. The one I think the most beautiful had traits in her character that in my estimation rank beyond beauty. She had the art of being charming, a combination of both beauty and temperament. She had grace and dignity, a sweet voice. She had strength and purity. She was gentle, yet strong, sympathetic and kind. Her influence was an inspiration, her life a lesson we all should learn. The picture is yet stamped on my memory as when she took a motherless babe in her arms and promised to rear it up with her own large family. I can yet see the radiant light in her eyes as she hugged it to her breast. Her face looked more beautiful to me than any I ever have seen. It made me think of the Madonna and child. By her tender mercy she was shown as she was and will ever be, the most beautiful woman to me.
MYRTELLE BLANCHE CAMPBELL.

Mary was the most charming woman I have ever known. She was a Norwegian girl, about 27 years old, when I first knew her. Her complexion was fair, with a few freckles, hazel eyes and an abundance of red hair. She had been afflicted with some disease until she walked with a little limp. From an artist's viewpoint, she would not have been considered beautiful or even good looking. Mary was the librarian at the Carnegie Librrary in a South Dakota town of about three thousand inhabitants. She was loved alike by the young, middle-aged and elderly people of all classes. Her voice, once heard, would not easily be forgotten—so sweet and melodious! But her chief charm was her sunny disposition, ready wit, merry laugh and her great sympathy for everybody who was in sorrow or trouble.

She was a devoted member of the Mother Church, and, though I'm not of that faith, I've often thought if its teachings were such as Mary lived it ought not be so condemned.
MRS. L. H. P., 3045 Easton avenue.

The greatest charm of the most beautiful woman I have ever known was in the expression of her eyes. Dark blue in color, fringed with long silken lashes, when she smiled they seemed to light up her face like a halo, while an expression almost heavenly shone from their clear depths, disclosing a soul within embracing the whole world in its love. Graceful in every act, her light footsteps was the signal for the appearance of that daybreak which preceded the sunrise of her presence, finally illuminating the room with a flood of light that seemed to drive away all thought of care and to leave the world for the time being one vast scene of love and happiness. Pure in thought and act, kind and gracious to all, her smile partook of all her qualities and left all who saw it with a better opinion of the world than before.

BETTY VINCENT'S ADVICE TO GIRLS.

Helpful Hints in Reply to Letters from Post-Dispatch Readers.

GIRLS, don't get the man craze. Of course, it's all very well to have masculine friends or a serious suitor or two, for no girl is harmed by the sincere friendship of the opposite sex, and usually derives a great deal of enjoyment from it. However, don't make the mistake of regarding every man—from 16 to 60—who happens to cross your path in the light of an admirer, for by so doing you will not gain favor in the eyes of men and will only make yourself the laughing stock of the community. Though woman in the present day undoubtedly does a good share of the courting, and in many unobserved ways can make the path of love easy, she should never let it be apparent that she is running after a man. There is no spice to the quest, no delightful uncertainty, no glory in winning her love if a girl too eagerly falls a victim to her suitor's charms. Be friends with men and enjoy their companionship, but unless a man shows you some serious attention don't make the mistake of imagining that he is your ardent admirer.

SCIENCE AND THE "CATCHMENT."

ON THE eastern side of the rock of Gibraltar there is a curious-looking white patch which recently led an American tourist to ask whether the rock was being armor-plated. It is really a catchment for rain water to increase the reserve water on the rock. The catchment covers 10 acres. It is made of galvanized corrugated iron fixed to piles driven deep into the sandy slopes above the village of Catalan. The water collected at the foot of the catchment runs through the rock into a tunnel 2000 feet long, and is delivered into reservoirs on the western side. The yield to each inch of rainfall is 240,000 gallons.

Burns Likened to Giant Killer by Boxing Expert

American Champion Bears Resemblance to Walcott and Sharkies ---Claim to Title Fairly Defined.

No. 10 In Seies On "Champions I Have Known."

R. Edgren's COLUMN

TOMMY BURNS, now champion of America and Australia, who is matched to fight Gunner Moir of England, for the world's championship on Dec. 2 jumped suddenly into prominence a little less than two years ago by whipping Marvin Hart.

Before that fight Burns wasn't exactly what you might call obvious in the heavyweight situation. He didn't stick out like a sore thumb. In fact, when he was matched with Hart some people laughed. It was just about that time that the expression "lemon" came into use. Hart thought Tommy Burns was a "lemon," and in the privacy of his training quarters he said so.

The main reason for expecting Hart to whip Burns easily was that Hart was a six-footer, and weighed well above 200 pounds. Tommy Burns stood only five feet seven in his socks, and weighed 182. In his clothes, as Hart saw him when he made the match, Burns wasn't very imposing. Therein he resembles Tom Sharkey and Joe Walcott.

But stripped to fighting togs Burns resembles Sharkey and Walcott a whole lot more. He is built on the lines of the "Giant Killer," with huge shoulders and big arms and legs, and a thick neck, and he is 6 inches taller than Walcott. His weight is exactly the same as Sharkey's on that famous occasion when the sailor fought Jeffries almost to a draw in 25 furious rounds.

BURNS is a little giant, and that's what Hart overlooked.

A short time before that, in Nevada, Hart had knocked out Jack Root of Chicago in a finish fight billed as a world's championship. Of course, it wasn't a championship, but Hart claimed the title, and he looked big enough to get away with it.

Burns whipped Hart to a standstill in 20 rounds.

Then Burns went on fighting and getting the coin. His first victim was a locomotive fireman who occasionally dabbled in fistic art named Jim Flynn. Burns knocked him out in 15 rounds. People laughed, and accused Burns of picking out a lemon. A few days ago Johnson, a negro boxer, knocked Flynn out and tried to declare himself in on the world's championship in consequence.

Jack O'Brien, who claimed the championship contemporaneously with Burns, became very jealous when he saw Tommy gathering in easy marks and coin, and went to Los Angeles looking for the new scrapper's scalp. O'Brien had a fairly legitimate claim to the heavyweight title, having stopped Bob Fitzsimmons, to whom the title had reverted upon the retirement of Jeffries.

Burns chased O'Brien around the ring for 20 rounds, broke his nose, blackened his eyes, battered his face until all of its pristine beauty departed, never to return, and got a draw. Jeffries, the referee, said afterward that both fighters had asked for a draw if the contest went the limit. During the next few months there was a world of talk and challenging. In New York Burns told me his only fear was that he'd never be able to get O'Brien into the ring again, and said that he might have to trick him into it.

THAT'S what Burns did. O'Brien came to him and proposed a fake. Foxy Jack's proposition was that Burns should lie down and take a big piece of the purse, while O'Brien would make his end of the money by skinning the betting public. O'Brien's commissioners put down a pile of money on the "fight." Burns had tricked O'Brien and had drawn him into the ring. When the bell was about to sound the beginning of the battle it was suddenly announced that all bets were called off. O'Brien wanted to jump out of the ring, but it was too late. The bell clanged, and he found himself caught. Burns was bearing down upon him. To jump out then would be eternal disgrace. O'Brien compromised by running for his life, with Burns after him, for 20 rounds. Burns took the decision.

Perhaps the bets were called off to save O'Brien's money. There may have been some inside twist to the affair that never came out. At any rate it left an unsavory flavor in the public mouth, and Burns found himself almost as unpopular as the arch-faker, O'Brien. Philadelphia Jack squealed and began confessing. When he had no more of his own fakes to confess he invented things to confess about other fighters. He might have been believed if he hadn't tried to smirch the reputation of honest Jim Jeffries, the squarest fighter that ever trod in shoe leather.

Burns, partially in disgrace, was matched with Bill Squires of Australia. If ever a stranger came here well recommended and showing all the earmarks of a champion, that was Bill Squires. Interest in the mill caused Burns' tangle with O'Brien to be forgotten, and when Tommy laid out the redoubtable champion of Australia with three whaling wallops in the first round he rose on the crest of a wave of popularity.

CHAMPION of America by virtue of his victories over Hart and O'Brien, Burns was now also champion of Australia. He could not be champion of the world yet. Jeffries resigned that title, but to become champion of the world it was necessary for the next holder to wade through the champions of America, Australia and the British Isles—all of the fist-fighting countries. Burns did the best thing he could do to establish his right to that honor. A new and popular champion had arisen in England, far outshining the other English heavyweights. Burns matched himself against Gunner Moir and crossed the ocean to fight. He is now training and will be fit. If Moir can beat him there isn't a man in the world, barring Jeffries, to take Moir's measure.

Burns was born in Canada, and therefore is an American. The proud title "American" isn't reserved for the people who live in a portion of the American continent cut off from the rest by an invisible boundary line. If Burns beats Moir an American will again hold the title Champion of all Champions of the World.

FIRST BASE WORRYING PRESIDENT OF BROWNS

Jimmy Williams Likely to Figure in Another Trade at American League Meeting at Chicago Next Month.

Although the baseball world is already startled by the trade that has so greatly changed the line-up of the St. Louis Browns for next season, President Hedges announces that he has not yet finished, and expects to put over one or two more deals before spring.

The annual meeting of the American League will be held in Chicago on Dec. 11, and that is the time Hedges expects to complete his line-up for the coming season. Manager McAleer will come to the meeting from his home in Youngstown, O., and in the meantime the two are making designs on one or two players from other clubs.

The one spot on the team now that needs attention is first base, and while President Hedges named no one, it is quite certain that he already has a deal cooked up by which he hopes to secure a new first-sacker for the team.

While nothing definite has been announced by the Browns magnate, it is gathered that Tom Jones will hardly be the regular first baseman another season. If no other man is secured the chances are that Jimmy Williams, the infielder procured from the Highlanders, will be placed on first base ahead of Jones. But is quite probable that McAleer would gladly give up both Williams and Jones for a top-notch first sacker.

First basemen in the American League are in demand. In fact, the whole country over, men for that position are hard to procure, and this is proven by considering that among 15 recruits from the minor leagues that are to be given a trial by McAleer in the spring, not one is a regular first baseman. He has men for every other position but none for the first corner.

Just whom Hedges and McAleer have designs on is only a guessing matter, but it is not unlikely that they would welcome a man like Unglaub, Jake Stahl or Rossman. Whether it is possible to secure any one of this trio is a question. Unglaub would be the choice of the three, but it would take much to buy him from the Boston Club. Griffith may need Stahl for his team if Hal Chase continues to cavort on the outlawed diamonds of California, and besides, "Grif" has declared his intention of making an outfielder of the speedy coast boy. Rossman showed so well in the world's series that he cannot be obtained. It would be useless to think of getting Hal Chase, "Jigs" Donohue of the White Sox or Harry Davis of the Athletics, and Cleveland and Washington have nothing to offer.

Jimmy Williams would undoubtedly be a good first baseman if he reports next spring with no more excess weight than can be trained off on the spring trip. If no more can be secured, the infield of the Browns will still be one of the strongest in the league.

The most promising of recruits is Gardner, formerly of the Austin team in the Texas League, and it is quite likely he will at least be carried as utility man. Benson, the shortstop of the Shreveport team, is also touted as a lively boy and likely to make good with the big fellows. Clark, the third baseman procured from Detroit, has been tried in fast company before and should make good next year or not at all.

PREPARES FOR THE CORNHUSKERS

Cochems Will Play No Games Between Now and Thanksgiving Day.

With Schneider, Acker, Murphy and Brennan on his hospital list, Cochems has decided to schedule no game for the Saturday before Thanksgiving. It had been the intention of the Blue and White director to play either Shurtleff or the Physicians and Surgeons as a light practice contest before his big battle of the year—Nebraska. But rather than risk the peril of having some of his regulars out of the turkey day game, the Grand avenue coach has decided to forego any scrimmage before that date.

While it is thought that none of the men are at all seriously injured, it is realized that their condition is such that merely a slight break against them would result disastrously. Schneider, especially, on account of his rough handling in the Wabash and Kansas games, is in a very battered state, and it will take all of the intervening time between now and Thanksgiving to put him in playing condition for the Cornhuskers.

To Rusticate for a Time.

The Blue and White management is counting upon sending the squad to some nearby farm the latter part of the week and out in the "homely country" Cochems will put on his last touches of preparation. It is the intention of the ex-Wisconsin man to feature in this game more of his so-called open and new formations than has been his plan in the games heretofore. A number of new forward pass formations especially are counted upon to prove effective, and if the men can get these plays working in the same splendid manner as characterized their work last season, St. Louis U. will stand a grand chance of capturing the championship of west of the Mississippi.

As yet but little wagering is being done on the big game, but what has taken place rules 6 to 5, with Nebraska the favorite. In view of the great showing of the Cornhuskers this season the odds are very much in the nature of a compliment to the supposed latent and dormant powers of the St. Louis team.

Fred Bock, the sterling tackle of Washington University, whose clever playing has been one of the redeeming features of the Myrtle and Maroon team's work this year, was elected captain for next season. Bock "prepped" and played three years at Central High and next fall will be his fourth on the Washington squad.

Many to See Indians.

As Saturday, locally, will be a very quiet day on the football calendar, great interest is being manifested in the Chicago-Carlisle game in Chicago on the twenty-third. Quite a number of local enthusiasts will journey to the Windy City to view the contest.

Carlisle is picked generally to win. The Penn and Harvard games rather than the Minnesota battle, are the basis for this deduction. In the fray with the Gophers the impression seems to be that the redmen were not letting themselves out and the taking out of Mount Pleasant, the brains of the eleven, at the beginning of the first half, seems to lend color to this view.

Many in Y. M. C. A. Race.

More than 20 long-distance runners have entered for the Central Y. M. C. A.'s cross-country run, to be held Thanksgiving day in the morning. Among the entrants are Langstead, Mayfield, Probert, Tueppel, McKinley, Waters, Christine and several others experienced in the long-distance event.

WINS THE MATCH AND FRIENDSHIP

Hueston Downs De Oro at Three Cushions and Former Enemies Shake Hands.

Tom Hueston defeated Alfredo De Oro, 50 to 48, at the Rex billiard hall Monday night in a championship three-cushion billiard tournament game, after which Hueston offered his hand to De Oro, which was accepted by the Cuban.

The match was probably one of the hardest contests ever witnessed in a local hall. When the tournament was first arranged De Oro said he would not play Hueston because of personal differences between the men. De Oro changed his mind and Hueston's victory may cost the Cuban the championship, as he has now lost two games and won two, while John Daly has won three and lost none.

De Oro gained an early lead, but Hueston caught and passed him, and at the 35-point mark led by five points. At the 41 points Hueston was nine in the lead. By a run of six De Oro tied the score at 44, and then went in front by scoring two points, but Hueston, by some nice work, again caught and passed his opponent, and finally scored his final point on a round-the-table shot. A big sum of money changed hands on the result, De Oro opening as favorite at 9 to 5, but closing at 3 to 2.

At 2:30 p. m. Tuesday Hueston will play Jesse Lean at the Grand. In the evening match, starting at 8 o'clock, Frank Day and Lloyd Jevne will clash.

SOME RESPITE FOR YALE TEAM

Regulars Given Layoff While Subs Are Worked Hard.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19.—Because of the wet weather and the hard game last Saturday, which resulted in a few minor injuries, the regular Yale varsity players did not go to the field Monday afternoon. It had been planned for them to take long walks, but few did on account of the rain.

Congdon is barely able to walk because of his sprained ankle, but the efficient rubbers expect to have him in condition by Saturday. Murphy and Brides, who are both suffering from "charley horse," are feeling considerably better, and Goebel and Joy, with their black eyes, begin to assume the air and appearance of human beings once more. The substitutes and the second team went to the field for an hour's practice under the coaching of Knox, Walter Camp, Heffelfinger, Veeder and Rockwell. There was no scrimmage, but several formations were tried.

It is probable that there will be several substitutes in Saturday's game. Burch and Logan will probably be given a chance to get their Y's. Today and tomorrow there will be a scrimmage for the first team and then the eleven with the substitutes will go to Auburndale Head. Coach Knox looks for a hard game with Harvard and the Yale players will be given some strenuous work this week.

PAPKE TO MEET TWO MEN

Will Endeavor to Down Connolly and Hagney Friday Night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Bill Papke, the Western cyclone, who is doing more fighting just now than any other fighter in the business, will try and stop two men in the same ring on Friday night before the Winnissimitt A. C. of Chelsea, Mass.

The pugilists whom he will make an effort to put down for the count are Bartley Connolly of Portland, Me., and Charley Hagney of Lowell, Mass., both fairly good men. Papke will meet each of them for five rounds, he being allowed a rest of 15 minutes between the battles.

"BUGS" RAYMOND IS KILLED BY CHICAGO CAR

Cardinals' Young Pitcher Dies After Being Mangled in Street.

EXPECTED TO BE A STAR

Record in South Was Brilliant and Future Was Promising.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Albert Raymond, one of the promising young pitchers of the St. Louis National League Ball Club, lies dead in St. Elizabeth's Hospital of this city as a result of a street-car accident late Monday night. Raymond was crossing North avenue at Elston avenue just as an Elston avenue car struck him and ground him under the wheels.

His body was badly mangled, one arm and one leg as well as several ribs being broken and internal injuries also being evident. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, but he died quickly, without regaining consciousness.

Raymond Promising Pitcher.

Raymond was thought to be the most promising of the young pitchers signed by the Carndinals for next season. He was procured by Manager McCloskey in August of this year and pitched several games with the National Leaguers with great credit to himself. Before going to St. Louis he had been the star twirler of the South Atlantic League, pitching for the Charleston (S. C.) team.

He was known all over the circuit as "Bugs" Raymond because of his antics on the coaching lines. After getting into the big league he was at once popular with all the players because of his humor.

Well Liked in St. Louis.

The death of young Raymond was a shock to the baseball fans of St. Louis, for they had grown to admire the boy in the few weeks that he had been with the Cardinal team. He had made many friends about town and the fans as well as the Cardinal management had expected much from the young twirler next season.

"Bugs" was a player that never became fussed in the box, no matter what happened. He was always smiling and got out of many a tight place because of his coolness.

It was in the coaching box that Raymond afforded the most amusement to the fans. When the St. Louis team was winning he executed acrobatic stunts which delighted the spectators and distressed the visiting team. Raymond's home is in Chicago, and he always spent his winters there. At one time he played semi-professional baseball about the Windy City.

M'FARLAND AND HERMAN ARE CONFIDENT OF RING VICTORY

Each Thinks That He Will Win in Thursday Night's Bout.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—If condition and confidence will win a prize fight, Packey McFarland, who is scheduled to meet Kid Herman at Davenport Thursday night, should win the bout. He is putting on the finishing touches of his training at the farm of his manager at Austin.

Herman also is reported to be in the best of trim at his quarters at the Belmont Farm camp. He has passed up the hard work, too, and will leave Tuesday night for Moline, where he will remain until Thursday. Betting is still at even money and a number of wagers have been laid in this city.

EAST ST. LOUIS FANCIERS ORGAN

Kennel Club Formed by Lovers of the Canine Aristocracy.

The movement to organize the New East St. Louis Kennel Club, which began Monday evening at the Royal Hotel, was well attended by owners, breeders and lovers of canine aristocrats. J. B. Able was elected temporary chairman and P. S. Clifton temporary secretary. Committees were appointed as follows:

Committee on Permanent Organization and By-Laws—C. E. Pope, E. S. McIntyre and Charles Rodenberg. Committee on Location for Holding of Dog Show—Al Keechler, C. McCormick and Dr. W. H. Meadows. The permanent organization will be completed next Monday night at a meeting place to be selected by Col. Pope.

Among those present were: Henry B. Sexton, J. B. Able, Al Keechler, E. S. McIntyre, J. C. Wells, C. McCormick, O. S. Clifton, Col. C. E. Pope, Dr. M. W. Sullivan, Dr. W. H. Meadows, Charles Rodenberg, George Munson, F. F. Davis, P. N. Suncock, M. Merkert, C. Stewart, E. C. Gibson, B. H. Niederfeld and Clarence Hayes.

Burns After Irish Champion.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 19.—If Tommy Burns succeeds in defeating Gunner Moir he will not return to America at once, but, according to a letter to a friend in this city, will go over to Ireland and box Ben Roche, the Irish champion.

Pegged on the Bases

It is reported that Clark Griffith is after Bradley of Cleveland to play third base for the Yanks next season. There is no longer any doubt that "Grif" is not after the next pennant.

Although the National Commission has given the farming of players a decidedly cross look, John I. Taylor is reported as still searching for a spot to work out his youngsters. It is said that he is negotiating for the Newark Club of the Eastern League.

Walter Most, the young semi-professional pitcher of Chicago, who has just been signed by Charley Comiskey, is highly recommended by both Jimmy Callahan and Jimmy Ryan, both of whom have played against him during the past summer.

President Hedges of the Browns says he feels confident that George Stone will lead the American League in batting next season.

Few people realize that Cincinnati was tied with New York for second place in the fielding honors of the National League. Some one will have to make them good run-getters and then they can win a pennant.

Cleveland has signed a college star player for the coming season. Homer Davidson is the youngster, and he made himself known to the public as a football player and a catcher at the baseball game. He has played a little semi-professional ball at Cleveland, and is now to have a trial with the big team.

W. H. Watkins, president and principal owner of the Indianapolis Club, is going to manage his own team from the bench next season. It is not a new game to "Watty."

MORE THAN TWO MILLION PLAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—There are some astonishing statistics of the Registration Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States which has just been holding its annual convention here. These figures show the enormous growth of athletics in America.

According to the report no less than 2,441,518 persons were engaged during the year in athletics of some form or other, and this was exclusive of swimming, wrestlers, boxers, basketball players, baseball players and gymnasiums.

The valuation of the property owned by clubs whose members take an active interest in track and field sports, amounted to $24,279,193.

SCROFULA AN INHERITANCE OF DISEASE AND SUFFERING

No truth is more forcibly manifested in physical life than the old saying "like begets like;" for just as the offspring of healthy ancestry are blessed with pure, rich blood, insuring health and strength, so the children of blood tainted parentage inherit a polluted circulation to burden their existence with disease and suffering. Swollen glands about the neck, brittle bones, weak eyes, pale, waxy complexions, running sores and ulcers and general poor health, are the usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. In some cases the blood is so filled with the scrofulous germs and tubercular matter that, from birth, life is made miserable with suffering. Others who inherit the disease succeed in holding the trouble in check during young, vigorous life, but when the system has begun to weaken and lose its natural vitality, and especially after a spell of sickness, the ravages of the disease will commence and in a great many cases terminate in Consumption. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Scrofula. It renovates the entire circulation and drives out the scrofulous and tubercular deposits. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and it not only goes to the very bottom of the trouble and removes the cause and cures the disease, but it supplies the weak, anaemic blood with the healthful properties it is in need of. S. S. S. is made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks, and is an absolutely safe remedy for young or old. Book on the blood and any medical advice about Scrofula given free of charge.

PUSHING HARVARD MEN HARD

Snappy Work and Much Enthusiasm Aid the Crimson Team.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 19.—From 3 o'clock till dark the Harvard eleven was driven Monday as they have never been driven before this fall. The practice was absolutely secret, not even the second team or managers being allowed on the field. Several new plays were tried and every effort is going to be made to perfect them in time for the Yale game. Coach Cutts kept the linemen working till they were ready to drop and the ends were put through an even more rigorous regime. The scrimmage was omitted.

The work of the team was very encouraging and there was much more spirit and team play than for several weeks. With the exception of Bird, Starr, Gilder, all of whom are lame, the varsity men are all in good trim.

A big wave of enthusiasm swept through the college last night and 700 students cheered and sang all through the dinner hour at Memorial Hall. Later 1500 undergraduates, headed by a band, marched around Cambridge cheering the team and singing football songs. It was the greatest display of college spirit seen here in years.

Seager Draws With Kelly.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—Kid Seager of this city decisively defeated Battling Kelly of Philadelphia last night before the Nonpareil Athletic Club, although the bout was called a draw. Seager was the aggressor throughout, had the better of 10 of the 15 rounds and had his opponent all but out in the twelfth and in the last round. The referee's decision was a great surprise to all present.

FAITH IS PINNED TO ROOSEVELT

John L. Thinks President Would Not Stop the Boxing Game.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 19.—John L. Sullivan was much concerned when he learned here that Gov. Hanly had stopped prizefighting at the request of the preachers. He said:

"I don't believe Roosevelt would have stopped them. He is not that sort. He's not—what does he call it?—a mollycoddle. He likes a good fight. It's natural for men to fight.

"I remember the time Joe Choynski whipped Peter Maher. After the fight the police arrested Choynski and Maher. President Roosevelt was Commissioner of Police in New York then. He had been watching the fight and he told the police to let the men go—not to arrest them. 'Who are you?' the police said. 'Never mind who I am,' he told them, 'you let those men go,' and they let 'em go.

"No," and he shook his head, "I don't believe Roosevelt would have done it."

Broken Hand Stops Bout.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Kid Gleason of Massachusetts, who took the place of Young Otto of New York against Mickey Gannon, the knock out artist, at the Spring Garden Athletic Club Monday night, put up a whirlwind battle, although he broke his hand and the bout was stopped in the fifth round.

CENTRAL CAPTURES LEAGUE HONORS

McKinley-Central, and Smith-Western Games, Final Ones of Interscholastic Schedule.

Interscholastic League Standing.

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Central High	4	0	0	1000
Western Mil. Academy	3	1	1	.750
Smith Academy	2	1	1	.667
McKinley High	1	2	1	.333
Yeatman High	1	2	1	.333
Manual Training School	0	5	0	.000

Central High, by virtue of its defeat of Smith Academy Saturday, has clinched the championship honors of the Interscholastic League. The Grand avenue boys have gone through the season without being scored on and have but one contest left, that with McKinley High, Thanksgiving morning, which will close the league season. They will play an outside game with Springfield (Ill.) High School Saturday, and after Turkey day may meet one of the Chicago high schools, but as yet no arrangements have been made for such a game.

Western Military Academy cannot lose their hold on second place, although Smith may tie them for the runner-up title if they triumph over Yeatman next Saturday. However, if the North Siders take the scalp of the Red and White lads, they will share third place with Smith, as also will McKinley if they defeat Central. Both are remote possibilities, however.

Manual, as expected, finished last. Their final struggle with Western was the best and pluckiest exhibition of football they have put up this year. Western was returned the victor because of the kicking of a goal after touchdown, while Manual failed. Their score, however, saves them from a certain amount of ridicule, as it is the only talley they made all season in the regular games.

The local contest this week by the league members will be between Smith and Yeatman, probably at Kulage Park Saturday morning. Yeatman will have to improve considerably this week if they expect to hold the Academy youngsters. Their showing against McKinley Saturday would not stamp them as being in Smith's class, especially as McKinley's team was in a very crippled condition. Smith should win by at least two touchdowns. This game was scheduled to be played Nov. 2, but was postponed by mutual agreement, because of bad weather.

COCKED HAT BOWLERS IN CLOSE SCORES ON ALLEYS

Six Teams Clash in National Association Tournament; Vulcans Defeated in Spite of High-Class Work.

Some of the best cocked-hat bowling of the present season was witnessed on the Royal Alleys Monday night when the six five-men teams competing in the National Cocked-Hat Association tournament clashed. All three matches were exciting, resulting in 3—2 breaks. Four of the six teams averaged over the 50 mark.

Strange to say, the Vulcans, the leading team in the tournament, with a record of four games won and one lost, bowled easily the best Monday night, but nevertheless lost three games and the match. The Vulcans averaged 55 11-25. Their opponents, the Spartans, traveled at a 51 22-25 gait.

The Vulcans dropped the first game by a wide margin, the second by one pin and the third on the roll off after the teams had tied with 246. The Vulcans, when it was too late, braced wonderfully and won the fourth game with the big mark of 315. In the final game the team secured 299 pins. Spencer was high for the Vulcans, with a 57 2-5 average. Wright did the best work for the Spartans with a 58 1-5 average.

The Olympias took the odd game from the Hercules. The Hercules did some nice work in the scientific line, getting 50 cock pins and being charged with but 60 misses. Harry Hirsh was the star as he ran into 15 cock pins and missed but five times.

The Corkers and Fenders furnished the best match in the Hardware Tenpin League contests on the De Soto Alleys. The Fenders averaged 838 2-3. Hossbaum was high man with a flat 183 average. Zimmerman topped the Corkers with a 175 mark.

DENNIS COSTIGAN, TRAINER, DIES

Was Trainer of Jack Dempsey in the Nonpareil's Prime.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Dennis Costigan, well known as the trainer of Jack Dempsey, died in the Metropolitan Hospital, on Blackwell's Island, Monday. He was 51 years old.

Costigan trained Dempsey for all the latter's important prizefights, including the memorable championship battle with Fitzsimmons. After Dempsey's defeat he and Costigan went around the world. Both contracted consumption.

On Oct. 1 Costigan went to St. Francis' Hospital. There he pleaded with his friends for them to arrange so that he could see one more fight. He left there, and on Oct. 19 went to a fight in Philadelphia. After that he said he was willing to die. He became worse and went to Bellevue. Two weeks ago he was moved to the Metropolitan Hospital.

Burns Defeats Dwyer.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 19.—Farmer Burns won at wrestling from Michael Dwyer at Denver Athletic Club Monday night, the best two out of three falls. By winning the second fall Cornish style in quicker time than Dwyer had won the first fall, Burns won the right to name the style of the third bout and chose catch-as-catch-can. The last bout was won by Burns with a cross-lock and half-Nelson in eight minutes flat.

HAPPY WOMAN WILL TELL AMERICANS HER SECRET

Miss Alma-Tadema Says Hard Work Brings the Only Real Happiness.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Here to show American women what happiness is and how to find it, Miss Laurence Alma-Tadema, daughter of Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, a well-known Anglo-Dutch artist, looks the personification of her theme. Indeed, she admitted she was an example of happiness.

Miss Alma-Tadema is well known in England as the author of several novels, books of essays, poems and four plays. She will lecture here, particularly before women's clubs, and give readings from her own works.

"What is the meaning of happiness?" Miss Alma-Tadema was asked.

'It takes me an hour and twenty minutes to answer that question," she replied with a laugh. "I passed several years in learning it, and it took me five months to write it down."

"How is happiness attained?"

"By managing one's self; by working hard and developing one's powers to the limit. It never comes except by being sought. It is not a matter of condition or wealth. It does not depend upon marriage."

"Are there any happy persons in the world?"

"Why, yes. I am an example of a happy person."

COUNT OBJECTS TO SNAPSHOT

Gladys Vanderbilt's Fiance Has a Photographer Arrested.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Count Szechnyi, Miss Gladys Vanderbilt's fiance, caused the arrest of F. J. Parret for taking a snapshot of him as he entered a hansom after leaving the horseshow.

Miss Vanderbilt, the Count and a few friends were leaving their box at Madison Square Garden, when a photographer set off a flashlight in the lobby. A moment later, when Parret, with a companion, attempted to take a flashlight picture of the Count as they entered a cab, he and Monroe Morris jumped out and chased the photographers. The women were driven away. After a chase of five blocks Parret's assistant, who had set off the flashlight, escaped.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press. In addition it receives the service of the United Press and maintains a leased wire to its New York Bureau. Its news-gathering organization is unsurpassed in the United States. No other St. Louis newspaper approaches it.

MURPHY WANTS LONGER SERIES FOR FALL GAMES

Suggests to National Commission That It Make Some Changes Next Season.

President Charles Murphy of the Chicago National League Club has just made public a lengthy document which he wrote and sent to the National Commission when it met last week.

Mr. Murphy, among other things, suggests that the series for the world's championship each fall be lengthened. Says he:

"Experience has shown that the present number of games to decide the world's championship is not adequate. An extension of the contests to five games out of nine, which I understand has been favorably spoken of privately by all the individual members of the National Commission, would be more satisfactory to the public, players, press and club owners. If this suggestion were impelled by a catch-penny desire for additional gate receipts and was so tinctured with sordid commercialism as to detract from sportsmanship, it would not be worthy of consideration. Such, however, is not the case.

"Primarily, the reason for this change is that it would give more enthusiasts an opportunity to see the game. In these days of hustle and bustle when there is so much commercial and industrial activity, it is hard for many persons to arrange their business affairs in order to see all the games played in the world series. By insuring the public five games, however, many persons living at a distance might be able to arrange to see the fifth game who could not see the first, second, third or fourth. Then, another reason for this change would be that it would have a tendency to minimize the effect of luck as regards the ultimate outcome."

Wednesday Sale of La Vogue COATS — Garland's — Wednesday Sale of La Vogue SUITS

The correctness of La Vogue Coats in every detail, fit, fashion and fabric, admits of no uncertainty. The makers of these famous garments keep thoroughly in touch with Paris, London and Berlin modistes. Every new feature (if desirable) is at once adapted to our needs. The concessions in prices here made mean turning into cash a large accumulation, owing to the recent financial flurry. Coats in style up to the very hour.

The makers of La Vogue Suits claim (and justly) that their garments are in no respect behind the noted productions which emanate from such foreign houses as Worth, Callot Soeurs, Doucet and other prominent European makers. This is possible, as we import the finest fabrics made, and the best artists in ladies' tailoring are daily coming to this country, tempted by the pay and all-round better conditions of labor. The Suits of La Vogue on sale here fully bear out this contention.

LaVogue Coats—Women's Coats at—unquestionably worth $28.00—fine broadcloth, semi-fitting, and long, loose, Marchioness style; collarless; trimmed with Milan braids in handsome patterns; lined throughout with guaranteed satin. $19.50

La Vogue Suits—Women's Tailored Suits of fine broadcloth; fitted jackets; single or double-breasted; man-tailored skirt, pleated and with deep fold at bottom; worth $18; priced at $10.00

Waists—A thousand Waists coming to us from makers who must have cash, finds us in the best possible condition to take care of the shipment. Our section devoted exclusively to Waists is the largest and best arranged of any west of New York, and our ability to take advantage of price concessions by manufacturers when satisfactory is a household word with makers—hence the good values tomorrow.

Waists—Elegant Messaline Waists; in evening shades; worth $10; at $5.00

Waists—Rich all-silk Taffeta Silk Waists; plaids and Tartans; worth $8.50; at $5.95

SOCIETY

MRS. CASEY WITHERSPOON of Butte, Mont., formerly of St. Louis, was guest of honor Tuesday afternoon at a reception given by Mrs. Fred Allen and Mrs. Gordon Willis at the home of the former, 4319 Washington boulevard, between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock. Pink chrysanthemums and roses were artistically disposed in the drawing room where the hostesses and guest of honor stood. Mrs. Allen wore white chiffon, embroidered in pale pink; Mrs. Willis white lace over white chiffon, and Mrs. Witherspoon was in pale pink embroidered in shades of brown. Without hats and assisting in entertaining were Mrs. John Ockerson, Mrs. E. J. Spencer, Mrs. George Ganett, Mrs. Harry Smith.

Miss Lola Brashier, Miss Henrietta Harden and Miss Hall Crouch served punch. Among the guests present were:

Mmes.—

John Fristoe.

The new Cathedral chapel was filled with friends and relatives of Miss Alecia Chambers, daughter of Mrs. Joseph L. Chambers, Tuesday morning, when she became the bride of Capt. Claude Chichester of London, England. Archbishop Glennon officiated. The bride wearing a white satin messaline gown, with family point lace and carrying bride roses fringed with valley lilies, entered the church with her brother. She was preceded by Miss Maria Taylor, Miss Jane Taylor, Miss Margaret Lee as bridesmaids, and her sister, Miss Sarah Chambers, who was maid of honor. Messrs. Robert Walsh, Edward Walsh, A. J. Lindsay ushered. The bridal party were met at the altar by Capt. Chichester and his brother Mr. Basil Chichester, who was best man. The bride's attendants were gowned similarly in white batiste and lace over pink silk, wearing big black picture hats with plumes and the under brim pale pink velvet. They all carried bridesmaids' roses. After the ceremony there was a bridal breakfast at the residence of Mrs. Chambers in Berlin avenue. The entire house was decorated in pink and white chrysanthemums and roses. Capt. and Mrs. Chichester departed at noon for New York, from where they will sail on Nov. 23 for their future home in Leamington, Warwickshire, England.

Miss Ida Price of Chicago, who has been the guest of Mrs. Vincent Price for the past two weeks has been much entertained during her visit.

Friday Miss Eugenia Sliger will give a tea for Miss Price, whose guest she will be after Thursday. Miss Helen Barnes and Miss Adele Carmen will serve punch. On Friday, Nov. 29, Mrs. Sliger and Miss Sliger will again be at home in Miss Price's honor.

Mrs. Clarence Brenizer will be hostess at a 500 party on Wednesday, Nov. 27, and later Miss Carman will entertain at her home in Clarendon avenue for Miss Price.

WOMEN LIVED IN LUXURY AT CREDITORS' COST

MacCrackens Ran Up Bills of Nearly $10,000 in About Two Months.

WORE COSTLY GOWNS

Expensive Furniture, Millinery and Champagne Among Goods Obtained.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The MacCracken family, a famous aggregation of swindlers which successfully operated in New York, Philadelphia and Newark during the past half-dozen years, living in luxurious style at other people's expense, may have been run to earth by the police of this city.

Mrs. Ruth MacCracken, two daughters and a son, created havoc among the merchants of Washington by running up bills aggregating between $7000 and $10,000 during a period of two months. The son was known as Wm. J. MacCracken, and the daughters as Annie, Jane and Ruth.

Mrs. MacCracken, announcing that she came from Berwick-on-theTweed, Scotland, and had never before lived in this country, took a house at 1225 Connecticut avenue in the fashionable section of the city, where she resided two months. Complaint was recently made to the police that Mrs. MacCracken and her family had bought on credit costly gowns, expensive furniture, millinery, cases of champagne, etc. The police say that when they visited her home the woman was missing. So were most of the goods.

Plunder Taken Away.

Neighbors say Mrs. MacCracken shipped much of the furniture and clothing within the past two weeks in large boxes and trunks. They add that wagons have been seen to back up in front of the house at all hours of the night.

A request was sent to the police of other cities to apprehend this family, and they were arrested in Baltimore. The authorities here were notified today that about $3000 worth of goods have been found and will be returned. This comprises millinery, wearing apparel and other articles.

The following is the list of merchants who have complained to the police that they were victimized by Mrs. MacCracken: Julius Garfinkle & Co., $350; M. Philipsborn & Co., $260; W. B. Moses & Sons, $985; Robert Pluym, $600; Saks Fur Co., $350; Ernestine A. Saum, $68; J. M. Stein & Co., $60; Barber & Ross, $180; B. Rich's Sons, $30; Mme. Guischard, $11.50; John H. Magruder and the Dramatic School of Art.

Furnished Her House.

Soon after Mrs. MacCracken took the house at 1225 Connecticut avenue, according to the police, she purchased from W. B. Moses & Sons about $1000 worth of furniture. Mrs. MacCracken then visited a department store and obtained, the authorities say, about $1500 worth of clothing. Her daughters, too, purchased several hats, ranging in price from $40 to $150 each.

Having furnished her home elaborately, Mrs. MacCracken turned her attention to real estate. She visited two of the largest firms in the city and advised them of her intention to invest in realty. She said she wanted to buy two farms, one for $10,000 and another for $15,000. The head of one of the firms was so favorably impressed with his prospective patron that he took her and her two daughters for an automobile ride, after which the party dined at a leading hotel.

From several grocery stores the woman obtained quantities of expensive articles. She also stocked her cellar with costly wines.

FORMER WIFE SUES FOR PART OF FAMILY ESTATE

Mrs. J. M. Kirk Wants Income on $500,000 to Support Her and Children.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Madeline G. Kirk of Pasadena, Cal., yesterday filed a bill in the Superior Court against her former husband, James M. Kirk, asking for an accounting of money received by him from his father's estate. The bill was filed immediately following information received by Mrs. Kirk that her husband had remarried on Oct. 10 last.

Mr. Kirk is a son of the late John B. Kirk of Evanston, who died Nov. 3, 1904, leaving an estate valued at $500,000. One-sixth of this estate was left in trust for James Kirk, the income to be paid to him for the support of himself and family as long as he should live, and after his death to be so disposed of as he should indicate by will.

MARS HAS ITS FOREST PROBLEM

Massachusetts Woman Declares Planet's Trees Are Treated "Brutally."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 19.—That the inhabitants of Mars are "brutal" in their treatment of the planet's trees was asserted before the Woman's Club by Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd, wife of Prof. Todd, the famous Martian authority.

The vandalism on Mars, she said, exceeded that of American lumbermen.

EVADES DEBT BY PLEADING GAMBLING, BUT IS ARRESTED

Court Dismisses Suit Aainst Grain Man and Orders Prosecutor to Act.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HIAWATHA, Kan., Nov. 19.—J. H. Pauley sued C. F. Garrett in the District Court here for a debt of $900. Both are from Porton. Pauley alleges that he bought grain and stocks from Garrett, and that the $900 was profits from his investments. Garrett's attorneys, in their answer, stated that Garrett was conducting a bucketshop, and that a gambling debt could not be collected through the courts.

Pauley's attorneys called but one witness, and that was Garrett, who refused to testify, on the grounds that he might incriminate himself. He was sustained. Judge Stuart dismissed the case and stated that gambling debts could not be collected in his court. He then called the County Attorney's attention to the fact that Garrett's attorneys and witnesses had stated in open court that Garrett was operating a bucketshop. The Judge instructed the Prosecuting Attorney to bring criminal proceedings against Garrett, and ordered the Sheriff to take Garrett into custody, and take possession of his books.

WIFE WHO SAYS SHE HAS HAD ONE $1.50 HAT IN 25 YEARS ASKS DIVORCE

Kate Susanka Also Complains That Husband Never Takes Her Out Except to Funerals.

Joseph Susanka of 1410 Dillon street bought his wife, Kate, only one hat in 25 years, according to an answer she filed in the Circuit Court Tuesday to his petition for divorce. And the hat cost only $1.50, at that, she declares.

She further alleges that Mr. Susanka never took her out except "when they were invited to a funeral."

Mrs. Susanka recites other odd circumstances in support of her contention that she has been long-suffering and kind and that it is not her fault but her husband's that she lives in the upstairs flat at the number given, while he is domiciled in the lower apartment.

She relates that she had her photograph taken and hung in her husband's room, expecting to give him a pleasant surprise. When he found it there, she says, he became indignant that any other member of the family should hang anything in his room.

She charges that Susanka compelled the family to live in two rooms and a kitchen that were without curtains and carpets; that he compelled her to wear old shoes and that he refused to allow her to join in conversation with visitors.

Mrs. Susanka is 54 years old, while her husband is 77. In his suit for divorce Susanka alleges that his wife would not cook his meals. They have four children, the eldest a girl of 23.

FARMAN'S AEROPLANE SAILS AROUND CIRCLE

Santos Dumont Fears It Will Win the $10,000 Deutsch Prize.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1907, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Farman made a strong effort today to win with his aeroplane the $10,000 Deutsch prize for the machine which shall first succeed in sailing in the air a circle measuring .62 of a mile. The aeroplane finally got around the circuit, but it touched the ground three times in doing so. In the crowd of spectators was Santos-Dumont. Speaking to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, he said:

"I have given up my hydroplane and all other experiments for the moment in order to practice my butterfy-shaped aeroplane. Evidently there is no time to lose, for Farman could have made the circuit today if he had had a little more power. I shall experiment with my aeroplane at daybreak tomorrow, and if it works satisfactorily I shall try to win the Deutsch prize tomorrow afternoon."

COURT SCORES CONVICTED MAN

William C. Dines' Conduct "Reprehensible," but Legal.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—The Missouri Supreme Court today ruled that William C. Dines of St. Louis, convicted of defrauding Henry Alt Jr., in the sale of 15,000 acres of land in Georgia, had not violated the law, although, the opinion says, "appellant's conduct is reprehensible beyond expression."

Dines was sentenced to serve five years in the Penitentiary. It was charged that he falsely represented himself to be the owner of 15,000 acres of land in Montgomery County, Georgia, and that he sold this land to Alt, receiving $30,000.

He was indicted and convicted on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The Court, in its opinion, holds that Dines did not violate the statute under which he was indicted, and sends the case back to the Circuit Court in St. Louis for such action as may be taken by the Circuit Attorney.

PASTOR IN ROW OVER WINDOW IN HIS BATHROOM

Woman Whose House Adjoins Says He Struck Her During Quarrel.

CASE OUT OF COURT

Dining Room View Was the Cause of Wife's Strenuous Objection.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Trouble arising over a bathroom window in the house of Rev. James M. Wheaton, 929 West Polk street, brought that clergyman and his next-door neighbor into the Maxwell Street Police Court today.

The neighbor, Mrs. Laura Hahn, had the preacher arrested for assault and battery. The Rev. Mr. Wheaton is pastor of the De Kalb Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

"The preacher's house," Mrs. Hahn said, "runs flush up to a court which is my property."

"The man who built the house, at the same time mine was built, 21 years ago, cut windows for his laundry, bathroom and one other room, but I made him close them because he had trespassed on my property and the windows would have been inconvenient.

Lets Him Open Window.

"When the Rev. Mr. Wheaton bought the place, four years ago, he came and begged me to let him open the bathroom window and I promised to try it for awhile, if he would stain the glass.

"He didn't stain the glass, but he just hung up a curtain.

"You mean to say that you could see what was going on in the bathroom?"

"I should say I could. I couldn't help seeing it, because the bathroom window is just across from my dining room window and a little down so that anybody in my dining room could get the good purchase on it, so to speak.

"After the preacher opened the bathroom window he talked about me scandalously in the neighborhood. A month ago I determined that it was time to close the bathroom window. I went out into my court to fit the boards and the preacher hit me once in the mouth and twice on the breast with his fists and poked me three times in the sides with a stick. He also tore down a screen I had in front of my sitting room window and broke two panes of glass."

PET SPANIEL DIES BY GAS AFTER WHIPPING

Canine Lies Down by Kitchen Stove and Inhales the Deadly Fumes.

Two hours after Charles Hale of Alton had punished his pet dog and tied it in the kitchen for stealing meat from an ice chest, the dog was found dead with its nose near a gas stove. One of the burners of the stove was turned on full and the atmosphere was saturated with fuel gas.

The dog was a valuable water spaniel and was a trick dog with an intellect almost human. The cock to the burner of the stove is near the floor and Mr. Hale is wondering whether the dog committed suicide by turning on the gas.

Early in the afternoon the children of the Hale family had been romping with the dog, which climbed a ladder with a funny little cap on its curly head and sat on the top rung with a pipe in its mouth.

When the children tired of the fun they went to other parts of the house for amusements. Shortly afterward Mr. Hale found the dog in the pantry eating a chicken bone which had been left in the ice chest.

"Mack" had been often told never to touch anything that was in the ice chest, so Mr. Hale made a scourge of soft cord and whipped the pet for the first time. Then he tied the dog in the kitchen by a long rope—another unprecedented punishment.

The most pathetic feature is that a plate was afterwards found under the table in the pantry with a chicken bone in it, which a servant acknowledged having placed there for Mack's consumption.

East St. Louis News

Benjamin F. Martin has filed suit against the Terminal Railway Association for $10,000 in the City Court. Martin fell from a train near Cahokia and both legs were cut off Jan. 7, 1906. He alleges he was ordered from the moving train at the point of a revolver by a brakeman.

James McNees, a negro, who shot Louis Johnson three weeks ago during a quarrel at the Armour Packing Plant, inflicting injuries from which Johnson died Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital, was held for the grand jury without bond at the inquest held Monday. McNees has been in jail since the shooting.

Charles F. Judy has sued the Southern Railroad for $20,000 in the City Court. He was a switchman and fell between the cars while attempting to make a coupling, Jan. 4 1907. His right leg was cut off.

The East St. Louis city officials will receive their pay Wednesday. At Monday's meeting of the City Council the aldermen authorized the issuance of anticipation warrants against the tax levy of this year in payment of city payrolls for the next three months. The resolution cited that this plan was necessary because City Treasurer John Neimes refused to cash the payroll checks from other funds in his hands.

The anticipation warrants will be issued by City Comptroller E. J. Eggman Tuesday and will be ready for payment Wednesday. The local banks have agreed to accept and cash the warrants at their face value, and will hold them until the taxes are collected in February, 1908. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent will be paid by the city.

East St. Louis now has approximately $200,000 cash in the banks to the credit of the City Treasurer in different funds. The cash in the payroll fund has been exhausted and a temporary financial stringency was caused by Mr. Niemes' refusal to transfer cash from one fund to another, as has been customary for years.

The body of Frank J. Ritzler, 21 years old, who died Monday at St. Mary's Hospital of appendicitis, will be taken to Waterloo Tuesday evening for burial. He was a railroad clerk and resided at 824 Baugh avenue.

The funeral of George B. Holton, 43 years old, who died Monday of pneumonia at his home, Third street and Converse avenue, was held Tuesday afternoon to Mount Hope Cemetery. He is survived by his wife and several children.

The Republic Iron and Steel Works opened Monday morning in nearly all of its departments. Eleven hundred men were put to work Monday and Tuesday, and the complete plant will be in operation by next Monday, giving employment to 300 more men.

Five hundred handkerchiefs, varied as to size, color and texture, will represent the states of the Union and different foreign countries at the Handkerchief Convention which, in connection with a supper, will be given by the Ladies' Society of the Evangelical Church on Gaty avenue, at the school house, 1135 Gaty avenue, the afternoons and evenings of Wednesday and Thursday.

WITNESS MADE TO TESTIFY IN HUNGARIAN AND ENGLISH

Men Charged With Murder Wanted to Know What Was Said About Them.

When John Ruble of East St. Louis gave his testimony in the Hunycz-Toths murder case in the Circuit Court at Belleville he had to talk in two languages. Ruble was the interpreter who assisted the police officers in getting statements from Toths and Hunycz after they had been arrested on a murder charge. When Ruble testified as to the statements alleged to have been made by Toths and Hunycz, the attorneys for the defense objected on the ground that the accused could not understand what was being said against them. Ruble was then instructed to make his statements in Hungarian and then in English.

Joseph Toths and Andrew Hunycz are charged with having shot Steve Stublnski and Ignatz Kurilla in East St. Louis on July 4, this year.

WANTS $1,500,000 FOR WIFE

Batonyi Says He Has Sued Father-in-Law for Alienation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Aurel Batonyi, who, a little more than two years ago, married Mrs. Burke-Roche, daughter of Frank Work, and who separated from her last summer, was in Newport, R. I., yesterday, and endeavored to have an interview with his wife, but failed.

Mr. Batonyi is quoted as saying that he has brought alienation suits against Mr. Work and other relatives of his wife, aggregating $1,500,000.

DEATHS.

LONG—Entered into rest on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 9:30 a. m., John H. Long, beloved husband of Jennie Long (nee McPike), father of Mrs. M. A. Winchester, John and Alex Long, aged 69 years.

Funeral from residence, 2383 Hartford street, Thursday, Nov. 21, at 2 p. m., to St. Mathew's Cemetery.

N. Y. STOCKS SLUMP HEAVILY IN FORENOON

American Securities in London Are Very Irregular and Below Parity.

INDUSTRIALS ARE SAGGY

Severe Recessions Made in Entire List Between Opening and Noon.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19, 10 a. m.—Following the lead of London, which was very irregular, the market opened this morning with small fractional changes from Monday's close. Recessions and gains were about equal, but in no instance was the difference between the opening and close as much as 1 point.

The initial trading, however, gave evidences of a downward tendency in most of the issues. This was especially true of the industrials, trading in which was narrow and quotations lower.

Atchison, New York Central and B. R. T. opened at parity. Pennsylvania, St. Paul, Reading and the Hill stocks were slightly off, while the Harriman Pacifics were a small fraction higher than their close. The latter, however, showed weakness in the first half hour's business, and acted as if they would go lower during the forenoon. There was considerable activity in Reading and Union Pacifics, but the rest of the list was comparatively quiet.

In the first half hour Amalgamated and Smelters had slumped nearly a point and the steels were also weaker.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19, 12:30 p. m.—During the forenoon hours there was a heavy slump along the entire line, which drove prices far below the opening figures.

Rock Island 4s had a sensational drop of over 4 points, and Canadian Pacific and St. Paul were down about three points each from initial sales. The Hill and Harriman stocks sagged with the general list.

Coppers and steels were also very weak. In fact, there was no stock that did not suffer a serious decline from the opening.

ENGINEER NOT DEAD, AS STATED

East St. Louis Man Badly Hurt, but May Recover.

After his wife had been notified that W. B. Horstman had ben killed in a wreck at Indianapolis Sunday, word was received in East St. Louis Monday that he was still alive and hopes were entertained for his recovery.

The information that he was dead was received by City Clerk Charles Lambert and he arranged for the funeral to be held under the auspices of Gothic Masonic Lodge. A committee from the lodge expected to start for Indianapolis Monday night, but the arrangements were countermanded. Hortsman is an engineer for the Big Four Railroad and lives at 812 Market avenue.

PRIESTS PAY DUES, REINSTATED

Argument Caused by Failure to Notify Delinquents.

Rev. Daniel Courtney, assistant pastor of St. Kevin's Catholic Church, and 27 other members of St. Kevin's Council, Knights of Father Mathew, who rebelled after being suspended for nonpayment of dues, have been reinstated after having settled their indebtedness to the order.

The suspension of the members brought about a heated discussion between Father Courtney, who is spiritual director of the Council, and Chief Sir Knight Patrick J. Regan. Father Courtney contends that the members were not notified of their delinquency, as has been the custom, and Regan says such notification is not necessary, according to the constitution.

Fined for Restaurant Fight.

Martin Folger of 12A South Twenty-second street was fined $25 by Judge Pollard in the Dayton Street Police court Tuesday for his part in a fight Tuesday in front of a restaurant at 1212 Olive street, during which Miss Viola Nagel, cashier of the restaurant, fired a revolver at the ground three times to summon the police.

NATIVE CATTLE—But few good steers were included in the 3900 native cattle received this morning, 19 head averaging 1212 pounds, bringing $5.65, was considered a steady price. Bulk of the supply consisted of steers of medium to pretty good kinds that sold slowly, but mostly at about steady prices, but the closing trade was weak.

Only a few good cows and heifers were received, and the good medium weight kinds sold readily at steady prices, but the common and fair grades sold slowly, at steady to weak prices, about the same conditions governing as in the beef steer trade, as has been the case for several days past.

There was little outside demand for stockers and feeders today and local traders having a pretty good supply of common and fair kinds on hand, were not anxious to increase their holdings and the result was a dull market.

The calf market was active at firm prices, some choice kinds being available that topped at $8.25, and all kinds found ready sale.

HOGS—A few more than 11,000 hogs arrived and then about 2000 were left when the market closed Monday, so that around 13,000 head were on sale and as other markets reported liberal runs, also the market was lower. The decline was 25c from the averaged Monday market, making values now 50c lower than the close of last week. Several loads brought $5.05, which was the top of the market and the lowest the market has been since December 16, 1905. Packers were able to get about all of their hogs for less than $5 and pigs sold from $4.25@4.75. Most of the hogs sold before the market closed.

SHEEP—A moderate number of sheep arrived, the greater proportion of which were Westerns and the native and Southwestern offerings as a rule were not very good. There was little or no change to the market, but it was hardly as good a market as the Monday one. Western lambs sold at $6.30 and yearlings $4.70@4.85. Native mutton sheep sold principally around $4.50 and the Southwestern ones from $4.25@4.50. Scarcely any good native lambs were on sale.

CLOSE ON WHEAT SHARPLY LOWER

Prices Moved at Easier Levels Throughout Session, Rallying Slightly at Close.

MARKET INTEREST LIGHT

Corn Weak and Oats Again Neglected—World's Visible Decreases Sharply.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS IN BRIEF

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—The wheat market today opened weak because of liberal Northwest receipts and the lack of firmness in the stock market. Trading was very light. The market was weak all day on reports of excellent crop from Argentina. The low point for December was 93⅜. The close was weak, with December off 1⅜c at 93⅝.

The corn market opened easy in sympathy with wheat and because of lower cables. Prices ruled weak until the close, which was weak with December off ⅝@¾c at 54⅝@54¾c.

The oats market was dull and prices easier.

Tuesday's was another rather quiet session on the local wheat exchange, trading being on a small scale and prices, after an easier range during practically the whole session, closed steady, the close being ⅞@1c lower for the day. Liverpool cables closed ⅛d to ¼d lower, Paris closed unchanged to ¼c lower on wheat and ¾c lower on flour, Antwerp wheat closed unchanged to ⅝c higher, Berlin wheat closed unchanged, and Budapest wheat closed 1½c higher. Bradstreet reports an increase of 132,000 bu in wheat east of Rocky Mountains and in Canada, a decrease of 2,800,000 bu in wheat in Europe and afloat and a total decrease of 2,68,000 bu compared with decrease of 6660,000 bu in the world's visible supply of wheat. The visible supply of wheat in Europe, after a decrease of over 2,000,000 bu, amounts to 75,232,000 bu.

The opening was dull and an easier tone developed at the start, the influences being the unresponsive Liverpool market, cables thence coming somewhat lower, lower openings at other markets, and generally bearish sentiment locally. The strong cables from Budapest, based on the continued drouth in Hungary, unfavorable conditions in Russia, the discouraging outlook in India, where it was reported that this is probably the last week of exports and the steady decreasing stock were ignored and, after some early narrow fluctuations, prices declined to about 1c to 1¼c below the previous day's close under a light trade.

The trading continued light throughout the session, but a partial recovery occurred in the latter parts. The light stocks, which have become quite a factor, and the liberal decrease in the world's visible stirred up a scattered demand, but the inquiry, after a small rally had been made, petered out, and prices in the last period of trading again ruled weak, a fractional recovery being made at the close, however. Country receipts in the Northwest are increasing, and the cash demand there is easing off, but though its effect is not actually felt yet, the relieving measure taken by the Government caused some bull feeling. The foreign countries are practically out of the market for American wheat, very little business being done, and the demand being very slow. Late prices moved very slowly at the low levels and the close, under an improved demand was above the bottom of the day's range.

December wheat opened ⅝c lower at 93⅝c, declined to 93⅜c, rallied to 93¾c, declined to 93c, rallied to 93⅛c, was offered down to 92⅞, rallied to 93⅝c and closed at 93¼@93⅜c. May wheat opened ⅛@¼c lower at $1.03⅛, declined to $1.02⅝, rallied to $1.03, declined to $1.02⅝c, up to $1.02⅝, was offered down to $1.02⅜, bid for at $1.02⅜@1.02½, declined to $1.02, recovered to $1.02⅝ and closed at $1.02¼ bid. The only sale of July option was 1¼c lower at 94½c.

There were few changes in the cash wheat situation, offerings being light, the demand still lighter and prices slightly easier. Total receipts of wheat at all Western primary markets were 892,258 bu, against 748,000 bu last year. Chicago received 39,200 bu wheat and Kansas City 28,000 bu. Local receipts of wheat were 29,043 bu, against 62,172 bu last year, and shipments were 72,450 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 331,000 bu.

Corn was quiet, and, weakened by the ⅝d lower corn cables and the decline in wheat, ranged at lower levels throughout. The weather for corn continues favorable, being clear and cool, but the movement is still very light, and stocks continue to make further decreases. The world's visible supply of corn decreased 844,000 bu. Today's trading in corn futures was light, and the close was 1c to 1¼c lower for the day.

Cash corn was in slow demand, and prices ruled somewhat easier. Primary receipts of corn were 287,159 bu, against 474,510 bu last year, and shipments were 251,438 bu, against 330,000 bu last year. Local receipts of corn were 12,965 bu, against 51,655 bu last year, and shipments were 23,205 bu. Corn clearances were 2000 bu.

Traders continue to neglect the oats market, which was again inactive, with the only quotation an offer of May option at 48⅜c, ⅜c below Monday's nominal close. The world's visible supply of oats, 846,000 bu. The cash oats demand was slow. Primary receipts of oats were 372,585 bu, against 721,590 bu last year and shipments were 482,957 bu, against 322,000 bu last year. Local receipts of oats were 27,200 bu, against 76,900 bu last year and shipments were 57,895 bu. Oats clearances were 3000 bu.

Following is the weekly summary of foreign crop conditions:

United Kingdom, North Africa—Weather conditions continue favorable and seeding has made good progress.

France and Italy—There are occasional complaints heard regarding delayed seeding, but outlook generally favorable. Supplies liberal.

Spain—Outlook for seeding favorable. Prices very high and a further reduction in the import duty is expected.

Germany—Occasional mention made drouth, but otherwise outlook very favorable. Supplies very moderate, both of native and foreign grain.

Austria-Hungary — Beneficial rains have fallen.

Roumania—Freezing reported after fall of good rains, and the acreage has been reduced.

Bulgaria—Acreage short of previous years and the condition of seeding bad.

Russia—Outlook generally unfavorable, and the recent rains reported were insufficient to help seedings to any great extent. Latest advices report interior stocks very light and the predictions are that shipments will be very light for the week.

Turkey—The suspension of the import duty has been prolonged and the exportation of barley has been prohibited.

The following message was received from Kansas City: Stocks of wheat here have decreased 2,500,000 bu in five weeks. Decrease last week was 540,000 bu. Total stocks now 2,302,000 bu. There will be another big decrease this week. All of the wheat here is sold. Receipts today 23 cars, just about enough for our biggest mill.

Minneapolis cars were 214, against 241 last year; Duluth 527, against 419 last year, and Winnipeg 274, against 130 last year.

FLOUR—Receipts were 10,385 bbls.; shipments, 15,050 bbls. Quote soft winter flour, patents, $4.25@5; straight, $4.60@4.75; extra fancy, $4.30@4.40 in wood; low to medium grades, in jute, $3.40@3.75; hard jute sacks, patent, $4.60@4.90; straight, $4.35@4.50; first clears, $3.70@4.10; second clears, $3.50@3.60; low grade, $3.35@3.40; spring patents, $5.20@5.40 in jute.

HAY — Receipts 1215 tons local and 190 tons through; shipments, 390 tons. Quote timothy, choice, $17.50@18; No. 1, $14.50@16.50; No. 2, $12@14; No. 3, $8@11; no grade, $5@7. Clover, mixed, choice, $15; No. 1, $12.50@13; No. 2, $10.50@12; clover hay, No. 1, $14@14.50; No. 2, $11@13. Prairie hay—Choice, $12.50@13; No. 1, $11.50@12; No. 2, $10@12. Hay market dull.

FINANCIAL ITEMS

Call money on the New York Exchange opened Tuesday at 6 per cent and was offered later at 8 per cent.

The St. Louis money market was greatly improved Tuesday. Applications from nondepositing sources, seeking accommodations, fairly flooded the local market, but this availed nothing in view of the fixed policy of local institutions to accommodate resident clients only. Rates remained unchanged at 7 to 8 per cent.

The Rock Island company's common and preferred stock slumped badly immediately after the opening this morning, making new low records for both issues since 1900. The common stock's previous low record was 12⅛; at noon today 12¼; preferred previous low record was 32¼; at noon today is 29½, which is the last quotation. No news received up to 12 a. m. giving cause of decline.

The Boatmen's Bank's books will close Nov. 21 and reopen on the 30th, both, inclusive, on account of the regular quarterly dividend at 2½ per cent, payable Dec. 1.

Treasurer Thos. J. Akins of the St. Louis Subtreasury announced at 10 a. m. Tuesday that subscriptions for the new United States Treasury 1-year 3-per-cent notes exceeded $1,500,000 at that hour and were still coming in rapidly.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Tuesday, $9,370,837; last week, $9,603,177; balances for today, $1,127,248; last week, $598,158. Decrease clearings, $232,340; increase balances, $529,090.

Action has been deferred on the semi-annual dividend of the Atlantic Coast Line on account of present financial conditions. A special meeting of directors will be held some time in December for the purpose of acting on dividends.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—It is understood that the liquidation in Rock Island collateral 4s today has been for the account of a former member of the so-called "Moore" crowd, who, since withdrawing from that quarter, has spent a good deal of his time abroad. He returned recently.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Twelfth Ward Bank will reopen its doors Wednesday.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—A rumor is current here, and in Paris, that the Bank of France has expressed willingness to take $20,000,000 of the new United States one-year notes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Total gold engaged for import on present movement now amounts to approximately $67,500,000.

A special from Austin, Tex., discloses what has long been feared by business and financial interests througghout the East and North. Representatives of the Farmers Union are endeavoring to get Gov. Campbell to convene the Legislature in special session to enact laws which will not force cotton growers to sell their cotton at present market prices and yet will exempt them from meeting liabilities, some of which are due. The Governor will probably not accede to this request, but the item is interesting as showing the extent to which the growers associations are going in order to receive their prices for their product. St. Louis cotton men say that suggestions of this character have unquestionably done considerable harm to the Texas trade.

BUSINESS AT STANDSTILL ON ST. L. EXCHANGE

Transactions Are Confined to About Half a Dozen Quotations.

RYS. PFD. IS UNCHANGED

Bid and Ask Show No Deviation From Recent Prices.

Business on the St. Louis Stock Exchange continues inactive. The first session of Tuesday was one of the quietest in the history of the exchange. The reason for this condition is undoubtedly to be found in the still uncertain attitude of the New York stock market. Quotations, which were few, showed no change from recent transactions.

The only sales recorded at the two sessions of the Exchange were 10 of Railways common and five of the preferred. The latter showed and advance of ½ a point over Monday's transaction.

TRADE CONGRESS IS WELCOMED BY INDIAN CHIEF

Head of Creek Nation Heard by Transmississippi Delegates.

BOOMS PARCELS POST

Federal Representative Is Sent by Meyer—Francis a Speaker.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Nov. 19.—The eighteenth convention of the Transmississippi Commercial Congress convened here at noon today with delegates from all parts of the West in attendance. Former Governor David R. Francis of St. Louis delivered a welcoming address. Chief Maty Tiger of the Creek Indians also addressed the delegates, his words being spoken in the Indian tongue and interpreted as he proceeded.

Representatives of several Federal departments at Washington also are here. They will boom the adoption of the parcels post system and the further reclamation of lands through irrigation.

Welcomed by Indian Chief.

Chief Tiger said:

"Men of the West: It gives me much pleasure to greet you. You will see around you our people, not as many as we were in the years that have passed. In the sunrise of your country's history, we were on the shore of the distant ocean to welcome your fathers. Then we were many and you were few. Now in this new land, where in a few short weeks our life as a nation must cease, we are few and you are many.

"We shall live in the hope that the passing away of the different tribes, or nations, as a distinct people, will not be written in history as a tragedy but as a new birth which will bring to my people blessings such as you enjoy.

"The polished and educated man with Indian blood in his veins who advocates the removal of restrictions from the lands of my ignorant people, apart from governmental regulations, is only reaching for gold to ease his itching palms, and our posterity will remember him only for his avarice and his treachery."

Irrigation Boon to Farmer.

F. H. Newell, director of the Reclamation Service, told of what had been done in the way of irrigation. He said in part:

"A decided impetus has been given the rapid development of the West by the operation of the Reclamation Service, which began in 1902 to subjugate vast areas of the great American desert.

"In this brief space of time nearly $40,000,000 has been expended on 26 great irrigation works in 16 states and territories, in the construction of huge masonry dams, in broad canals and reservoirs of enormous capacities. Several of these works are completed and are supplying today water to thousands of acres of land.

"The present plans of the bureau provide for the expenditure of nearly $100,000,000 and the reclamation of more than 3,000,000 acres, an area larger than the combined cultivated acreage of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Florida.

A bitter fight will be made on the parcels post resolutions by the Western delegates, it is believed. C. B. Keene, representing Postmaster-General Meyer, wants included in the recommendations to Congress an expression favorable to the parcels post.

Bazar at the Odeon.

You are cordially invited to attend a bazar in the Masonic rooms at the Odeon today, Tuesday, Nov. 19, all afternoon and evening. The bazar is given for the Organ Fund of the new Temple Israel by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Take dinner there this evening with your family. Amusements will be provided for the children.

HIGHWAYMAN LOSES NERVE AND FLEES FROM MAN AND COIN

Lack of Nerve Saves Railway Company $200 in East St. Louis.

Kern McCorkle and a highwayman were about equally scared when they drew revolvers on one another and fired, in East St. Louis Monday evening. The highwayman's bullet went through an end of a handsatchel McCorkle carried, containing $200, left after paying off employes of the Illinois Traction System at its Lynch street freighthouse, near the city limits.

McCorkle started back on foot to the main offices at 309 North Third street, and was startled when a man with a drawn revolver dashed from a cattle chute at Seventh and Lynch streets.

McCorkle says he does not know whether the highwayman intended to fire, or the revolver was discharged through nervousness. After the shot McCorkle, snatching out his revolver, fired twice at the man, who fled rapidly. McCorkle lives in Edwardsville.

COURT DECIDED IN HIS FAVOR

Cooper Fought to Retain Formula Which Has Made a Fortune.

L. T. Cooper, the man who believes that 90 per cent of all ill health of this generation is caused by stomach trouble, is fast winning a national faith in his theory. His claim is now admitted by a surprising number of people throughout the country, and he is gaining new adherents every day.

While speaking of his success in a recent interview, Mr. Cooper said: "I believed ten years ago that any one who could produce a formula that would thoroughly regulate the stomach would have a fortune. When I got hold of this formula I knew within six months that I was right, and that my fortune was made. I called the medicine Cooper's New Discovery, although I did not get up the formula. I have owned it, however, for over three years. I have had one lawsuit over it, which I won in the courts. When it was settled the Cooper Medicine Company became the only firm in the world that can prepare the medicine. The preparation has sold like wildfire wherever introduced. As I have said before, it is successful simply because it puts the stomach in perfect shape, then nature does the rest. There are any number of complaints never before associated with stomach trouble that the medicine has alleviated in thousands of cases."

Among statements obtained recently from users of this medicine that is arousing such universal discussion is one from Mrs. Emma Stanley, living in Chicago at 713 Washington boulevard, who said: "Perhaps I had the most complicated case that Mr. Cooper had to deal with. I was troubled for years with my stomach. I consulted with doctors and took many patent medicine preparations without result. My stomach was in such a wretched shape that I could not enjoy a meal that I ate.

"I was very nervous and could hardly sleep; I had a roaring in my ears and dancing spots before my eyes. I felt very bad and weak. Then there was a very sore spot at the pit of my stomach that nearly set me wild.

"I heard about the Cooper medicine and decided to try it. I used four bottles and the improvement in my case has been really wonderful. My nerves have been quieted, and I am so much improved that I feel like a new woman.

"I cannot say too much for these wonderful remedies, for they have made me well."

The Cooper Remedies are sold in St. Louis by all druggists.
